Hungary's Red Boss Ousted

Marine Calls Death March Maltreatment

McKeon's Ex-Boss Gives His Opinion In 'Hypothetical Case'

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., July 18 (AP)—A stern Marine lieutenant colonel said today the type march on which S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon led six Marines to death could be called maltreatment.

Lt. Col. Robert A. Thompson of Syracuse, N.Y., McKeon's former boss, appeared as a prosecution witness in the general court-martial of the 31-year-old former drill instructor from Worcester, Mass.

McKeon has been charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits and two counts of drinking in a duty status as a result of the march by the 74-man recruit platoon into a tidal creek.

The impassive sergeant pleaded innocent yesterday to the major counts and the court entered a plea of innocent for him on the lesser counts.

"Hypothetical Case"

Thompson's opinion was offered on cross-examination in a "hypothetical case," the circumstances of which were identical to the McKeon incident of April 8.

Before Thompson, recruit battalion commander, appeared on the stand, the defense argued that McKeon owed "no apology to anyone" for marching the six Marines to death in a soggy marsh.

Defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City held that if any apology is due it "should not be made by McKeon."

Berman has contended all along that the training methods used by McKeon were normal at this training center.

Warned Drill Instructors

Thompson, under cross-examination, was asked if he considered a march such as that conducted by McKeon maltreatment.

"Without adequate reconnaissance, without adequate safeguards. . . with full knowledge that some members of the platoon could not swim. . . it would be maltreatment," Thompson told Berman.

In replying to all questions by the defense, Thompson rapped out his replies sharply.

Thompson told of a briefing he gave McKeon and other new drill instructors as they reported for duty with the battalion. He said he warned them against practices of hazing and maltreatment and gave them a lecture on the "common pitfalls."

Maryland Delegation Says "Thanks" To Congress

Dulles Sees Armed Force Slash Trend

Nuclear Weapons, Tension Reduction Viewed As Factors

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today forecast new reductions in the armed forces of nations around the globe, including Russia.

He told a news conference this is a "general trend", mainly because nations are relying more on atomic-hydrogen weapons and less on manpower.

A reduction of East-West tensions is also a factor he said, because this means "there is less risk of war than was the case."

Replying to questions, Dulles said he would make no political objections to any move by North Atlantic Pact allies to cut back their forces, if competent military authorities decided fewer men were needed to guard Europe against surprise attack.

U. S. Cuts Considered

Dulles spoke out in the wake of reports that some Defense Department authorities are considering substantial cuts in the American Army, Navy and Air Force during the next three years.

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has been reported pressing this drive in the face of bitter opposition from Army leaders.

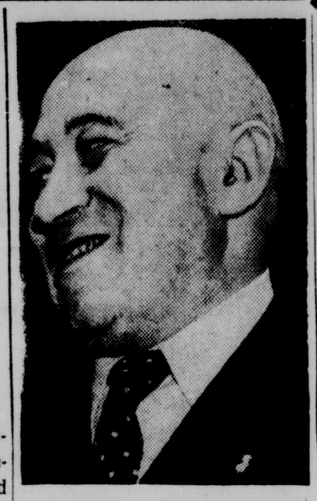

Dulles, in an obvious move to avoid taking sides publicly in the dispute, insisted that while he has discussed "the broad general policies," he knows nothing about the scope of the manpower slashes being considered.

Hopeful But Cautious

He expressed hope, however, that political developments will be favorable enough in the next 10 years to bring back some of the American forces stationed overseas, mostly in Western Germany.

He cautioned, however, that any such withdrawals depend on developments and that if the peace outlook darkened it might even be necessary to increase the number of troops overseas.

Dulles stressed that even if the United States reduces its man-power strength it will be urgent "to maintain a certain measure of superiority or equality with the Soviet Union in terms of atomic weapons, missiles and means of their delivery."

DEPOSED — Matyas Rakosi (above), friend of the late Joseph Stalin and a foe of President Tito of Yugoslavia, last night resigned under fire as boss of Communist Hungary. He was replaced as first secretary of the party by Erno Geroe, first deputy premier.

Rakosi, Stalin Pal And Tito's Enemy, Falls

Erno Geroe, Deputy Premier, Winner In Struggle For Power

VIENNA, Austria, July 18 (AP)—The biggest "little Stalin" of Russia's East European satellites fell tonight.

Matyas Rakosi, long the boss of Communist Hungary, resigned under fire. The party's Central Committee accepted his resignation.

Budapest radio said he was replaced as first secretary of the party by Erno Geroe, first deputy premier. Geroe, as Hungary's No. 2 Communist, had engaged Rakosi in a struggle for power.

Rakosi was removed from party leadership and from membership in the all-powerful Politburo after confessing he practiced Stalinist dictatorship.

Rakosi likewise pleaded he is an old and sick man. He is 65.

This probably is the final curtain to the political career of the Hungarian who was a friend of Stalin and a foe of President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Rakosi was the first top satellite leader to fall in the widespread unrest since the bloody bread and freedom revolt of workers in Poznan, Poland, July 28.

Triumph For Tito

The shakeup of the Communist high command may have been designed partly to head off such an uprising in Hungary. The Hungarian government has been promising owners a better deal just as the Polish government had before the Poznan uprising.

But Rakosi's removal was regarded in Vienna and Belgrade particularly as a triumph for Tito. Rakosi was a leader in expelling Tito from the Cominform in 1948 and he dragged his feet on the recent reconciliation.

In Belgrade, Rakosi's fall was received with satisfaction. Government circles there said the ouster of the Hungarian strong man was long overdue. They considered him the main obstacle to good neighborly relations between Hungary and Yugoslavia.

The fall of "Old Potato Head," as the bald Rakosi was called by some of his Central European neighbors, came less than a month after Tito's trip to Russia. It was reported Tito demanded Rakosi's ouster.

Follows Bulgarian Shakeup

Thus Tito added the scalp of a second little Stalin. In April, Moscow deposed Vuko Chervenkov as premier of Bulgaria. He also had been slow in making up with Tito after the Moscow-Belgrade reconciliation.

Budapest radio said Rakosi confessed in a letter to the party Central Committee that he had committed grave mistakes.

Rakosi admitted practicing the dictatorial "personality cult," the Communist phrase for Stalinism. He confessed he had violated "Socialist legality." That means he threw innocent persons into prison.

Resigned State Auditor Confers With Prosecutor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18 (AP)—Orville E. Hodge, state auditor who resigned when a storm of scandal broke over his office, talked for hours with a prosecutor today.

The prosecutor told newsmen Hodge was talking at great length about allegations of irregularities involving more than a half-million dollars in public money.

Hodge, big, dapper Republican politician, went to the office of State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon for the conference.

Coutrakon emerged three hours after the huddle began and reported: "It's progressing. It's going to take several more hours."

Quizzing Continues Friday

Hodge left the courthouse after five hours of questioning. He was scheduled to return at 9:30 a.m. Friday. The Friday date was arranged because Arthur M. Fitzgerald, Hodge's lawyer, has other legal business tomorrow.

Reporters asked if there had been "any admission of guilt."

"I won't answer that," Coutrakon replied.

Asked if Hodge was being cooperative, the Sangamon County prosecutor said:

"He hasn't refused to answer any questions. I hope to get enough evidence to present to the grand jury."

Asked if Hodge had mentioned the names of any others, Coutrakon said some names had been mentioned but he is not ready to discuss them.

Details Of Story Not Revealed

Coutrakon declined to report any details of Hodge's story. He announced that, before any information is made public, he will go over the Hodge statement with Atty. Gen. Latham Castle and Albert Jenner, special counsel to the Illinois Budgetary Commission.

Hodge, who resigned Monday, issued a statement yesterday saying he will sign an immunity waiver when he appears before the Sangamon County grand jury. He also stated that he would "make restitution" to the extent of his resources.

Government Works Under Big Handicap To Get Captive Data

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The State Department said today it has been handicapped in efforts to liberate Americans believed held in Russia because of difficulty in penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy told Congress "vigorous diplomatic action" is taken whenever circumstantial evidence is sufficient to indicate the Soviets actually are illegally detaining American citizens.

Murphy said the government is working on cases possibly involving Army personnel in addition to the airmen it has charged Russia with holding incommunicado.

Murphy was called to a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees to relate details of the note delivered to Moscow on Monday accusing the Soviets of secretly holding a number of U.S. fliers.

He said in a statement released after the joint meeting that the United States hopes publicity about the note will encourage persons repatriated from Russia to come forward and "give us additional information."

Success also hinges, Murphy said, "on the possibility that the Soviet authorities will actually make an attempt to find out, if they do not already know what American personnel they have been holding of whom they have not notified us."

Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said Murphy acknowledged the government lacks "concrete, documentary" evidence that particular individuals are in Soviet custody.

George added, however, that "hearsay and second-hand" evidence is ample to justify action.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of George's committee said he was convinced the State Department is doing all it can, "even grasping at straws."

The U.S. note said this country was "compelled to believe" that Russia has detained some of the 22 crew members of two downed planes. It mentioned specifically a Navy Privateer that went down in the Baltic Sea region April 8, 1950, and a B29 bomber lost over the Sea of Japan or near Kamchatka in Siberia on June 13, 1942.

U.S. Army Puts GIs In Germany Under Curfew

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 18 (AP)—The U.S. Army, concerned over strong German blasts at "GI crime," tightened its reins on American soldiers today by invoking an order that enlisted men must be in their quarters by midnight six days a week.

In effect it is a curfew. But officials at U. S. Army in Europe headquarters here shied away from the word.

They said, instead, that the Army is merely going to enforce tightly a 15-month-old decree that enlisted men have to be in quarters by midnight every night before they are scheduled for duty, and by 1 a.m., before nonduty days.

Officers Exempted

Every day but Sunday is considered a duty day. Officials said the regulations do not apply to officers or to troops with official leave orders.

A 500-word announcement on the subject by Gen. Henry I Hodes, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe, made no reference to the fact the regulation had gone into the books in April 1955.

Hodes, in ordering the restrictions instituted at once, said the action was taken to halt "unfortunate incidents" involving American soldiers and German civilians—incidents which have included robbery, killings and rape.

No Change In Policy

Four hours later, his headquarters put out another statement. This said the general's order does not represent a change of policy, but calls on unit commanders "to enforce rigidly a current directive."

The headquarters statement also pointed to a 1955 directive governing passes and said "only enlisted personnel whose conduct is exemplary and who are known to their commanders to be trustworthy and reliable" may receive passes.

Hodes' strongly worded statement declared "misfits and law breakers" must be eliminated from the U.S. Army for the good of the service and the nation.

Far East-Pacific Command To Be Set Up In Hawaii

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Defense Department, in a sweeping change, today shifted command of all U.S. military forces in the Far East and the Pacific to Hawaii.

It placed a Navy man, Adm. Felix Stump, in over-all charge. Since World War II Army generals have headed the Far East command.

The department said it will abolish the Far East Command in Japan and move the United Nations Command from Japan to Korea.

The Pentagon said that the general overhaul of its command structure will take effect next July 1 to "simplify the command and organization" of all United States forces in the Pacific-Asian areas.

Stump 62 In December

Stump, who has been Navy commander in chief, Pacific, and commander of the Pacific Fleet for three years, was recently authorized by President Eisenhower to remain on active duty beyond the normal retirement age of 62. Stump reaches this age next December.

The Army has held the senior command in the Far East since Gen. Douglas MacArthur set up his headquarters in Tokyo at the end of World War II. The present Far East and U.N. commander is Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, who has headed both commands since June 5, 1955.

The Pentagon said a lesser headquarters will be set up in Japan to administer U.S. forces remaining in that country. The United States has one Army division and support units in Japan plus Air Force and Navy forces.

Four-Pronged Objective

A spokesman for the Joint Chiefs of Staff said the command changes were designed to achieve four things:

1. Eliminate divided responsibility between the present Pacific and Far East commanders, particularly in such key areas as Formosa and Okinawa.

2. Provide flexibility for the control of forces of all the services, land, sea and air.

3. Reduce the number of headquarters, with a probable reduction in personnel.

4. Concentrate under one commander the important responsibilities for all naval, ground and air activities in the entire area stretching from the U.S. Pacific coast to the coasts of Asia.

President Signs Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed legislation authorizing over four billion dollars in foreign military and economic aid this fiscal year.

The amount is about one billion dollars less than the President had requested to bolster the free nations of the world against communism.

The bill appropriates no money for the year which started July 1 but sets the terms and ceilings on the program. The House has passed separate legislation providing $3,425,120,000 in actual funds and the Senate Appropriations Committee has upped this to $4,105,420,000—some $9,655,000 below the authorization.

A Senate fight was expected later this week over efforts to bring the Senate figure down to the House total. Some senators have said they will renew their efforts to wipe out aid for Yugoslavia.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) today put through a unanimous consent agreement to limit debate. However, he told the Senate he did not expect the measure to be voted on until Friday.

Cop Rescues Tot From TV Antenna

ELKHART, Ind., July 18 (AP) — A 3-year-old Chicago girl was rescued last night from near the top of a 60-foot television antenna by a 6-foot-5, 225-pound policeman.

Harriet Skom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Skom, climbed the tripod steel antenna at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel New, where she and her mother had gone for a brief visit.

Missing the child, the women went to look for her. They heard her answer when they called. But they couldn't see her. Finally, Mrs. New looked toward the antenna and saw her "frozen" near the top.

Husky Robert Raeder, first officer on the scene, shed his coat and gun belt and climbed the lattice-work tower to bring the child down just as a fire department ladder truck roared up.

Tito And Nasser Strengthen Ties, Talk With Nehru

BRIONI, Yugoslavia, July 18 (AP)—Presidents Tito and Nasser today announced a tightening of bonds between Yugoslavia and Egypt. Then they traded views for 5½ hours with Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Nehru said the three-nation talks were only a friendly exchange without any decisions.

"We have not settled all the questions of the world—I repeat not," Nehru said. "It is really extraordinary that we cannot hold a friendly meeting without you of the press attaching the highest importance to it."

Tito, however, called the three-nation talks "very, very successful—cordial and friendly."

They will continue tomorrow. Nehru is scheduled to accompany Nasser to Cairo later in the day.

An effort by Algerian Nationalists to persuade the three prominent advocates of neutralism to say something on the French-Algerian conflict apparently failed.

An Indian source said Nehru was cold to the idea. An Egyptian said Nasser was irritated by the appearance of four Algerian Nationalists in nearby Pula and did not push the Algerian issue.

Train Hits Bumper Guard; 34 Injured

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 18 (AP)—A commuter train with some 350 passengers aboard hit a bumper guard at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Exchange Place terminal today injuring 34 persons, few seriously.

The Pennsylvania train from Bayhead Junction, N.J., banged into the guard without warning, sending standing travelers sprawling.

U.S. Cracks Down On Nickel Black Market

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The government today announced a crackdown on "black market" operators in defense vital nickel which an official said may send 13 cases to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Horace B. McCoy, deputy administrator of the Business and Defense Services Administration, declined to name publicly in a Senate Preparedness subcommittee hearing any of the individuals and firms whose "willful violations" he said his investigators have uncovered.

McCoy said the charges stem from a BDSA investigation of what happened to between 600,000 and 1,200,000 pounds of nickel "that might have been illegally claimed for defense purposes" by firms and persons who bought it. He said the cases all lie "in the area of the plating industry."

Blast Wrecks Three Homes

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP) — An illuminating gas explosion wrecked three frame homes near the East River in Queens today. Five persons were injured, including an infant.

Bulldozers were working on the wreckage on the chance that three more persons might be trapped. However, firemen believed the three unaccounted for may have been absent from their homes when the blast occurred.

The explosion shattered one home and left it a heap of smoking rubble. The homes on either side of it had their walls smashed.

A sliver of glass slashed 12-year-old James Shand on the hand as he played in the street. He said:

"It just made a big boom and then the building was gone."

Each of the three buildings accommodated two families. Many tenants were not yet home from work when the explosion occurred about 5:20 p.m.

Buses Attacked

LIMA, Peru, July 18 (AP)—Students set fire to a bus and stoned nine others last night in protest against increased fares. Some passengers were injured.

'Jets-For-Tito' Deal Under Fire

WASHINGTON, July 18 (INS) — Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland tonight urged Congress to bar the proposed shipment of 380 jet planes to Communist Yugoslavia.

Knowland offered an amendment to the four billion dollar foreign aid appropriation bill which would earmark funds for maintenance of present equipment, but not for the purchase of new planes.

Senate GOP policy chairman Styles Bridges, N. H. and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R) Maine, joined Knowland in sponsoring the provision.

Bridges disclosed the move on NBC's "Press Conference" almost simultaneously with Knowland's introduction of the amendment. Bridges, under questioning, said he was opposed to aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland said he offered the amendment at a Senate Appropriations Committee hearings on the bill, but it was defeated, 11 to 10.

Asked whether his proposal was aimed at the "jets-for-Tito" deal, which was revealed last Sunday by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., editor-in-chief of the Hearst newspapers, Knowland said:

"This is definitely related to not only jets which otherwise would go, but also to artillery and other equipment."

The Republican move came as two Democrats, Sens. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyo. and John McClellan, Ark., prodded the administration to unveil the full story of the jet plane plan.

'Hagerty Curtain' Charge Stirs Up Storm In Senate

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — A charge that facts about President Eisenhower's health are being suppressed behind a "Hagerty Curtain" stirred a bitter argument in the Senate tonight.

The charge was made by Sen. McNamara (D-Mich), who declared much of the press was at fault. He said it failed to tell the people that, at a time when Eisenhower was represented as making important decisions, he was "under sedatives."

Sen. Knowland (Calif), Republican leader, said he was "greatly shocked" by McNamara's accusations, which he interpreted as an attack on the integrity of Eisenhower.

Knowland denied American newspapers have entered any "conspiracy" to suppress facts.

McNamara, in his speech to the Senate, attacked what he called "apparent manipulation of facts" in newspapers.

Referring to presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, he said a "Hagerty Curtain" has been erected to keep the public "from the truth in one of the most masterful suppressions of the facts ever put across by the advertising techniques of Madison Avenue."

In criticizing the press, McNamara made several exceptions.

He said Publisher John S. Knight "has had the courage to publish the truth." Columnist Doris Fleeson, he said, has tried "to skim the whipped cream off the propaganda."

McNamara also praised columnist Drew Pearson and Tom Donnelly, a writer for the Washington Daily News.

Boy's Eyesight Sacrificed In Effort To Save His Life

ORLANDO, Fla., July 18 (AP) — Mike Sibole's eyesight was sacrificed today to give him a 50-50 chance of growing to manhood but in a world of darkness.

The surgeon who removed the 4-year-old boy's left eye this morning, asking to remain anonymous, said it is an even chance that with the eye and a large section of the optic nerve came all the cancer cells which have cost Mike both eyes.

The last thing Mike saw was a doctor in a green skull cap bending over to administer the ether at 7:55 a.m. The operation started at 8:10 and ended at 8:51.

Mike was a brave patient, the doctors reported. He didn't cry and he wasn't afraid.

He looked a little sleepy when he walked into Holiday House Hospital at 7:20, holding the hands of his mother, Mrs. James M. Sibole, and grandmother, Mrs. Henry Malone of Miami.

His father, the Rev. James M. Sibole, parked the car and then hurried into the small private hospital.

While Mike was in surgery, the family sat in his quiet room overlooking Lake Lurna praying for God to guide the surgeon's hands.

There were other prayers, too.

A woman who didn't give her name called the hospital and said she was one of a group that prayed throughout the operation. Was it successful? she asked.

"It went according to schedule," the surgeon reported. Whether he excised all the cancer cells and saved the child's life can't be determined yet.

The prosecutor told newsmen Hodge was talking at great length about allegations of irregularities involving more than a half-million dollars in public money.

Hodge, big, dapper Republican politician, went to the office of State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon for the conference.

Coutrakon emerged three hours after the huddle began and reported: "It's progressing. It's going to take several more hours."

Quizzing Continues Friday

Hodge left the courthouse after five hours of questioning. He was scheduled to return at 9:30 a.m. Friday. The Friday date was arranged because Arthur M. Fitzgerald, Hodge's lawyer, has other legal business tomorrow.

Reporters asked if there had been "any admission of guilt."

"I won't answer that," Coutrakon replied.

Asked if Hodge was being cooperative, the Sangamon County prosecutor said:

"He hasn't refused to answer any questions. I hope to get enough evidence to present to the grand jury."

Asked if Hodge had mentioned the names of any others, Coutrakon said some names had been mentioned but he is not ready to discuss them.

Details Of Story Not Revealed

Coutrakon declined to report any details of Hodge's story. He announced that, before any information is made public, he will go over the Hodge statement with Atty. Gen. Latham Castle and Albert Jenner, special counsel to the Illinois Budgetary Commission.

Hodge, who resigned Monday, issued a statement yesterday saying he will sign an immunity waiver when he appears before the Sangamon County grand jury. He also stated that he would "make restitution" to the extent of his resources.

Government Works Under Big Handicap To Get Captive Data

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The State Department said today it has been handicapped in efforts to liberate Americans believed held in Russia because of difficulty in penetrating the Iron Curtain.

Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy told Congress "vigorous diplomatic action" is taken whenever circumstantial evidence is sufficient to indicate the Soviets actually are illegally detaining American citizens.

Murphy said the government is working on cases possibly involving Army personnel in addition to the airmen it has charged Russia with holding incommunicado.

Murphy was called to a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees to relate details of the note delivered to Moscow on Monday accusing the Soviets of secretly holding a number of U.S. fliers.

He said in a statement released after the joint meeting that the United States hopes publicity about the note will encourage persons repatriated from Russia to come forward and "give us additional information."

Success also hinges, Murphy said, "on the possibility that the Soviet authorities will actually make an attempt to find out, if they do not already know what American personnel they have been holding of whom they have not notified us."

Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said Murphy acknowledged the government lacks "concrete, documentary" evidence that particular individuals are in Soviet custody.

George added, however, that "hearsay and second-hand" evidence is ample to justify action.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of George's committee said he was convinced the State Department is doing all it can, "even grasping at straws."

The U.S. note said this country was "compelled to believe" that Russia has detained some of the 22 crew members of two downed planes. It mentioned specifically a Navy Privateer that went down in the Baltic Sea region April 8, 1950, and a B29 bomber lost over the Sea of Japan or near Kamchatka in Siberia on June 13, 1942.

U.S. Army Puts GIs In Germany Under Curfew

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 18 (AP)—The U.S. Army, concerned over strong German blasts at "GI crime," tightened its reins on American soldiers today by invoking an order that enlisted men must be in their quarters by midnight six days a week.

In effect it is a curfew. But officials at U. S. Army in Europe headquarters here shied away from the word.

They said, instead, that the Army is merely going to enforce tightly a 15-month-old decree that enlisted men have to be in quarters by midnight every night before they are scheduled for duty, and by 1 a.m., before nonduty days.

Officers Exempted

Every day but Sunday is considered a duty day. Officials said the regulations do not apply to officers or to troops with official leave orders.

A 500-word announcement on the subject by Gen. Henry I Hodes, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe, made no reference to the fact the regulation had gone into the books in April 1955.

Hodes, in ordering the restrictions instituted at once, said the action was taken to halt "unfortunate incidents" involving American soldiers and German civilians—incidents which have included robbery, killings and rape.

No Change In Policy

Four hours later, his headquarters put out another statement. This said the general's order does not represent a change of policy, but calls on unit commanders "to enforce rigidly a current directive."

The headquarters statement also pointed to a 1955 directive governing passes and said "only enlisted personnel whose conduct is exemplary and who are known to their commanders to be trustworthy and reliable" may receive passes.

Hodes' strongly worded statement declared "misfits and law breakers" must be eliminated from the U.S. Army for the good of the service and the nation.

Cop Rescues Tot From TV Antenna

ELKHART, Ind., July 18 (AP)—A 3-year-old Chicago girl was rescued last night from near the top of a 60-foot television antenna by a 6-foot-5, 225-pound policeman.

Harriet Skom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Skom, climbed the tripod steel antenna at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel New, where she and her mother had gone for a brief visit.

Missing the child, the women went to look for her. They heard her answer when they called. But they couldn't see her. Finally, Mrs. New looked toward the antenna and saw her "frozen" near the top.

Husky Robert Raeder, first officer on the scene, shed his coat and gun belt and climbed the lattice-work tower to bring the child down just as a fire department ladder truck roared up.

Tito And Nasser Strengthen Ties, Talk With Nehru

BRIONI, Yugoslavia, July 18 (AP)—Presidents Tito and Nasser today announced a tightening of bonds between Yugoslavia and Egypt. Then they traded views for 5½ hours with Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Nehru said the three-nation talks were only a friendly exchange without any decisions.

"We have not settled all the questions of the world—I repeat not," Nehru said. "It is really extraordinary that we cannot hold a friendly meeting without you of the press attaching the highest importance to it."

Tito, however, called the three-nation talks "very, very successful—cordial and friendly."

They will continue tomorrow. Nehru is scheduled to accompany Nasser to Cairo later in the day.

An effort by Algerian Nationalists to persuade the three prominent advocates of neutralism to say something on the French-Algerian conflict apparently failed.

An Indian source said Nehru was cold to the idea. An Egyptian said Nasser was irritated by the appearance of four Algerian Nationalists in nearby Pula and did not push the Algerian issue.

U.S. Cracks Down On Nickel Black Market

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The government today announced a crackdown on "black market" operators in defense vital nickel which an official said may send 13 cases to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Horace B. McCoy, deputy administrator of the Business and Defense Services Administration, declined to name publicly in a Senate Preparedness subcommittee hearing any of the individuals and firms whose "willful violations" he said his investigators have uncovered.

McCoy said the charges stem from a BDSA investigation of what happened to between 600,000 and 1,200,000 pounds of nickel "that might have been illegally claimed for defense purposes" by firms and persons who bought it. He said the cases all lie "in the area of the plating industry."

Blast Wrecks Three Homes

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP) — An illuminating gas explosion wrecked three frame homes near the East River in Queens today. Five persons were injured, including an infant.

Bulldozers were working on the wreckage on the chance that three more persons might be trapped. However, firemen believed the three unaccounted for may have been absent from their homes when the blast occurred.

The explosion shattered one home and left it a heap of smoking rubble. The homes on either side of it had their walls smashed.

A sliver of glass slashed 12-year-old James Shand on the hand as he played in the street. He said:

"It just made a big boom and then the building was gone."

Each of the three buildings accommodated two families. Many tenants were not yet home from work when the explosion occurred about 5:20 p.m.

Buses Attacked

LIMA, Peru, July 18 (AP)—Students set fire to a bus and stoned nine others last night in protest against increased fares. Some passengers were injured.

President Signs Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed legislation authorizing over four billion dollars in foreign military and economic aid this fiscal year.

The amount is about one billion dollars less than the President had requested to bolster the free nations of the world against communism.

The bill appropriates no money for the year which started July 1 but sets the terms and ceilings on the program. The House has passed separate legislation providing $3,425,120,000 in actual funds and the Senate Appropriations Committee has upped this to $4,105,420,000—some $9,655,000 below the authorization.

A Senate fight was expected later this week over efforts to bring the Senate figure down to the House total. Some senators have said they will renew their efforts to wipe out aid for Yugoslavia.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) today put through a unanimous consent agreement to limit debate. However, he told the Senate he did not expect the measure to be voted on until Friday.

'Hagerty Curtain' Charge Stirs Up Storm In Senate

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — A charge that facts about President Eisenhower's health are being suppressed behind a "Hagerty Curtain" stirred a bitter argument in the Senate tonight.

The charge was made by Sen. McNamara (D-Mich), who declared much of the press was at fault. He said it failed to tell the people that, at a time when Eisenhower was represented as making important decisions, he was "under sedatives."

Sen. Knowland (Calif), Republican leader, said he was "greatly shocked" by McNamara's accusations, which he interpreted as an attack on the integrity of Eisenhower.

Knowland denied American newspapers have entered any "conspiracy" to suppress facts.

McNamara, in his speech to the Senate, attacked what he called "apparent manipulation of facts" in newspapers.

Referring to presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, he said a "Hagerty Curtain" has been erected to keep the public "from the truth in one of the most masterful suppressions of the facts ever put across by the advertising techniques of Madison Avenue."

In criticizing the press, McNamara made several exceptions.

He said Publisher John S. Knight "has had the courage to publish the truth." Columnist Doris Fleeson, he said, has tried "to skim the whipped cream off the propaganda."

McNamara also praised columnist Drew Pearson and Tom Donnelly, a writer for the Washington Daily News.

Train Hits Bumper Guard; 34 Injured

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 18 (AP)—A commuter train with some 350 passengers aboard hit a bumper guard at the Pennsylvania Railroad's Exchange Place terminal today injuring 34 persons, few seriously.

The Pennsylvania train from Bayhead Junction, N.J., banged into the guard without warning, sending standing travelers sprawling.

'Jets-For-Tito' Deal Under Fire

WASHINGTON, July 18 (INS) — Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland tonight urged Congress to bar the proposed shipment of 380 jet planes to Communist Yugoslavia.

Knowland offered an amendment to the four billion dollar foreign aid appropriation bill which would earmark funds for maintenance of present equipment, but not for the purchase of new planes.

Senate GOP policy chairman Styles Bridges, N. H. and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R) Maine, joined Knowland in sponsoring the provision.

Bridges disclosed the move on NBC's "Press Conference" almost simultaneously with Knowland's introduction of the amendment. Bridges, under questioning, said he was opposed to aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland said he offered the amendment at a Senate Appropriations Committee hearings on the bill, but it was defeated, 11 to 10.

Asked whether his proposal was aimed at the "jets-for-Tito" deal, which was revealed last Sunday by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., editor-in-chief of the Hearst newspapers, Knowland said:

"This is definitely related to not only jets which otherwise would go, but also to artillery and other equipment."

The Republican move came as two Democrats, Sens. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyo. and John McClellan, Ark., prodded the administration to unveil the full story of the jet plane plan.

Boy's Eyesight Sacrificed In Effort To Save His Life

ORLANDO, Fla., July 18 (AP) — Mike Sibole's eyesight was sacrificed today to give him a 50-50 chance of growing to manhood but in a world of darkness.

The surgeon who removed the 4-year-old boy's left eye this morning, asking to remain anonymous, said it is an even chance that with the eye and a large section of the optic nerve came all the cancer cells which have cost Mike both eyes.

The last thing Mike saw was a doctor in a green skull cap bending over to administer the ether at 7:55 a.m. The operation started at 8:10 and ended at 8:51.

Mike was a brave patient, the doctors reported. He didn't cry and he wasn't afraid.

He looked a little sleepy when he walked into Holiday House Hospital at 7:20, holding the hands of his mother, Mrs. James M. Sibole, and grandmother, Mrs. Henry Malone of Miami.

His father, the Rev. James M. Sibole, parked the car and then hurried into the small private hospital.

While Mike was in surgery, the family sat in his quiet room overlooking Lake Lurna praying for God to guide the surgeon's hands.

There were other prayers, too.

A woman who didn't give her name called the hospital and said she was one of a group that prayed throughout the operation. Was it successful? she asked.

"It went according to schedule," the surgeon reported. Whether he excised all the cancer cells and saved the child's life can't be determined yet.

Steel Talks Resume

Union, Industry Discuss Issues Of 18-Day Strike

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration today "bluntly warned the steel companies and the steelworkers union to settle their wage contract differences within a week," the Pittsburgh Post—Gazette said tonight.

The Post-Gazette said there was an "implied threat" that President Eisenhower would invoke the Taft-Hartley Act if necessary to get the 650,000 striking members of the United Steelworkers back on the job.

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (AP)—Steel negotiators today held their longest meeting since the 18-day-old nationwide steel strike began but failed to make any apparent progress.

In a joint statement the two parties said they will meet again tomorrow at an hour to be mutually agreed upon.

After the two-hour negotiating session, both sides conferred separately with the Federal Mediation Service team headed by Director Joseph F. Finnegan.

Finnegan, who earlier in the day had personally told President Eisenhower that both sides are "determined to make an effort" to end the strike, said he would have no comment.

Finnegan did say that he carried a message from President Eisenhower to the striking United Steelworkers and the basic steel-producing companies. He said the message expressed concern about "effects of the strike on the national economy, but more important for the 650,000 workers who are on strike."

John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel Corp. vice president and chief industry negotiator, told newsmen just before entering the conference with the union that "we have not changed our offer; we came here to go to work."

David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president, parried a question on whether the union had moved from its position, saying: "The United Steelworkers are ready, willing and able to make a contract."

Some 103,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off since the 650,000 steelworkers struck on July 1 in a dispute over a new contract.

Before negotiations resumed, Finnegan met briefly with both union and industry representatives. There was no indication what happened.

Developments at the meeting of top industry officials yesterday were kept secret. Stephens and the industry team's 12-member Coordinating Committee reported to the presidents and chairmen of the 12 biggest companies involved in the strike.

MISSING TEXAN'S GIRL FRIEND WEEPS—Juanita Walker, 29, an auto agency secretary, bursts into tears at a Hollywood police station where yesterday she viewed pictures of the bullet-riddled sportscar owned by Eugene H. Robertson, 26, who came to Hollywood three weeks ago after selling his auto body shop in Sudan, Tex. Robertson has been missing since his car was found three nights ago behind a Hollywood hotel. Miss Walker, who dined with Robertson earlier in the evening, could offer no explanation for his disappearance. (AP Photofax)

President Told Both Sides Want Steel Agreement

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to have been informed that both sides in the steel strike "are determined to make every possible effort" to reach an agreement as soon as practicable.

The report came from Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary. He was asked how concerned Eisenhower was about the 18-day old strike, and replied:

"Anything that causes unemployment or an extended disturbance of the economy is of concern to the President."

Snyder said the information that both sides were working determinedly for a settlement was given to Eisenhower by Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service.

The press officer said in reply to questions that he knew of no plans to invoke the Taft-Hartley labor-management law or for Eisenhower to confer with representatives of both sides in the strike.

Snyder said Eisenhower has been getting regular reports on the strike but that until today he had not had an opportunity to get a complete roundup.

To get this roundup, Eisenhower called in Mitchell, Finnegan, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and presidential aide Sherman Adams.

About 650,000 steelworkers are on strike and 75,000 workers in related activities have been thrown out of work.

Customs Simplification Bill Receives Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower's long-sought customs simplification bill was passed by the Senate today, almost a year after it had been approved by the House.

The Senate okayed the measure on a voice vote and sent it to a conference with the House. Differences between the two versions of the bill still must be ironed out.

Under the Senate version, the Treasury estimates that losses in customs revenue will not exceed $300,000 a year.

Eisenhower has been plugging for customs simplification ever since he took office. The bill, aimed broadly at encouraging world trade, is on the President's "must" list for this session of Congress.

The key provision of the Senate version would change the present law requiring that import duties be charged on the foreign value of the goods or the export value, whichever is higher.

Foreign value is the going domestic price in the exporting country. Export value is the price put on the goods for sale in the United States.

Eisenhower requested a simplification basing import duties on export value alone.

RECIFE, Brazil, July 18 (AP) — The collapse of two busy store buildings in downtown Recife yesterday killed 13 persons.

Johnson Praises Congress Record

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) today credited the Senate with having "passed more bills and acted upon more presidential nominations than any of the preceding four congresses."

His statement accompanied a chart prepared by the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, which he heads. It tabulated time in session, bills passed and other data for the 80th, 81st, 82nd, 834d and present 84th sessions of Congress.

The check showed that the Senate had acted on 2,607 measures and 81,341 presidential nominations during the present Congress through July 16 while meeting 1,225 hours and 55 minutes on 214 days since January 1955.

U.S. piano sales grew from 145,000 in 1947 to 178,000 in 1955.

Senate Unit Approves Ankeny Nomination

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee today approved the nomination of Marling J. Ankeny of Maryland to be director of the Bureau of Mines.

No record vote on the nomination was taken in the closed meeting.

Ankeny would succeed John J. Forbes, resigned.

British Defense Spending Slash Is Considered

LONDON, July 18 (AP)—The Eden government was reported today working on plans to slash Britain's defense program by more than 500 million dollars.

Informed sources said such a reduction—amounting to nearly one-eighth of Britain's $4,200,000,000 defense bill this year—would be part of a general recasting of NATO strategy. They emphasized that results of the government's reappraisal of defense policy have not yet been officially considered by Prime Minister Eden's Cabinet.

A government spokesman said that whatever cuts may be decided upon, Britain will stand by its international commitments. He added that final decisions about Britain's future defense spending will be taken only after full consultations inside the 15 - nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO's permanent council in Paris is expected to begin fixing Allied military goals and strategic aims for 1957 and 1958 by September. Three months later foreign ministers of the 15 nations are to act on their recommendations.

Several British newspapers carried reports today that Eden and his colleagues are thinking in terms of a one-billion-dollar reduction — representing nearly one - quarter of the country's defense bill—for the 1957-58 fiscal year.

Dope Peddling Death Sentence Measure Signed

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill allowing juries to recommend the death sentence for persons convicted of selling or giving heroin to minors under age 18.

The legislation generally tightens penalties for narcotics law violations.

For sale or gift of heroin to minors, the minimum sentence becomes 10 years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Other penalties:

For possession of narcotics, 2 to 10 years and a $20,000 fine for the first offense; 5 to 20 years and a $20,000 fine for a second offense and 10 to 40 years and a $20,000 fine for a third offense.

For selling illicit drugs, 5 to 10 years and a $20,000 fine for the first offense; for a second or subsequent offense, 10 to 40 years and a fine of $20,000.

Diplomats Of 21 Nations Gather For OAS Meeting

PANAMA, July 18 (AP)—Diplomats of the 21 American republics gathered today to praise the inter-American system and discuss how to strengthen it.

President Eisenhower is due Friday to join other hemisphere presidents in ceremonies honoring South America's liberator, Simon Bolivar. They commemorate the first conference of American republics in Panama 130 years ago.

Eisenhower's illness caused postponement of the meeting last month.

In a surprise announcement, the provisional government of Argentina said in Buenos Aires that President Pedro Aramburu will attend the sessions. The trip to Panama will put Aramburu on the same soil as Juan Peron, the dictator Aramburu helped depose last September. Peron is a political refugee in Panama.

In preliminary ceremonies today, eight ambassadors in the Organization of American States paid oratorical tributes to Bolivar and the birth of Pan-Americanism.

Panama's Foreign Minister Alberto Boyd welcomed the ambassadors in the tiny colonial hall what could be called the cradle of Pan - Americanism. Bolivar's group met in it in 1826. President Ricardo Arias of Panama earlier received the ambassadors formally.

Three Soldiers Flee Ft. Meade

FT. MEADE, Md., July 18 (AP)—Three young soldiers awaiting court martial on absence without leave charges went "over the hill" again today after overpowering their armed guard.

The guard was marching the prisoners from the post stockade to the air strip to "police up"—when one feigned illness, the public information officer said.

When Pfc. William V. Southard, the guard, went near the prisoners to check on the one who said he was sick, the three grabbed him. After tying Southard with his shoe laces, the spokesman said, the prisoners fled into woods near the northern boundary of this big training base.

Southard broke loose about 10 minutes later and notified military police.

The escaped prisoners were identified as Harrison E. Todd, 18, of near Federalsburg, Md.; James E. Brown, 19, of Monaca, Pa.; and Robert L. Pasco, 21, of near Triadelphia, W. Va.

The public information officer said the three had been confined to the stockade to await court martial. Brown and Pasco faced AWOL charges. Todd was charged with AWOL, desertion and breaking restriction.

Canada Urges Arms Cut As Part Of Pact

OTTAWA, July 18 (AP)—Canada has added its reply to that of other Western nations to a letter from Premier Bulganin asking about policy on reductions in armed forces.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent disclosed in the House of Commons today that he had informed Bulganin that reductions should be part of an agreement providing means to insure that "the reduction measures are in fact carried out."

St. Laurent's letter expressed Canada's satisfaction with the Soviet announcement of a 1,200,000-man cut in Russian armed forces but added this is "somewhat tempered by the reflection that these reductions would have been more timely 10 years ago, when the Western powers demobilized the great armies they had brought together in the common interest of the United Nations.

Fuel Truck Smashup Kills One, Starts Fires

YSLETA, Tex., July 18 (AP)—A fuel truck smashed into a building and sprayed parts of this El Paso suburb with burning gasoline early today. The truck driver was killed and three buildings burned.

Part of the cab of the truck crashed into the bedroom of a woman, injuring her. Also injured was a fireman who battled the flames which gutted one apartment house, destroyed another apartment house and a furniture store and damaged several other buildings in the area.

Damage was estimated by firemen at $150,000.

Dulles To Attend GOP Convention

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will attend the GOP National Convention next month and help to draft the foreign policy plank in the party's platform.

He announced his plans at a news conference today. Dulles said he knew of no precedent for a secretary of state participating in a political convention in this manner.

But he said he didn't think that helping with the platform would be inconsistent with his expressed intention of keeping out of the political campaigning this year.

As far as that goes, he added with a chuckle, he would be delighted to go to the Democratic convention, too, and help write their foreign policy plank. The Democrats haven't invited him, however, he said.

The Republican convention opens in San Francisco Aug.20. Dulles indicated he would go there before that date to attend the hearings of the Platform Committee.

The secretary said he wouldn't make any speeches at the convention.

Polio Cases Show Increase In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—The Chicago Board of Health today said that one death from infantile paralysis and 18 new cases of the disease were reported during the 24-hour period ending at midnight Tuesday.

A total of 212 polio cases and 5 deaths have been reported in Chicago so far this year. At the same time in 1955, 35 cases and 2 deaths were reported.

The death reported yesterday was diagnosed as bulbar polio. The victim was a 4-year-old girl.

Foreign Nations Owe U.S. Billion War Debt

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today foreign governments still owe this country $1,168,000,000 on World War II lend-lease accounts.

In a report required under a 1941 Act of Congress, Eisenhower said repayment of lend-lease aid was "in general, satisfactorily made" during the calendar year 1955. However, he said 16 millions of the remainder was past due.

Senators Charge 'Coverup' In Trading With Russians

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)— A majority of the Senate Investigations subcommittee accused the administration today of wanting to cover up the facts on how much the free world is trading with Russia.

"The subcommittee believes," the majority report said, "that the executive branch wished to withhold from the American people the fact that foreign nations receiving aid from the American taxpayers are in turn helping the Communists to arm themselves against the United States and the free world."

This statement was signed by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark), and Sens. Jackson (D-Wash), Symington (D-Mo), Ervin (D-NC) and McCarthy (R-Wis).

A minority statement, signed by Sens. Mundt (R-SD) and Bender (R-Ohio), said the majority report was distorted and unfair. They said the administration deserved praise for its efforts to hold down East-West trade and such efforts "are not enhanced by partisan political attacks."

The majority report was especially critical of Harold E. Stassen, an aide to President Eisenhower who helped work out a 1954 agreement under which American allies relaxed curbs on the sale to Russia of about 200 items which had been embargoed or controlled as strategic materials. Stassen formerly headed the U.S. foreign aid program.

McCarthy, an old antagonist of Stassen's, joined the Democrats in calling Stassen "an arrogant, evasive and uncandid witness' on what was done at the 1954 meeting.

Stassen and other administration officials testified in hearings held by the subcommittee that the United States reluctantly agreed to the relaxations, and only because of a belief that if it had not, the whole system of embargoes on strategic trade would have collapsed.

Government Extends Soil Bank Deadline

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today extended through July 27 the deadline for farmers to sign agreements putting their lands in the soil bank acreage reserve this year. The deadline had been July 20.

The department also gave farmers additional time to plow under or cut crops on land which they agreed to retire from production under the soil bank agreements.

Final dates for bringing land into compliance with the agreements are set by state agricultural stabilization and conservation committees. Heretofore, those final dates could range between July 15 and July 27. Under today's action they may range between July 31 through Aug. 3.

Steel Talks Resume

Union, Industry Discuss Issues Of 18-Day Strike

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration today "bluntly warned the steel companies and the steelworkers union to settle their wage contract differences within a week," the Pittsburgh Post—Gazette said tonight.

The Post-Gazette said there was an "implied threat" that President Eisenhower would invoke the Taft-Hartley Act if necessary to get the 650,000 striking members of the United Steelworkers back on the job.

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (AP)—Steel negotiators today held their longest meeting since the 18-day-old nationwide steel strike began but failed to make any apparent progress.

In a joint statement the two parties said they will meet again tomorrow at an hour to be mutually agreed upon.

After the two-hour negotiating session, both sides conferred separately with the Federal Mediation Service team headed by Director Joseph F. Finnegan.

Finnegan, who earlier in the day had personally told President Eisenhower that both sides are "determined to make an effort" to end the strike, said he would have no comment.

Finnegan did say that he carried a message from President Eisenhower to the striking United Steelworkers and the basic steel-producing companies. He said the message expressed concern about "effects of the strike on the national economy, but more important for the 650,000 workers who are on strike."

John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel Corp. vice president and chief industry negotiator, told newsmen just before entering the conference with the union that "we have not changed our offer; we came here to go to work."

David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president, parried a question on whether the union had moved from its position, saying: "The United Steelworkers are ready, willing and able to make a contract."

Some 103,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off since the 650,000 steelworkers struck on July 1 in a dispute over a new contract.

Before negotiations resumed, Finnegan met briefly with both union and industry representatives. There was no indication what happened.

Developments at the meeting of top industry officials yesterday were kept secret. Stephens and the industry team's 12-member Coordinating Committee reported to the presidents and chairmen of the 12 biggest companies involved in the strike.

MISSING TEXAN'S GIRL FRIEND WEEPS—Juanita Walker, 29, an auto agency secretary, bursts into tears at a Hollywood police station where yesterday she viewed pictures of the bullet-riddled sportscar owned by Eugene H. Robertson, 26, who came to Hollywood three weeks ago after selling his auto body shop in Sudan, Tex. Robertson has been missing since his car was found three nights ago behind a Hollywood hotel. Miss Walker, who dined with Robertson earlier in the evening, could offer no explanation for his disappearance. (AP Photofax)

President Told Both Sides Want Steel Agreement

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to have been informed that both sides in the steel strike "are determined to make every possible effort" to reach an agreement as soon as practicable.

The report came from Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary. He was asked how concerned Eisenhower was about the 18-day old strike, and replied:

"Anything that causes unemployment or an extended disturbance of the economy is of concern to the President."

Snyder said the information that both sides were working determinedly for a settlement was given to Eisenhower by Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service.

The press officer said in reply to questions that he knew of no plans to invoke the Taft-Hartley labor-management law or for Eisenhower to confer with representatives of both sides in the strike.

Snyder said Eisenhower has been getting regular reports on the strike but that until today he had not had an opportunity to get a complete roundup.

To get this roundup, Eisenhower called in Mitchell, Finnegan, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and presidential aide Sherman Adams.

About 650,000 steelworkers are on strike and 75,000 workers in related activities have been thrown out of work.

Customs Simplification Bill Receives Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower's long-sought customs simplification bill was passed by the Senate today, almost a year after it had been approved by the House.

The Senate okayed the measure on a voice vote and sent it to a conference with the House. Differences between the two versions of the bill still must be ironed out.

Under the Senate version, the Treasury estimates that losses in customs revenue will not exceed $300,000 a year.

Eisenhower has been plugging for customs simplification ever since he took office. The bill, aimed broadly at encouraging world trade, is on the President's "must" list for this session of Congress.

The key provision of the Senate version would change the present law requiring that import duties be charged on the foreign value of the goods or the export value, whichever is higher.

Foreign value is the going domestic price in the exporting country. Export value is the price put on the goods for sale in the United States.

Johnson Praises Congress Record

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) today credited the Senate with having "passed more bills and acted upon more presidential nominations than any of the preceding four congresses."

His statement accompanied a chart prepared by the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, which he heads. It tabulated time in session, bills passed and other data for the 80th, 81st, 82nd, 834d and present 84th sessions of Congress.

The check showed that the Senate had acted on 2,607 measures and 81,341 presidential nominations during the present Congress through July 16 while meeting 1,225 hours and 55 minutes on 214 days since January 1955.

U.S. piano sales grew from 145,000 in 1947 to 178,000 in 1955.

Senate Unit Approves Ankeny Nomination

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee today approved the nomination of Marling J. Ankeny of Maryland to be director of the Bureau of Mines.

No record vote on the nomination was taken in the closed meeting.

The nomination goes to the Senate for final action.

Ankeny would succeed John J. Forbes, resigned.

British Defense Spending Slash Is Considered

LONDON, July 18 (AP)—The Eden government was reported today working on plans to slash Britain's defense program by more than 500 million dollars.

Informed sources said such a reduction—amounting to nearly one-eighth of Britain's $4,200,000,000 defense bill this year—would be part of a general recasting of NATO strategy. They emphasized that results of the government's reappraisal of defense policy have not yet been officially considered by Prime Minister Eden's Cabinet.

A government spokesman said that whatever cuts may be decided upon, Britain will stand by its international commitments. He added that final decisions about Britain's future defense spending will be taken only after full consultations inside the 15 - nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO's permanent council in Paris is expected to begin fixing Allied military goals and strategic aims for 1957 and 1958 by September. Three months later foreign ministers of the 15 nations are to act on their recommendations.

Several British newspapers carried reports today that Eden and his colleagues are thinking in terms of a one-billion-dollar reduction — representing nearly one - quarter of the country's defense bill—for the 1957-58 fiscal year.

Dope Peddling Death Sentence Measure Signed

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill allowing juries to recommend the death sentence for persons convicted of selling or giving heroin to minors under age 18.

The legislation generally tightens penalties for narcotics law violations.

For sale or gift of heroin to minors, the minimum sentence becomes 10 years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Other penalties:

For possession of narcotics, 2 to 10 years and a $20,000 fine for the first offense; 5 to 20 years and a $20,000 fine for a second offense and 10 to 40 years and a $20,000 fine for a third offense.

For selling illicit drugs, 5 to 10 years and a $20,000 fine for the first offense; for a second or subsequent offense, 10 to 40 years and a fine of $20,000.

Diplomats Of 21 Nations Gather For OAS Meeting

PANAMA, July 18 (AP)—Diplomats of the 21 American republics gathered today to praise the inter-American system and discuss how to strengthen it.

President Eisenhower is due Friday to join other hemisphere presidents in ceremonies honoring South America's liberator, Simon Bolivar. They commemorate the first conference of American republics in Panama 130 years ago.

Eisenhower's illness caused postponement of the meeting last month.

In a surprise announcement, the provisional government of Argentina said in Buenos Aires that President Pedro Aramburu will attend the sessions. The trip to Panama will put Aramburu on the same soil as Juan Peron, the dictator Aramburu helped depose last September. Peron is a political refugee in Panama.

In preliminary ceremonies today, eight ambassadors in the Organization of American States paid oratorical tributes to Bolivar and the birth of Pan-Americanism.

Panama's Foreign Minister Alberto Boyd welcomed the ambassadors in the tiny colonial hall what could be called the cradle of Pan - Americanism. Bolivar's group met in it in 1826. President Ricardo Arias of Panama earlier received the ambassadors formally.

Three Soldiers Flee Ft. Meade

FT. MEADE, Md., July 18 (AP)—Three young soldiers awaiting court martial on absence without leave charges went "over the hill" again today after overpowering their armed guard.

The guard was marching the prisoners from the post stockade to the air strip to "police up"—when one feigned illness, the public information officer said.

When Pfc. William V. Southard, the guard, went near the prisoners to check on the one who said he was sick, the three grabbed him. After tying Southard with his shoe laces, the spokesman said, the prisoners fled into woods near the northern boundary of this big training base.

Southard broke loose about 10 minutes later and notified military police.

The escaped prisoners were identified as Harrison E. Todd, 18, of near Federalsburg, Md.; James E. Brown, 19, of Monaca, Pa.; and Robert L. Pasco, 21, of near Triadelphia, W. Va.

The public information officer said the three had been confined to the stockade to await court martial. Brown and Pasco faced AWOL charges. Todd was charged with AWOL, desertion and breaking restriction.

Canada Urges Arms Cut As Part Of Pact

OTTAWA, July 18 (AP)—Canada has added its reply to that of other Western nations to a letter from Premier Bulganin asking about policy on reductions in armed forces.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent disclosed in the House of Commons today that he had informed Bulganin that reductions should be part of an agreement providing means to insure that "the reduction measures are in fact carried out."

St. Laurent's letter expressed Canada's satisfaction with the Soviet announcement of a 1,200,000-man cut in Russian armed forces but added this is "somewhat tempered by the reflection that these reductions would have been more timely 10 years ago, when the Western powers demobilized the great armies they had brought together in the common interest of the United Nations.

Dulles To Attend GOP Convention

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will attend the GOP National Convention next month and help to draft the foreign policy plank in the party's platform.

He announced his plans at a news conference today. Dulles said he knew of no precedent for a secretary of state participating in a political convention in this manner.

But he said he didn't think that helping with the platform would be inconsistent with his expressed intention of keeping out of the political campaigning this year.

As far as that goes, he added with a chuckle, he would be delighted to go to the Democratic convention, too, and help write their foreign policy plank. The Democrats haven't invited him, however, he said.

The Republican convention opens in San Francisco Aug.20. Dulles indicated he would go there before that date to attend the hearings of the Platform Committee.

The secretary said he wouldn't make any speeches at the convention.

Fuel Truck Smashup Kills One, Starts Fires

YSLETA, Tex., July 18 (AP)—A fuel truck smashed into a building and sprayed parts of this El Paso suburb with burning gasoline early today. The truck driver was killed and three buildings burned.

Part of the cab of the truck crashed into the bedroom of a woman, injuring her. Also injured was a fireman who battled the flames which gutted one apartment house, destroyed another apartment house and a furniture store and damaged several other buildings in the area.

Damage was estimated by firemen at $150,000.

Polio Cases Show Increase In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—The Chicago Board of Health today said that one death from infantile paralysis and 18 new cases of the disease were reported during the 24-hour period ending at midnight Tuesday.

A total of 212 polio cases and 5 deaths have been reported in Chicago so far this year. At the same time in 1955, 35 cases and 2 deaths were reported.

The death reported yesterday was diagnosed as bulbar polio. The victim was a 4-year-old girl.

Foreign Nations Owe U.S. Billion War Debt

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today foreign governments still owe this country $1,168,000,000 on World War II lend-lease accounts.

In a report required under a 1941 Act of Congress, Eisenhower said repayment of lend-lease aid was "in general, satisfactorily made" during the calendar year 1955. However, he said 16 millions of the remainder was past due.

Senators Charge 'Coverup' In Trading With Russians

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)— A majority of the Senate Investigations subcommittee accused the administration today of wanting to cover up the facts on how much the free world is trading with Russia.

"The subcommittee believes," the majority report said, "that the executive branch wished to withhold from the American people the fact that foreign nations receiving aid from the American taxpayers are in turn helping the Communists to arm themselves against the United States and the free world."

This statement was signed by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark), and Sens. Jackson (D-Wash), Symington (D-Mo), Ervin (D-NC) and McCarthy (R-Wis).

A minority statement, signed by Sens. Mundt (R-SD) and Bender (R-Ohio), said the majority report was distorted and unfair. They said the administration deserved praise for its efforts to hold down East-West trade and such efforts "are not enhanced by partisan political attacks."

The majority report was especially critical of Harold E. Stassen, an aide to President Eisenhower who helped work out a 1954 agreement under which American allies relaxed curbs on the sale to Russia of about 200 items which had been embargoed or controlled as strategic materials. Stassen formerly headed the U.S. foreign aid program.

McCarthy, an old antagonist of Stassen's, joined the Democrats in calling Stassen "an arrogant, evasive and uncandid witness' on what was done at the 1954 meeting.

Stassen and other administration officials testified in hearings held by the subcommittee that the United States reluctantly agreed to the relaxations, and only because of a belief that if it had not, the whole system of embargoes on strategic trade would have collapsed.

Government Extends Soil Bank Deadline

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today extended through July 27 the deadline for farmers to sign agreements putting their lands in the soil bank acreage reserve this year. The deadline had been July 20.

The department also gave farmers additional time to plow under or cut crops on land which they agreed to retire from production under the soil bank agreements.

Final dates for bringing land into compliance with the agreements are set by state agricultural stabilization and conservation committees. Heretofore, those final dates could range between July 15 and July 27. Under today's action they may range between July 31 through Aug. 3.

Congress Thanked By Maryland Group

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Congressmen received thanks today from a group of Marylanders for turning down a proposed project for Maryland.

The reversal of the usual "we urge you" to "we thank you" came with a caravan visit of some 250 residents of the Davidsonville area who had fought a proposed Naval Academy airfield there.

The group, headed by co-chairman Benjamin Watkins of Davidsonville and Susan C. Hacker of Cumberstone, first expressed their thanks to Sens. Butler and Beall, Maryland Republicans.

Then they split into small groups with the intention of visiting the offices of each senator and House member before returning home this afternoon.

They carried a supply of leaflets expressing thanks and the belief that congressmen "acted wisely, patriotically and with the best interests of the Navy at heart when you defeated the Naval Academy's proposal for a jet airport at nearby Davidsonville in Anne Arundel County, Maryland."

The leaflet added, "The Naval Academy already has a jet airport at Patuxent, Md., at Pensacola, Fla., and could use the Air Force's Andrews Field."

Congress deleted from the military appropriations bill a four million dollar item for acquiring about 4,800 acres and making engineering studies for the proposed field.

Watkins said the group consisted mostly of farmers.

"We like agriculture," he said, "and we haven't sold off our land for development purposes."

Watkins said he farms land which has been in his family for five generations.

"This is a right busy time on the farms," he added, "but we didn't hesitate to stop and come to Washington to thank Congress."

Precaution Fails To Save Bananas

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Alfred J. Mitchell parked his truck loaded with bananas at a harbor pier. As usual, he removed the rotors from under the vehicle's distributor cap to prevent theft.

But someone else must have had another rotor, Mitchell told police today. Someone else also has plenty bananas now, too.

Cabin Cruiser Blast Claims Second Life

LANCASTER, Pa., July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Joanne Vogel, 23, of Lancaster died in Lancaster General Hospital today, the second victim of an explosion that sank a cabin cruiser at North East, Md. 11 days ago.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. Leroy Windle, 59, died July 11. The two women were injured in the explosion of a cruiser owned and piloted by Mrs. Windle's husband.

Windle, discharged from the hospital last Saturday, said the boat exploded while he was examining a starter switch July 7.

Pickets Picketed

HAMMOND, Ind., July 18 (AP) — A heating contractor here has hired a woman to picket a union that is picketing his firm.

Harold G. Meyer, owner of Meyer Heating and Appliance Co., hired Mrs. Margaret Kowalski of Hammond to carry a placard in front of the headquarters of the sheet metal workers.

The union said Meyer is paying under the scale for sheet metal workers, and Meyer said the union failed to give his employes a vote in the decision to strike.

McKeldin Lauds Administration

PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP) — Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland today praised the Eisenhower administration for restoring the balanced budget and the rights of the states.

In the first of two partisan addresses at the University of Pennsylvania summer school, the Republican governor presented "The Republican View." Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama will speak July 26 on "The Democratic View."

McKeldin said:

"The balanced budget—now accomplished—is no mere symbol of honesty. It is honesty, when a government contracts with the people to perform certain services for the money which the people pay, it behooves the government to operate within the proceeds of its collections."

He said tax reduction, "when it comes, will be sound because it will be warranted; it will be durable because it will have a foundation in fact."

McKeldin said the Eisenhower administration has re-established state authority in many fields, counteracting a tendency toward reduction of state powers.

This week the Department of Mines issued its annual report, showing the Arkwright mine had produced 6,869,820 tons of coal through Dec. 31, since its last fatal accident. That occurred on Sept. 2, 1950.

Four New Polio Cases Reported In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—The four new polio cases reported to the West Virginia Health Department last week represented the largest number for a seven-day period so far this year.

Health Director N. H. Dyer said two of the cases were listed from Fayette County and one each from Raleigh and Wood. Reported cases for the year total 17, as against 30 for the corresponding 1955 period.

Raleigh County has reported four of the 1956 cases. Wood and Kanawha each have listed three cases, Fayette two and Greenbrier, Wyoming, Cabell, Lincoln and Ohio one each.

Dr. Dyer observed that 11 of the cases so far this year have occurred among children who have not received the Salk anti-polio vaccine. Nine of the cases in that group have shown paralysis.

The health director added that of six reported cases among vaccinated cases, one has shown slight paralysis and the other had been diagnosed as non-paralytic.

The health director reiterated today that sufficient Salk vaccine now is available through private physicians and local health departments for all West Virginians under 20 years of age and for expectant mothers of all ages.

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — A skin infection which has hospitalized former Sen. Millard E. Tydings since June 8 is nearly cleared up, and he expects to be home within a week.

The former senator was visited yesterday at Johns Hopkins Hospital by Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, Mrs. Tydings and Tom O'Donnell, publicity director for Tydings when he won the Democratic nomination in the May primary election.

Tydings will oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the November general election. Following his 45 minute visit yesterday, D'Alesandro said he found the Democratic candidate "full of fight and eager to get out and get started for the fall campaign."

Radio-TV Stations Off Air During Test

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — Maryland radio and television stations will go off the air at 4:10 p.m. Friday as part of the Civil Defense exercise Operation Alert 1956.

For the following 15 minutes the only broadcasting will be by AM radio stations on the "Conelrad" network for emergency broadcasting.

Baltimore will be one of 76 American cities assumed to be hit by enemy attack during the alert, which will continue through Saturday and Sunday. The public is not expected to participate, but CD forces will have to cope with problems which might arise in an actual attack.

Rhode Island originally had almost as many capitals as it had towns, finally narrowed down to Newport and Providence and then Providence only.

Rain Interrupts Crop Harvesting

COLLEGE PARK, Md. July 18 (AP)—Farmers in most of Maryland and Delaware were busy in their fields last week although heavy and frequent rainfall interrupted harvesting and cultivating in some areas.

The federal-state crop report for the week ending July 14 said soil moisture in the two-state area averaged "normal" to "wet" with a few areas reporting the soil as dry.

The relatively low temperatures which prevailed during the week slowed the build-up of insects.

The greatest harvest activity for small grains and hay was in the north and central counties, while to the south the chief activities were the cultivation and side dressing of row crops.

Harvest of small grains was rapidly nearing completion, but combining of rye and oats was not so far advanced and harvest was not yet generally under way in northernmost counties.

Corn and soybeans were reported in excellent condition, and vegetable crops were making good progress.

Goldfish do not exist anywhere in the wild state. They are products of years of selective breeding.

Congress Thanked By Maryland Group

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Congressmen received thanks today from a group of Marylanders for turning down a proposed project for Maryland.

The reversal of the usual "we urge you" to "we thank you" came with a caravan visit of some 250 residents of the Davidsonville area who had fought a proposed Naval Academy airfield there.

The group, headed by co-chairman Benjamin Watkins of Davidsonville and Susan C. Hacker of Cumberstone, first expressed their thanks to Sens. Butler and Beall, Maryland Republicans.

Then they split into small groups with the intention of visiting the offices of each senator and House member before returning home this afternoon.

They carried a supply of leaflets expressing thanks and the belief that congressmen "acted wisely, patriotically and with the best interests of the Navy at heart when you defeated the Naval Academy's proposal for a jet airport at nearby Davidsonville in Anne Arundel County, Maryland."

The leaflet added, "The Naval Academy already has a jet airport at Patuxent, Md., at Pensacola, Fla., and could use the Air Force's Andrews Field."

Congress deleted from the military appropriations bill a four million dollar item for acquiring about 4,800 acres and making engineering studies for the proposed field.

Watkins said the group consisted mostly of farmers.

"We like agriculture," he said, "and we haven't sold off our land for development purposes."

Watkins said he farms land which has been in his family for five generations.

"This is a right busy time on the farms," he added, "but we didn't hesitate to stop and come to Washington to thank Congress."

Precaution Fails To Save Bananas

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Alfred J. Mitchell parked his truck loaded with bananas at a harbor pier. As usual, he removed the rotors from under the vehicle's distributor cap to prevent theft.

But someone else must have had another rotor, Mitchell told police today. Someone else also has plenty bananas now, too.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. Leroy Windle, 59, died July 11. The two women were injured in the explosion of a cruiser owned and piloted by Mrs. Windle's husband.

Pickets Picketed

HAMMOND, Ind., July 18 (AP) — A heating contractor here has hired a woman to picket a union that is picketing his firm.

Harold G. Meyer, owner of Meyer Heating and Appliance Co., hired Mrs. Margaret Kowalski of Hammond to carry a placard in front of the headquarters of the sheet metal workers.

The union said Meyer is paying under the scale for sheet metal workers, and Meyer said the union failed to give his employes a vote in the decision to strike.

McKeldin Lauds Administration

PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP) — Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland today praised the Eisenhower administration for restoring the balanced budget and the rights of the states.

In the first of two partisan addresses at the University of Pennsylvania summer school, the Republican governor presented "The Republican View." Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama will speak July 26 on "The Democratic View."

McKeldin said:

"The balanced budget—now accomplished—is no mere symbol of honesty. It is honesty, when a government contracts with the people to perform certain services for the money which the people pay, it behooves the government to operate within the proceeds of its collections."

He said tax reduction, "when it comes, will be sound because it will be warranted; it will be durable because it will have a foundation in fact."

McKeldin said the Eisenhower administration has re-established state authority in many fields, counteracting a tendency toward reduction of state powers.

This week the Department of Mines issued its annual report, showing the Arkwright mine had produced 6,869,820 tons of coal through Dec. 31, since its last fatal accident. That occurred on Sept. 2, 1950.

Four New Polio Cases Reported In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—The four new polio cases reported to the West Virginia Health Department last week represented the largest number for a seven-day period so far this year.

Health Director N. H. Dyer said two of the cases were listed from Fayette County and one each from Raleigh and Wood. Reported cases for the year total 17, as against 30 for the corresponding 1955 period.

Raleigh County has reported four of the 1956 cases. Wood and Kanawha each have listed three cases, Fayette two and Greenbrier, Wyoming, Cabell, Lincoln and Ohio one each.

Dr. Dyer observed that 11 of the cases so far this year have occurred among children who have not received the Salk anti-polio vaccine. Nine of the cases in that group have shown paralysis.

The health director added that of six reported cases among vaccinated cases, one has shown slight paralysis and the other had been diagnosed as non-paralytic.

The health director reiterated today that sufficient Salk vaccine now is available through private physicians and local health departments for all West Virginians under 20 years of age and for expectant mothers of all ages.

Ex-Sen. Tydings Expects To Leave Hospital Soon

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — A skin infection which has hospitalized former Sen. Millard E. Tydings since June 8 is nearly cleared up, and he expects to be home within a week.

The former senator was visited yesterday at Johns Hopkins Hospital by Baltimore's Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, Mrs. Tydings and Tom O'Donnell, publicity director for Tydings when he won the Democratic nomination in the May primary election.

Tydings will oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the November general election. Following his 45 minute visit yesterday, D'Alesandro said he found the Democratic candidate "full of fight and eager to get out and get started for the fall campaign."

Radio-TV Stations Off Air During Test

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — Maryland radio and television stations will go off the air at 4:10 p.m. Friday as part of the Civil Defense exercise Operation Alert 1956.

For the following 15 minutes the only broadcasting will be by AM radio stations on the "Conelrad" network for emergency broadcasting.

Baltimore will be one of 76 American cities assumed to be hit by enemy attack during the alert, which will continue through Saturday and Sunday. The public is not expected to participate, but CD forces will have to cope with problems which might arise in an actual attack.

Rhode Island originally had almost as many capitals as it had towns, finally narrowed down to Newport and Providence and then Providence only.

Rain Interrupts Crop Harvesting

COLLEGE PARK, Md. July 18 (AP)—Farmers in most of Maryland and Delaware were busy in their fields last week although heavy and frequent rainfall interrupted harvesting and cultivating in some areas.

The federal-state crop report for the week ending July 14 said soil moisture in the two-state area averaged "normal" to "wet" with a few areas reporting the soil as dry.

The relatively low temperatures which prevailed during the week slowed the build-up of insects.

The greatest harvest activity for small grains and hay was in the north and central counties, while to the south the chief activities were the cultivation and side dressing of row crops.

Harvest of small grains was rapidly nearing completion, but combining of rye and oats was not so far advanced and harvest was not yet generally under way in northernmost counties.

Corn and soybeans were reported in excellent condition, and vegetable crops were making good progress.

Goldfish do not exist anywhere in the wild state. They are products of years of selective breeding.

TV Instruction For Teachers Receives Test

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 18 (AP) —The question now, ladies and gentlemen, is not whether we should teach schoolchildren by television. It's whether we should teach the teachers by television.

Today, while a roomful of summer students in Newton—a big Boston suburb — received classroom instruction in front of TV cameras, a roomful of teacher-trainees sat in a Harvard University classroom eight miles away and watched on a movie-size TV screen.

This brand new application of closed circuit TV in education was part of an experiment: To find out how television can help to prepare new teachers at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. The experiment will continue for three days.

In the Harvard-Newton summer program some 500 pupils from greater Boston communities are receiving summer school instruction from more than 100 recent graduates of liberal arts colleges —enrolled as trainees. They study under some 40 "master teachers" and lecturers. Classes vary from art to mathematics.

Television cameras focus on the pupils while they receive instruction during the forenoons. In the afternoons, the cameras focus on demonstration lectures in training courses for the teachers-to-be. A special projector at Harvard's Littauer Center throws a 6 by 8 foot picture.

One advantage of the televised classroom is that the teacher-trainees don't have to crowd into the classrooms themselves. Lecturers document their points by showing the learning process in action.

Families Of Lost Fliers Reportedly Held By Soviets Have Hoped, Prayed, Grieved

[By The Associated Press]

Like the kin of any lost serviceman, the families of the airmen reportedly being held prisoners by Russia have hoped, and prayed and grieved.

They have made varying adjustments to their sorrow. Some have become ill. One wife has married again.

The U. S. government told the Kremlin Monday it has "credible" reports that some missing American airmen—many of them already declared officially dead — are alive in Russian prisons.

In a note, the United States asked a thorough inquiry by the Soviets and a progress report as soon as possible.

With only such formal, inconclusive language to go on, dare hope kindle anew?

The note specifically mentioned a Navy Privateer that went down in the Baltic Sea area April 8, 1950, and an Air Force B29 lost June 12, 1952, in the area of the Sea of Japan. The planes carried a total of 22 men. The note charged that Russia may be holding Americans from other downed planes.

A year after the Privateer was lost, the Defense Department declared Lt. (Jg) Robert D. Reynolds officially dead.

Last December his widow, Jane, mother of his two daughters, married Edward J. Howard, of Ann Arbor, Mich. She is expecting a third child.

"We'll have to wait and see what happens," Mrs. Howard said when she learned of the U. S. note.

In Oceanside, N.Y., a pleasant Long Island suburb, Mrs. Edward A. McDonnell suffered a nervous breakdown after her son, 2nd Lt. Robert J. McDonnell, vanished in the Far East B29 crash. McDonnell's father also became ill with despair.

Finally last September the elder McDonnell found it too hard to manage his Oceanside home alone. He sold it and moved to an apartment in Forest Hills.

"I've never given up praying," said the grieving father, "I don't go to bed nights without praying he'll come back."

In January 1955, John H. Nobel was freed after nine years in a Red prison camp. He had heard reports, he said, that several of the Privateer crew were still prisoners of the Communists.

Many families took hope. But Mrs. Peter Bourassa, of Linwood, Mich., who lost a son, Joseph, in the Baltic crash has heard nothing official since, she said today, and she isn't letting the new report raise her hopes too much.

So, too, with Mrs. Dorothy Neville, of Greensburg, Pa., whose brother, Lt. John H. Fette, flew with Bourassa and Reynolds.

"It doesn't pay to build up your hopes and then have them dashed again," she said.

The families of three other missing Pennsylvanians have heard only rumors.

Mrs. Joseph N. Rinnier was told by the Navy early in 1955 it was making an investigation into the disappearance of Privateer with her son, Joseph Jr., on board. Since then, nothing.

Mrs. Samuel Busch has never been notified her B29 major husband might be a prisoner, and John Monserrat, a Philadelphian like Mrs. Bush, has been told "nothing at all," of his airman son, S.Sgt. Miguel W. Monserrat.

But in the heart of a missing serviceman's mother there is always hope.

Air S.Sgt. Eddie Roy Berg was one of six children of Mrs. Ann Berg, a Blackduck, Minn., widow. Memorial services were held for him after he was officially declared dead last November, but Mrs. Berg said today:

"I have always held hope.

Mrs. Charles F. Beckman, of Erlanger, Ky., lost a son, William, in 1942 when a German sub sank his destroyer. Another son, Lloyd, joined the Navy about that time, and a third, Richard, is in the Air Force.

Lloyd Beckman was on the Baltic Privateer.

"I have never ceased praying," Mrs. Beckman said.

Back Burgess, father of the missing Ens. Tommy Lee Burgess of Osawatomie, Kan., was killed in a 1953 highway accident.

Said the young officer's mother, now Mrs. Ira Waldo, of Osawatomie:

"I've always just known that Tommy is alive, and I'm confident that some day he will come back."

Japan Plans A-Liner

TOKYO, July 18 (AP) — Japan's big OSK (Osaka Shosen Kaisha) steamship line hopes to have a streamlined, atom-powered liner on its South American run by 1961 — if it gets enriched uranium from the United States. OSK said the ship could cruise at 25 knots and carry 1,700 emigrants to South America three times a year.

Lumber Production

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—National production of lumber totaled 3,423,000,000 board feet during May 1956, the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. reports.

That output was nine per cent above April this year but virtually the same as May 1955.

Exile Government

DAMASCUS, July 18 (AP)—Syria's newspapers say that the Arab League Political Committee plans to discuss setting up an Algerian "free national government in exile" in Cairo or Damascus. If the plan is approved, Arab countries would announce Algeria's separation from France and give it Arab League membership.

Family Picnic Set By Moose

The annual family basket picnic held by Cumberland Lodge 271, Moose, will be held Sunday, August 5, at Smouse's grounds on the Christie Road, according to Gerald B. Young, secretary.

The program, to get under way at noon, will include games and contests for which prizes will be awarded, Young said. The menu will include corn, ice cream, soft drinks and other refreshments. Life guards will be on hand to supervise children who wish to go swimming.

Japanese Advice

TOKYO, July 17 (AP)—A Japanese reader sent a letter to the Japan Times giving Americans in this country some friendly advice. He included this tip: Don't sleep nude. Reason: This is earthquake country, Bub, and you may want to get out of your house in a hurry.

In earlier days, penalties were imposed on men who refused to fill minor public offices in Rhode Island.

46 Trainmen Lose Battle To Hold Jobs

A group of 46 trainmen on the B&O Railroad here and at Keyser have lost another step in their four-year fight to keep their jobs.

Harold E. Naughton, this city, one of the two attorneys for the men, said the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit in Asheville, N. C., has upheld the decision of Judge R. Dorsey Watkins in U. S. District Court for Maryland.

Judge Watkins ruled that the men had not exhausted their full course of action under the terms of the Railway Labor Act and the U. S. Court had no jurisdiction at this time.

William R. Sampsell and the 45 other trainmen had filed suit against the railroad, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the General Grievance Committee of the BRT for the B&O Railroad System.

The case, on the appeal from the Maryland court, was argued June 22 by I Duke Avnet, Baltimore, the other attorney for the men, before Chief Judge Morris Soper in Asheville.

The action stems from the men joining the United Railroad Operating Crafts and subsequently being discharged from the railroad for not complying with the union shop agreement held by the BRT with the B&O.

Two courses of action remain for the 39 local men and the six Keyser men—appeal the decision of Judge Soper to the Supreme Court or go back through the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

If an appeal to the Supreme Court is not taken the 46 men lose their jobs. If it is taken, they can remain at work until the high court decides the issue.

Naughton said yesterday the B&O has notified the men in this case that they will be discharged effective August 13.

The case can go back through the provisions of the Railway Labor Act which would be an appeal from the system hearings given the men, Naughton added.

The men in 1952 had joined other unions besides the BRT, which had a union shop agreement with the railroad, and were then cited, when they had joined, for non-compliance with the union shop pact.

The men, according to the brief prepared by their attorneys, Naughton and Avnet, were employes of the company for many years, were members in good standing of the union and remained so up until late in 1952 and early in 1953 when individually and not as a group they became members of the United Railroad Operating Crafts.

They joined in good faith, believing the UROC was fully qualified to represent them under the provisions of the National Railway Labor Act, and ceased paying into the BRT, it is contended.

They also joined one other labor union which was admittedly qualified to represent them under the act. Many of them joined between the time they were cited for non-compliance with the union shop agreement by the BRT and the time they were notified of their discharge by the company.

The brief noted that in 1952 and 1953 they were notified of their pending discharge and they requested hearings. These were held in the latter part of 1952 and the summer of 1953, but it was not until November 1954 through January 1955 that decision came down notifying them of their discharges.

Appeals were taken and these were heard from January through March of 1955.

In the meantime, the appellants applied to the BRT for reinstatement on the same terms as others who were delinquent in dues and who applied for reinstatement.

The brief noted that it was the policy of the national union to take back men who were delinquent in dues even after they were cited for non-compliance.

The attorneys charged the BRT with discrimination against UROC.

Dublin's Jewish Lord Mayor Will Visit U.S.

DUBLIN, Ireland July 18 (AP) — Robert Briscoe, the first Jewish lord mayor of Dublin, said last night he will visit America in the fall and again next spring, when he will take the salute at New York's famed St. Patrick's Day parade.

"I shall be calling on friends in Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and — perhaps — San Francisco," he said.

The second trip will be at the invitation of New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Briscoe, 61, was elected to the city's top civic post last month—the first time a Jew has ever been mayor of this predominantly Roman Catholic city.

Secrets Of Charm

Quick Result Exercises To Firm Legs And Arms

No one keeps legs and arms firm and beautifully shaped without doing something about it. Upper leg and arm muscles don't get the right kind of exercise from ordinary daily activities; and unless a sport or unusual activity of some kind keeps them firm, the right kind of exercise must be made a habit.

With an eye to helping you compete with the younger beauties on the beach at short notice, yesterday we outlined three exercises that begin to firm legs and arms immediately. In one for legs, you started in a standing position, holding onto a chair back, drew a knee up sharply and kicked vigorously forward and backward. Today let's add the very effective riding-a-bicycle standby, but be sure you do it this way exactly to make it count most:

Lie on your back on the floor. Boost your hips up into the air and support them with your hands. Pedal as if you were pulling hard up a mountain, slowly, steadily, and with all your might. Complete 20 revolutions with each leg, and the more slowly and vigorously you pedal, the sooner you'll see wonderfully gratifying results.

Now, to the first exercises for arms—one crisscrossing arms swiftly as you lie on your back and reach for the ceiling, and the other, stretching your arms forward, backward and downward with a book in each hand—add two more:

Lie on your back and extend your arms over your head. Clasp your hands. Turning at your waistline, roll over onto first one arm and back, then onto the other arm and back. Repeat 10 times.

Again on your back, bend your arms so your elbows are perpendicular to the floor and your fingers rest on your shoulders. Quickly slap the back of your upper arms against the floor. Repeat 10 to 20 times.

Tomorrow—Wifely charm.

Quick Result Exercises To Firm Legs And Arms

No one keeps legs and arms firm and beautifully shaped without doing something about it. Upper leg and arm muscles don't get the right kind of exercise from ordinary daily activities; and unless a sport or unusual activity of some kind keeps them firm, the right kind of exercise must be made a habit.

With an eye to helping you compete with the younger beauties on the beach at short notice, yesterday we outlined three exercises that begin to firm legs and arms immediately. In one for legs, you started in a standing position, holding onto a chair back, drew a knee up sharply and kicked vigorously forward and backward. Today let's add the very effective riding-a-bicycle standby, but be sure you do it this way exactly to make it count most:

Lie on your back on the floor. Boost your hips up into the air and support them with your hands. Pedal as if you were pulling hard up a mountain, slowly, steadily, and with all your might. Complete 20 revolutions with each leg, and the more slowly and vigorously you pedal, the sooner you'll see wonderfully gratifying results.

Now, to the first exercises for arms—one crisscrossing arms swiftly as you lie on your back and reach for the ceiling, and the other, stretching your arms forward, backward and downward with a book in each hand—add two more:

Lie on your back and extend your arms over your head. Clasp your hands. Turning at your waistline, roll over onto first one arm and back, then onto the other arm and back. Repeat 10 times.

Again on your back, bend your arms so your elbows are perpendicular to the floor and your fingers rest on your shoulders. Quickly slap the back of your upper arms against the floor. Repeat 10 to 20 times.

Tomorrow—Wifely charm.

Father Rowan was ordained June 29 in St. Brieuc Grand Seminary, France, after eight years of study, the last four of them in France.

Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of the church and rural dean of Western Maryland, will preside at the mass.

Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor, will be deacon, and Rev. Mr. Olsheski, Mount Carmel, Pa., will be subdeacon.

Master of ceremonies will be Rev. James Byrnes, this city, student at St. Charles Seminary, Baltimore, who will be ordained next year.

Assistant priests will be Rev. John Moore, MM, a former Cumberlander who is pastor of a church in Chinatown of New York.

In the sanctuary will be Rev. John Mattingly, SS., native of this city, who is assigned to a church in California, and Rev. Leo Hewitt, M.M., a local priest and former missionary to China for many years.

A procession of 40 altar boys under the direction of Rev. Arthur Bastress, assistant pastor, will be held prior to the mass.

Father Rowan was graduated in 1948 from LaSalle High School where he was an honor student. He enrolled at St. Charles Seminary, Baltimore, that year. While in France, he traveled extensively through Europe, spending his vacations in Germany, Italy, Norway, England, Switzerland and Spain.

In 1952, he was granted an audience with Pope Pius XII in Rome.

Father Rowan landed in New York last Wednesday and is visiting his parents in Woodlawn.

Msgr. Kilkenny will entertain Father Rowan, his parents, relatives and visiting priests with a breakfast in the rectory following the mass.

SS Referendum Set July 31 For City Employes

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery will conduct a referendum among city employes to determine if they want to come under coverage of the Social Security Law.

The referendum is slated Tuesday, July 31. Tentative polling places have been designated at the Water Department warehouse, Willowbrook Road; the Street Department warehouse, Valley Street; and at City Hall.

Eves said Governor McKeldin had informed him some weeks ago that Hooper S. Miles, chairman of the Employes Retirement System of the State of Maryland, would supervise the referendum.

Numbered ballots are being supplied to the city clerk and each employe will receive a nine-page pamphlet compiled by the Division of Social Security of the Retirement System, before the referendum is held, Mayor Eves said.

Approximately 150 employes will be eligible to ballot. The Police and Fire Department will not participate.

Since January 1, the city has been withholding Social Security tax where it was authorized to do so by employes. Should the plan be approved, and indications are that it will be, the program will be retroactive to that date. Anyone who has not authorized the withholding would be required to pay the back amount in a lump sum.

U.S. Officials, Families Of GIs In Germany Bombarded With Threatening Letters

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—High United States military and diplomatic officials — and now the families of U.S. soldiers serving in West Germany—are being bombarded with threatening letters demanding that United States troops be withdrawn from German territory.

Letters have been received, it was learned today, by a number of GI families in Pennsylvania and possibly other states. Many have been referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and relayed by branch offices to its Washington headquarters. The FBI said it would have no comment.

The letters are signed "Fighting Group for an Independent Germany." For some time, they have been showing up in the mail of top officials in the U.S. Embassy at Bonn in West Germany and in the State Department here. Also, they have been addressed to American military officers in Germany, officials in the German Embassy here, and some private citizens, most of German origin.

The letters protest against the presence of American forces in Germany and say, "The time has come when we Germans ourselves will deal with this unbearable state of affairs."

According to copies available at the State Department the writers threatened "to break our chains," and went on:

"We are announcing this to you in the name of the German nation, so that even violent acts of our movement in case they will have to happen, will happen with your knowledge and consent. You are responsible for the action of your government!

"We are appealing to you and we are warning you!

"Recall your mercenaries from our territory!

"We have enough manpower to rule our selves on our territory. We want undivided freedom and independence, and we will get it We shall prove it through acts.

"Americans, leave Germany as long as it is still possible!"

The State Department said "the matter is being investigated."

"The first indications are that the organization is of an extremist nature," the department said, "and is composed of only a handful of men. The views expressed by this very small group in no sense reflect the attitude of any substantial element of the German people."

Earlier reports from West Germany said threatening letters mailed to American military officials bore postmarks of Munich and Stuttgart. State Department officials said letters referred to them had similar West German postmarks.

Tentative Date Of Aug. 21 Set For Road Bids

A tentative date of August 21 has been set by the State Roads Commission for the advertising for bids on putting a new highway on the west slope of Polish Mountain.

This was revealed yesterday by G. Bates Chaires, District 6 engineer, who pointed out the project will be the most rugged of all work planned on the four mountains between here and Sideling Hill Mountain.

The grade on the relocated section of Route 40 will be 2.04 miles long, SRC engineering department figures show.

Although there are some bad sections of Route 40 over the mountains between Cumberland and Hancock, it is generally conceded that Polish Mountain's west slope is the toughest to drive.

In preparation for furnishing specifications to contractors on the Polish Mountain job, the SRC has let a contract to the Tinney Drilling Company for test boring the terrain of this slope and also the western slope of Martin Mountain.

The SRC, in having the drilling done, noted that rock formations beneath the surface of the proposed relocation of the highway play a big part in its construction.

The commission announced earlier this year that it hopes to get the west side of Polish Mountain under contract by fall.

The Bevo Construction Company of Hampden, Va., is well under way in the big million-dollar-plus job of relocating Route 40 on the east slope of Martin Mountain.

The George F. Hazelwood Company is also putting a new bridge across 15-Mile-Creek, which is at the foot of Polish Mountain.

This bridge and the 2.04 miles of the west slope of Polish will be connecting projects, Chaires revealed.

House Group Backs Ban On Jury Eavesdropping

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee today approved a bill to prohibit eavesdropping on juries, with penalties up to one year imprisonment and $1,000 fine for violators.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, now goes to the House. It resulted from disclosure last year that federal jury deliberations had been recorded with hidden microphones, as part of a research project.

Girl, 12, Held In Fatal Stabbing Of Teen-Ager

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—A 12-year-old girl was held today in the fatal stabbing of a teen-age member of a rival girl gang in a Brooklyn subway station.

The victim, Evelyn Orr, staggered nearly a block from the subway station before she collapsed and died on the street last night.

Police said members of the two girl gangs had engaged in an argument but that it was not actually a gang war. All the girls involved were Negroes.

Mrs. Luce Plans Cruise

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, U.S. ambassador to Italy, will fly from Washington to Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday, for a three-week Mediterranean cruise before returning to her post in Rome.

On The Line by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 18 (INS)—People . . . places . . . and a book.

Wythe Williams, one of the better men who labored with the written and spoken word, was put in the ground Monday, but his work will live as long as books and scripts hold together and correspondents talk shop around press club bars.

The movies and TV and some of the most romantic members of the craft itself have combined to make of the "foreign correspondent" a pretty raffish and rugged soul who spends half of his time tracking spies through a fog and the rest of the time in the boudoir.

Williams began explaining Europe to America daily in 1910 for the old World. He was a responsible reporter for the Times and for Collier's in World War I, the Philadelphia Public Ledger after that war, was with Hearst's Universal Service in London in the early '30s, came home to publish the Greenwich (Conn.) Time and track World War II for radio audiences over WOR-Mutual.

Wythe Williams wrote half a dozen and more books the journalism scholars should study properly to learn their trade. His scoop of mutiny in the French army during the endless bloodletting of the Marne, and the threat of decimation (the execution of every tenth man in the ranks) remains a high that few correspondents can ever attain.

He has joined his old friend Clemenceau. Behind him, in addition to his works, he leaves a monument to his enduring (and endearing) faith in his craft — the Overseas Press Club of America, of which he was a co-founder and first president.

Moved by a recent piece here about the melancholy plight of the parent who sees his child perform wonders the parent no longer has the strength of waistline to achieve, famed New York attorney Barney Sandler sends me a quotation from the 13th century:

"Your son at five is your master, at ten your slave, at 15 your double, and after that your friend or foe, depending on his bringing up."

Yul Brynner, star of the utterly breath-taking 20th Century Fox version of "The King an' I," would rather direct than act. He has been a success at both, but rates better marquee treatment (and bigger tax returns) at the latter calling.

Brynner, born on Sakhalin, a northern island off Japan, is the son of a Mongolian father and a Romany Gypsy mother and there are four or five other bloods in him. He was educated in France, was nearly killed at 17 in an acrobatic accident, came to this country in 1941 to play the role of Fabian in "Twelfth Night." He speaks six languages fluently, German, Italian and Spanish pretty good. He has a 9-year-old son named Rocky.

But back to directing: "It's far more satisfactory than acting," Yul says. "It's like leading a symphony orchestra as compared to playing a fiddle."

Every body from two to 80 who ever dreamed a dream of far away places will find "Famous American Ships" by Frank O. Braynard (Hastings House, publishers) a treasure. Braynard brings love and excitement to ships that have nuzzled at our shores from the time of the Vikings to the splendid United States and beyond to the atomic-powered ocean liners now on the boards. There are exciting stories of the Mayflower, Clermont, the immortal Savannah, Mississippi and Fall River boats, the clippers, the Leviathan, the Presidents, the Graceful Lurline, Grace Kelly's barge — the Constitution . . . and enough more to fill the eyes and hearts of young and old salts.

Fallon Buys Keyser Business Property

KEYSER—The building in which the Osgood Bus Terminal business is conducted, a restaurant conducted by Glen Jackson, plus second floor apartments, on North Mineral Street, was sold by Mrs. Beulah Hesen, owner, to Lewis Fallon, 141 Argyle Street, according to an announcement made Wednesday.

Fallon, a former B&O worker who suffered the loss of both legs in an accident in the railroad yards in Cumberland a few years ago, announced he will operate the bus terminal, will conduct the magazine and newspaper business, and will continue to rent the second floor apartments. Jackson will continue to operate the restaurant.

The property and business was taken over Wednesday by Fallon.

Rabbits Becoming Problem

Cumberland's rabbit population has propagated so fast this summer that the bunnies have become a problem.

That is the report of Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, who urged residents who requested rabbit traps to be patien until more of the devices are available.

Minke said the requests for the traps have been so numerous that there are not enough to go around.

So far this year, over 100 rabbits have been trapped from gardens in the city and released in the wooded areas of the county.

Last winter 22 local boys who participated in a trapping program caught a total of 284 bunnies.

"Evidently they did not catch enough," Minke noted, "for the rabbit population around Cumberland this spring and summer has developed into quite a problem."

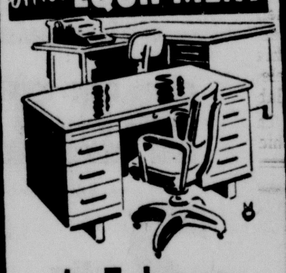

The Game and Inland Fish Commission has established this program of using box traps that do not hurt the rabbits when they are caught. They are picked up by wardens and taken to the country to be released.

Father Rowan was ordained June 29 in St. Brieuc Grand Seminary, France, after eight years of study, the last four of them in France.

Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of the church and rural dean of Western Maryland, will preside at the mass.

Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor, will be deacon, and Rev. Mr. Olsheski, Mount Carmel, Pa., will be subdeacon.

Master of ceremonies will be Rev. James Byrnes, this city, student at St. Charles Seminary, Baltimore, who will be ordained next year.

In the sanctuary will be Rev. John Mattingly, SS., native of this city, who is assigned to a church in California, and Rev. Leo Hewitt, M.M., a local priest and former missionary to China for many years.

A procession of 40 altar boys under the direction of Rev. Arthur Bastress, assistant pastor, will be held prior to the mass.

Father Rowan was graduated in 1948 from LaSalle High School where he was an honor student. He enrolled at St. Charles Seminary, Baltimore, that year. An honor student at the seminary, he was selected from his class, along with another student, to become the first from the Archdiocese of Baltimore to study in France.

The new priest's family will hold a reception in his honor at Minke's Cottage Inn Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m.

SS Referendum Set July 31 For City Employes

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery will conduct a referendum among city employes to determine if they want to come under coverage of the Social Security Law.

The referendum is slated Tuesday, July 31. Tentative polling places have been designated at the Water Department warehouse, Willowbrook Road; the Street Department warehouse, Valley Street; and at City Hall.

Eves said Governor McKeldin had informed him some weeks ago that Hooper S. Miles, chairman of the Employes Retirement System of the State of Maryland, would supervise the referendum.

Numbered ballots are being supplied to the city clerk and each employe will receive a nine-page pamphlet compiled by the Division of Social Security of the Retirement System, before the referendum is held, Mayor Eves said.

Approximately 150 employes will be eligible to ballot. The Police and Fire Department will not participate.

Since January 1, the city has been withholding Social Security tax where it was authorized to do so by employes. Should the plan be approved, and indications are that it will be, the program will be retroactive to that date. Anyone who has not authorized the withholding would be required to pay the back amount in a lump sum.

U.S. Officials, Families Of GIs In Germany Bombarded With Threatening Letters

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—High United States military and diplomatic officials — and now the families of U.S. soldiers serving in West Germany—are being bombarded with threatening letters demanding that United States troops be withdrawn from German territory.

Letters have been received, it was learned today, by a number of GI families in Pennsylvania and possibly other states. Many have been referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and relayed by branch offices to its Washington headquarters. The FBI said it would have no comment.

The letters are signed "Fighting Group for an Independent Germany." For some time, they have been showing up in the mail of top officials in the U.S. Embassy at Bonn in West Germany and in the State Department here. Also, they have been addressed to American military officers in Germany, officials in the German Embassy here, and some private citizens, most of German origin.

The letters protest against the presence of American forces in Germany and say, "The time has come when we Germans ourselves will deal with this unbearable state of affairs."

According to copies available at the State Department the writers threatened "to break our chains," and went on:

"We are announcing this to you in the name of the German nation, so that even violent acts of our movement in case they will have to happen, will happen with your knowledge and consent. You are responsible for the action of your government!

"We are appealing to you and we are warning you!

"Recall your mercenaries from our territory!

"We have enough manpower to rule our selves on our territory. We want undivided freedom and independence, and we will get it We shall prove it through acts.

"Americans, leave Germany as long as it is still possible!"

The State Department said "the matter is being investigated."

"The first indications are that the organization is of an extremist nature," the department said, "and is composed of only a handful of men. The views expressed by this very small group in no sense reflect the attitude of any substantial element of the German people."

Earlier reports from West Germany said threatening letters mailed to American military officials bore postmarks of Munich and Stuttgart. State Department officials said letters referred to them had similar West German postmarks.

Tentative Date Of Aug. 21 Set For Road Bids

A tentative date of August 21 has been set by the State Roads Commission for the advertising for bids on putting a new highway on the west slope of Polish Mountain.

This was revealed yesterday by G. Bates Chaires, District 6 engineer, who pointed out the project will be the most rugged of all work planned on the four mountains between here and Sideling Hill Mountain.

The grade on the relocated section of Route 40 will be 2.04 miles long, SRC engineering department figures show.

Although there are some bad sections of Route 40 over the mountains between Cumberland and Hancock, it is generally conceded that Polish Mountain's west slope is the toughest to drive.

In preparation for furnishing specifications to contractors on the Polish Mountain job, the SRC has let a contract to the Tinney Drilling Company for test boring the terrain of this slope and also the western slope of Martin Mountain.

The SRC, in having the drilling done, noted that rock formations beneath the surface of the proposed relocation of the highway play a big part in its construction.

The commission announced earlier this year that it hopes to get the west side of Polish Mountain under contract by fall.

The Bevo Construction Company of Hampden, Va., is well under way in the big million-dollar-plus job of relocating Route 40 on the east slope of Martin Mountain.

The George F. Hazelwood Company is also putting a new bridge across 15-Mile-Creek, which is at the foot of Polish Mountain.

This bridge and the 2.04 miles of the west slope of Polish will be connecting projects, Chaires revealed.

House Group Backs Ban On Jury Eavesdropping

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee today approved a bill to prohibit eavesdropping on juries, with penalties up to one year imprisonment and $1,000 fine for violators.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, now goes to the House. It resulted from disclosure last year that federal jury deliberations had been recorded with hidden microphones, as part of a research project.

Girl, 12, Held In Fatal Stabbing Of Teen-Ager

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—A 12-year-old girl was held today in the fatal stabbing of a teen-age member of a rival girl gang in a Brooklyn subway station.

The victim, Evelyn Orr, staggered nearly a block from the subway station before she collapsed and died on the street last night.

Police said members of the two girl gangs had engaged in an argument but that it was not actually a gang war. All the girls involved were Negroes.

AT&T Plans To Offer New Stock For Sale

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility, planned today to raise 575 million dollars in new capital by selling 5,750,000 new shares of stock. It will be the largest single piece of direct equity financing by an American company.

The shares will not be offered publicly but to AT&T's 1,400,000 shareowners at the par value of $100 a share on the basis of one new share for each 10 held.

The utility's directors called a special meeting of shareowners for Sept. 7 to vote on a recommended increase in the authorized stock from 60 million to 100 million shares.

Block Party To Be Held This Evening

The annual festival and block party, sponsored by the Double M Club, will be held this evening at the corner of Fairview Avenue and Dilley Street, beginning at 6 p. m. Joseph Seibert will call figures for square dancing.

Among the attractions will be a fish pond, dart game, pony rides, parcel post sale, with packages from Mrs. Pat Nixon, Arthur Godfrey and Sam Snead. Refreshments also will be sold.

Part of the proceeds will be donated to the Fairview Avenue Methodist Church, where the club meets.

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, U.S. ambassador to Italy, will fly from Washington to Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday, for a three-week Mediterranean cruise before returning to her post in Rome.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 18 (INS)—People . . . places . . . and a book.

Wythe Williams, one of the better men who labored with the written and spoken word, was put in the ground Monday, but his work will live as long as books and scripts hold together and correspondents talk shop around press club bars.

The movies and TV and some of the most romantic members of the craft itself have combined to make of the "foreign correspondent" a pretty raffish and rugged soul who spends half of his time tracking spies through a fog and the rest of the time in the boudoir.

Williams began explaining Europe to America daily in 1910 for the old World. He was a responsible reporter for the Times and for Collier's in World War I, the Philadelphia Public Ledger after that war, was with Hearst's Universal Service in London in the early '30s, came home to publish the Greenwich (Conn.) Time and track World War II for radio audiences over WOR-Mutual.

Wythe Williams wrote half a dozen and more books the journalism scholars should study properly to learn their trade. His scoop of mutiny in the French army during the endless bloodletting of the Marne, and the threat of decimation (the execution of every tenth man in the ranks) remains a high that few correspondents can ever attain.

He has joined his old friend Clemenceau. Behind him, in addition to his works, he leaves a monument to his enduring (and endearing) faith in his craft — the Overseas Press Club of America, of which he was a co-founder and first president.

Moved by a recent piece here about the melancholy plight of the parent who sees his child perform wonders the parent no longer has the strength of waistline to achieve, famed New York attorney Barney Sandler sends me a quotation from the 13th century:

"Your son at five is your master, at ten your slave, at 15 your double, and after that your friend or foe, depending on his bringing up."

Yul Brynner, star of the utterly breath-taking 20th Century Fox version of "The King an' I," would rather direct than act. He has been a success at both, but rates better marquee treatment (and bigger tax returns) at the latter calling.

Brynner, born on Sakhalin, a northern island off Japan, is the son of a Mongolian father and a Romany Gypsy mother and there are four or five other bloods in him. He was educated in France, was nearly killed at 17 in an acrobatic accident, came to this country in 1941 to play the role of Fabian in "Twelfth Night." He speaks six languages fluently, German, Italian and Spanish pretty good. He has a 9-year-old son named Rocky.

But back to directing: "It's far more satisfactory than acting," Yul says. "It's like leading a symphony orchestra as compared to playing a fiddle."

Every body from two to 80 who ever dreamed a dream of far away places will find "Famous American Ships" by Frank O. Braynard (Hastings House, publishers) a treasure. Braynard brings love and excitement to ships that have nuzzled at our shores from the time of the Vikings to the splendid United States and beyond to the atomic-powered ocean liners now on the boards. There are exciting stories of the Mayflower, Clermont, the immortal Savannah, Mississippi and Fall River boats, the clippers, the Leviathan, the Presidents, the Graceful Lurline, Grace Kelly's barge — the Constitution . . . and enough more to fill the eyes and hearts of young and old salts.

Rabbits Becoming Problem

Cumberland's rabbit population has propagated so fast this summer that the bunnies have become a problem.

That is the report of Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, who urged residents who requested rabbit traps to be patient until more of the devices are available.

Minke said the requests for the traps have been so numerous that there are not enough to go around.

This Was A Steal

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — In a South Atlantic League game, with the count on the batter two balls and two strikes, pitcher Don Jaber of the Jacksonville Braves nonchalantly stepped off first base and strolled toward second.

Somehow, he had the idea the batter had walked.

Knoxville's catcher was so surprised he froze.

Jaber finally woke up and streaked for second, diving head first.

The catcher's hurried throw went into center field.

Jaber went to third on the error but he had second made, in the opinion of the scorer, and got credit for a stolen base.

Lawmakers Urge Three-Year Re-Registration Of Drivers

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — A Legislative Council subcommittee today approved a proposal calling for compulsory re-registration of all Maryland motorists every three years.

The motorist would have to pay a $3 fee each re-registration period.

Under the plan approved by the subcommittee, a motorist would be required to answer, under oath, a questionnaire concerning his physical qualifications and any possible changes in his status as a driver since his last license was issued.

Personal examination of the applicant would not be required unless specifically requested by the Department of Motor Vehicles, and this would happen only in cases where the department is not satisfied with the written form.

The proposal will be written into bill form and presented to the Council for its approval. If accepted by the Council, it will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

Subcommitteemen estimated that the $3 re-registration fees would produce about $1,000,000 each registration period but they emphasized that the bill is not intended as a revenue - producing measure. Its sole aim, they said, is to remove unqualified operators from the highways.

Maryland is the only state which does not require some kind of auto license re-registration. A similar bill introduced in the 1955 Legislature was rejected.

House Bans Red Barter Of U.S. Farm Surplus

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The House today flatly rejected Eisenhower administration pleas to permit barter of American farm surplus with Soviet satellite nations.

It rebuffed both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles in refusing to include the barter provision in a bill increasing authority for disposal of government - held farm surpluses to friendly nations for foreign currencies.

Jury Convicts Irish Seaman Of Manslaughter

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—A 31-year-old Irish seaman was convicted of manslaughter today in the death of another seaman who fell or was pushed under the wheels of a Baltimore Transit Co. bus.

A Criminal Court jury deliberated about an hour before returning the verdict against Gerard Peter McAteer. Judge John T. Tucker deferred imposing sentence pending a possible motion for a new trial.

McAteer denied that he deliberately pushed Leonard J. Frank, 43, of Baltimore, into the path of a bus at a street intersection in downtown Baltimore last June 1.

McAteer said he was merely trying to resist Frank's efforts to beg a drink or cash and gave him a shove, not realizing that Frank was intoxicated at the time.

McAteer testified that when he saw Frank fall into the street in the path of the bus he turned and fled.

"Why?" asked his counsel.

"I was scared," McAteer answered.

McAteer was caught a short distance from the scene when he stumbled and fled.

Va. Presbyterian Synod Ends Meeting

MASSANETTA SPRINGS, Va., July 18 (AP)—Presbyterians of the Virginia Synod concluded a two-day meeting today with much of their attention centered on church extension work.

The date and site of the 170th annual meeting next year was to be determined at a brief night session concluding the convention. The council of the synod had recommended that next year's meeting be held at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, May 28.

The delegates adopted a budget of $46,000 for church extension work in the synod, which embraces Virginia, the District of Columbia and parts of Maryland and West Virginia.

The budget, allocated by Presbytery, included East Hanover, $5,000; Lexington, $6,000; Montgomery, $6,000; Norfolk, $4,000; Potomac, $15,000; West Hanover, $6,000, and Winchester, $4,000.

The delegates also approved the recommendation that the synod raise its share of the one million dollars sought for church building throughout the Southern church.

Two Carrier-Based Planes Collide, Crash

STROMBOLI, Italy, July 18 (AP)—Two U.S. Navy carrier - based Douglas dive bombers collided today and crashed on the shores of this volcanic Mediterranean island.

Ike Prods Congress On Measure To Liberalize Immigration Law

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Eisenhower urged today that his proposals for liberalizing present immigration laws be enacted before Congress adjourns. The proposals have been bottled up in Senate and House committees.

The President's appeal for action was made in a letter to Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), senior GOP member of the Senate Immigration subcommittee.

Eisenhower asked Congress in a special message last Feb. 8 to revise the controversial McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, passed in 1952 over former President Truman's veto.

He also has requested that the 1953 Refugee Relief Act, authorizing the special admission of 214,000 aliens, be revised so that visas unused by one country could be used by another.

The President's letter was made public by Watkins, who had written to Eisenhower yesterday that the present Congress was drawing to a close without any "effective action" on immigration legislation.

In a reply dated today, Eisenhower wrote that, "I appreciate your giving me an opportunity to point out once again the vital need for legislation revising the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act and amending the Refugee Relief Act."

Styles For Milady Complete A Cycle

The long-awaited news is out. And it is characterized by such words as drapes, floating panels and Big Bertha collars. These are fashion ideas of what the well-dressed woman will wear this fall.

The style-conscious are advised that the fashion picture calls for a softer-draped silhouette—with a longer skirt. Hemlines are dropping to a mid-calf length of 12 inches for 1956. The fashionable length for 1955 was 13½ to 14 inches.

The long, full skirt is continuing in popularity, but for 1956 it is fuller and often fastened on to an exaggerated high waist. Slim skirts will be right, fashionwise, too, but to them will be added flat panels, sometimes in front, sometimes in the back.

Lightweight fabrics are being used so that the wearer can have both drapes and a slim appearance, too. Fabrics which were popular in the '20s are being revived. Georgette, chiffon, velvet and lace are being widely used.

Blousing is also big news for the fashion-minded woman. It is featured in both day and evening dresses and particularly on the high-waisted styles.

Coats may be described in one word — immense. They are full with large collars and flowing hemlines. Fur trimming is widely used.

"Edwardian" is the way the fashion experts describe the style influence for fall. But if milady could dig out of an attic trunk some of the high fashions of 1906 and 1912, she would have some gowns that are as fashionable in 1955 as they were when they were first purchased.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Right To Organize

Since the very beginnings of the American nation, it has been regarded as a right among the American people to organize themselves into associations, societies, committees for purposes of their own. These days one hears more and more the question, who are these people who band themselves together for a specific purpose? Why not leave it to the government?

But there are many things that Americans do not leave to their government, as, for instance, the choice of a candidate for the presidency. Two private conventions will make that choice, bodies which really have no legal status at all. Nasser of Egypt received a vote of 99.9 per cent—practically the same as Hitler's vote used to be—but neither Eisenhower nor his opponent will get such a vote because the people of the United States are not afraid of their government or of political parties.

Americans have organized themselves for every purpose, the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the Foreign Policy Association, the Communist party, the American Jewish League against Communism, trade unions, churches, sects, lodges, anything you can think of has members who meet often or rarely for specific or for general purposes. And many of them exist not only to tell the government what to do, but to watch public officials so that they do what each group thinks is the right thing to do.

Labor unions each year get up a list of those who favor labor and hope that they will be elected. I have never heard of the National Association of Manufacturers producing a similar list and it would not count for much if they did. Should we therefore say that those not endorsed by labor unions are blacklisted? Nonsense! Any American has an inalienable right to get up a list of those whom he favors and those whom he opposes and tell his friends about it. Maybe they will pay attention to him; maybe they will not. Certainly, if the AFL-CIO said that a commentator was anti-labor, few manufacturers would risk sponsoring that commentator. He would be labelled as a controversial person.

The theory that the government must police all the functions of the people is strictly not in the American tradition. And, of course, it does not and cannot happen, although there is an increasing tendency among bureaucrats to expand their power over wider domains. Nevertheless, the people are free themselves from such domination by organizing another committee or another association to raise a rumpus over something or other.

Those who criticize others for organizing self-appointed committees and associations to do this or that are themselves self-appointed and although some may be richer than others, because somebody died and left a load of money for what he thought would be a good cause and to avoid paying an inheritance tax, mere richness is no proof of worthiness. Most often, the fellow who earned the money and left it for others to spend would drop dead a second time if he could come to earth and discover what is being done with his savings. No lawyers have yet succeeded in writing a will or a law that would safeguard a dead man's money from being spent in fashions other than he intended.

These funds and foundations and trusts fall into the hands of professionals who organize all sorts of committees and subsidize associations which keep many men and women busily occupied with public affairs some of which are of great value and others of which are of no value at all, except that they keep their employes employed. There are many associations, not endowed by dead men, which seem to have no other purpose than to collect money to remain alive so that they can keep the collectors employed. Because the Treasury is a bit strict on tax evasions, such organizations, if their collections are tax free, must publish reports and brochures to prove that they do something and occasionally their employes get into a row with the employes of another collection outfit over something that does not exist—whereupon they hit the inside pages of some newspapers and thus can prove to their members that they are performing a public service.

Exiles From Latin America Create Danger To Dictators In Panama

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Some of the most wanted men in the Western Hemisphere will be the potential "targets for today" at the Conference of Presidents of the American Republics, which President Eisenhower is attending this weekend.

These president-dictators are "wanted" by gun-toting exiles from their respective countries, and security agents are worried sick over the possibility of an incident. Never before in history have so many presidents gathered together in one place.

Among the most "wanted" presidents are Trujillo of Santo Domingo, Somoza of Nicaragua, Perez Jimenez of Venezuela, and Rojas Pinillas of Colombia.

These dictators are responsible for the assassination of many thousands of people, and avenging relatives and political supporters may be lying in wait for them, virtually on the banks of Uncle Sam's Panama Canal.

Those who talk about "security measures" in the Republic of Panama are reminded that the president of Panama, Col. Jose A. Remon, was shot to death like a sitting duck in the very presence of secret police and bodyguards at the Juan Franco Race Track in Panama on January 2, 1955.

The Panamanians were unable to protect their own president, who had complete control of the National Guard and the Panamanian secret police. Yet they now claim they can protect 16 presidents who will be assembled with Eisenhower in Panama.

Though Eisenhower is protected by the U.S. Secret Service, it has no actual authority in Panama.

Panama is jealous of her sovereignty, and how much extra-territorial privileges will be permitted Americans in the presence of high officials from all the other American republics is doubtful. The same applies to the security forces and bodyguards which the Latin American presidents will bring with them.

Senator George's Last Battle

The weighty, sometimes pro-Eisenhower prestige of elder statesman George of Georgia was thrown into the fight over Hells Canyon — against his old friends, the Georgia Power Company and other utilities. George, who retires from the Senate this year, made the proposed big federal dam on the Snake River the last senatorial battle of his career, told deserting Democratic colleagues how important it was for them to vote solidly against the private utilities.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson also threw his persuasive charm into full gear and talked to each deserting Democrat—twice. The two made some converts.

Among the arguments they used is the fact that the Eisenhower administration is not against federal power in principle, but only against federal power when it comes to the poor damsites.

Or, as Senator Neuberger of Oregon puts it: "Ike would give the cream to the private utilities, the skimmed milk to the government."

What Senators George and Johnson faced, was the fact that practically every big utility in the U. S. A. teamed up with the Idaho Power Company to defeat federal development of Hells Canyon. When senators who live in the Midwest or the South have gone home recently, they've found representatives of local power companies waiting to buttonhole them at the airport or railroad station, whether the time was 5 a. m. or 11 p. m.

Approximately $1,000,000 was spent by the private utilities in leading magazines for advertisements opposing the big federal dam at Hells Canyon. The last series of ads, published in May, was estimated at around $300,000. This was the third in a series. This cost, of course, came out of the rates paid by electricity users throughout the nation.

The utility lobby even took a junket of newsmen to the Pacific Northwest earlier this year for a look at Hells Canyon. Airplane travel was free, liquor was lavish.

Flying over the famous canyon, newsmen saw a bridge down below and asked about it. "That's built to carry materials across the Snake River," explained a power company official, "but as far as we're concerned it doesn't exist."

Illegal Bridge

What he meant was that the Eisenhower administration was so anxious to help speed up construction of the Idaho Power Company's small dam at Hells Canyon before Congress could act, it let Idaho Power build a bridge without the O.K. of the chief of Army Engineers and the secretary of Army —which is a criminal offense.

On January 3 of this year, Idaho Power filed for permission to build the bridge. Under the law three weeks are required for any opposition to file protests. But on January 9, six days later, the power company went ahead with its bridge without a license from the Army to build.

When Senator Morse of Oregon wrote the Justice Department March 10, pointing out that this was subject to criminal prosecution, he did not receive a reply for two months. During this two months the bridge was completed.

Finally, on May 8, he received a reply from Warren Olney, chief of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, admitting:

"As your letter states, the commencement of construction of this bridge without prior approval of the plans by the chief of Engineers and secretary of the Army is a violation of 33 USC 401 for which criminal sanctions are provided."

However, Olney went on to point out that another section of the law which he quite frankly admitted was "somewhat unusual" provides that "it shall be the duty of district attorney's o fthe United States to vigorously prosecute all offenders whenever requested to do so by the secretary of the Army."

And since Secretary of the Army Brucker, a part of Charlie Wilson's Pentagon team, would not request prosecution, Olney said he could not prosecute.

This is one slight indication of haw far the administration leaned over backward to help the utilities take over the one remaining big damsite in the U. S. A. while letting Uncle Sam take over the poorer damsites.

Who Killed The School Bill Remains Unanswered

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Who killed the school bill with its billions of federal money for education? That's still an unanswered question on Capitol Hill, where it may become known as the "mess of 1956."

It's too bad the "right to know" doctrine—espoused by the House committee which is seeking to rid official Washington of its tendency to suppress news—doesn't extend to the behind-the-scenes maneuvers of party leaders in Congress who pulls the strings.

For the full story of what happened ought to be told. Four explanations are being offered. One is that the segregationists of the South killed the bill. The other is that the integrationists of the North did it. Another is that those who didn't want any federal interference in the financing of the schools were influential in the result and that they were alarmed because of recent Supreme Court decisions whittling down states' rights and increasing federal authority.

Wanted Amendment Unpalatable

But Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota has a simpler explanation. He blames it all on "President Eisenhower's health or recuperation or concern over personal political problems" which are supposed to have prevented him from "exerting some personal influence and leadership."

Mr. Eisenhower had already gone a long way in trying to get the bill passed. He had said once before that anything like the Powell Amendment, denying federal aid to schools in Southern states which do not adopt integration, shouldn't be tacked on to the bill. This was a daring expression on his part — a concession to expediency over and above principle.

But what did happen? Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat and one of the Negro leaders of the country, offered his amendment anyhow. It presented an issue which Republican congressmen from districts where there are many Negro voters couldn't dodge. No amount of persuasion from Mr. Eisenhower could keep them from voting for the Powell Amendment.

As for the Southern congressmen, they abstained from voting so as to make sure the Powell Amendment supporters would have a majority. They wanted the final measure to be unpalatable on every side.

But there are Northern Republicans — about 65 of them — who don't believe in federal control of education and they, too, voted for the Powell Amendment because they knew it would help kill the bill. On final passage, they joined with the Southern Democrats to make a majority against the entire bill.

Also important was the action of Northern Democrats who helped to defeat amendments, proposed by Republicans, allocating the funds on the basis of the needs of the states. This principle had previously been endorsed, but the Democrats repudiated it. The final bill, therefore, was unsatisfactory to Northern Republicans who favored federal aid and Southern Democrats who didn't, and thus was readily defeated.

Four-Party Bloc

It is a bit bewildering to see some of the so-called "liberals" ignoring what the Southern Democrats did in helping the Powell Amendment to pass or what the Northern Democrats did in defeating the Republican amendments. And yet the defeat of the bill is characterized as a case of bad executive leadership.

The truth is there are four parties in Congress today. There hasn't been a two-party system for two decades, and recent decisions of the Supreme Court curtailing states' rights mean that the four-party bloc system will remain for many more years to come.

A significant aftermath of the school bill controversy is the discovery by Southern Democrats of how near they came to being tricked by the argument that, if the measure were passed without the Powell Amendment, they should have no objection to it. For the fact is that federal funds could be withheld even without the Powell Amendment or its counterpart. The administration has a legal opinion from the Department of Justice which is being used every day by the President's Interracial Commission. It claims the right of the federal government at any time to cancel any contract with any agency, public or private, which permits discrimination in employment on the basis of "race or creed or color or national origin."

The text of this important opinion has never been disclosed, though presumably the public has a right to know the exact contents of such an important document that supports an executive order.

It's the knowledge that a threat exists to use federal authority—even in the absence of a Powell Amendment — to withhold funds from schools in the South which may prevent any school bill from ever being passed. It may lead to a demand for a specific stipulation in the law declaring that nothing in this or in any other law gives the federal government the right to withhold funds except for the reasons given in the measure itself.

Surprising Assumption

What is surprising about the whole controversy is the assumption made by the "liberals" that those who voted for the Powell Amendment should be reprimanded by President Eisenhower for voting their convictions. They are being upbraided for expressing themselves conscientiously. Because they are mostly Republicans, Mr. Eisenhower is being held responsible for their votes.

One wonders who is responsible for what the Southern Democrats did and for the votes of those Democrats who don't want federal interference in schools on any score. The theory that the presidency is a sort of benevolent dictatorship and that the Congress must become a "rubber stamp" has lately become popular doctrine with many of the so-called "liberals."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The Republican foreign policy is to keep a stranger out of the White House.

The Democrats used the same prescription from 1932 to 1952 without skipping a beat. It's the old gag about not trading hosses in mid-stream even when the river is dry.

Also don't fiddle with pop-up toasters in mid-air, don't upset a willing apple-cart and don't carry a bundle by the string.

Next they slap an extra lock on the front door. And board up the exits.

With Marshal MacMahon at the Malakoff they say, "Here I am, here I remain." That was in 1855 and Mac may still be there.

Electronic Politics

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Is television a new and revolutionary political instrument, destined to change radically and forever the style of the American political campaign? Or is it just another medium, among many, for reaching the voters?

The coming election ought to give a fair idea of the answers to these questions, simply because the Republican campaign strategists are proceeding in the first assumption, and the Democrats on the second.

The Republican campaign will be pitched directly at the viewers of the nation's 40 million television sets. The pitch will start in earnest at the Republican convention in San Francisco, Republican Chairman Len Hall and Campaign Director Robert Humphreys have recruited Hollywood actor George Murphy to direct the convention, much as a Hollywood director directs a motion picture.

Plans Entertaining Spectacle

Murphy's problem is more complicated, of course. His main object is to keep the television viewers glued to their sets, despite a total lack of suspense about the outcome, right up to the grand climax of the President's acceptance speech. To that end, he hopes to treat the television viewers to an orderly and entertaining spectacle, rather than a continuing mob scene.

But convention delegates, though sheep-like in other respects, are not subject to orders as movie extras. No convention in history, for example, has ever started on schedule. Murphy plans to deal with this problem by recruiting the most attractive Hollywood attractions—if not Marilyn Monroe, the next best thing—to appear on the platform at 10 in the morning. With the bleary-eyed delegates thus lured by beauty from their beds, the gavel will bang before a full house at 11. And the show will get under way.

If the Hall-Humphreys-Murphy plan works out, the convention will be just that—a show, and a good one. There will be plenty of professionally acted plays and pageants, naturally extolling all things Republican, to carry the television viewers through the dull spots. And there will be an absolute minimum of long-winded speeches.

25-Minute Limit

According to present plans, the main speakers will be former President Hoover and Thomas E. Dewey. But Hoover, Dewey and other speakers will be urged to keep their speeches to a maximum of 25 minutes—hardly a warm-up for the traditional convention speech, and large numbers of would-be orators—like George Bender, hard-pressed Ohio senator—are being politely but sternly discouraged.

Other still tentative convention plans included a televised dramatization of the Republican platform, with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, for example, briefly summarizing the foreign policy plank and speaking more or less off the cuff on "what Eisenhower foreign policy means for our future." The whole show, of course, will be a build-up for the climatic moment, the President's acceptance speech. The climax may be delayed to Thursday, August 23, instead of Wednesday, as originally planned, in order both to appease the San Francisco merchants and allow more time for the build up.

The campaign to follow will be aimed equally squarely at the voter with a television set. More than $2 million in television time has already been contracted for, through the advertising firm of Batton, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne . The time will be divided between 35 "five-minute" spots on major shows and 10 full half-hour periods on national hook-ups.

"Production" Periods

The President, himself, is expected to appear on only five or six of the half-hour shows, although this number may well be upped in the heat of the campaign. The other periods will be devoted to what Chairman Hall likes to call "productions," rather than speeches—perhaps a serial report by cabinet members, perhaps a cabinet meeting, shows like last winter's successful "Salute To Eisenhower," and so on. Closed circuit television will also be used, so that the President can "say a few words" to Republican get-togthers about the country.

As these plans suggest, Chairman Hall and the other Republican strategists are convinced that modern merchandising methods married to television have basically altered traditional political techniques. The Democrats scoff at this theory, perhaps because they simply don't have the money to pay for the Republican's kind of television campaign. Only the traditional whilstle stopping, the Democrats claim, can lend a campaign the needed color, movement and vigor. The election in November should provide some interesting clues on whether, as the Republican strategists believe, we are in the midst of an "electronic revolution in politics."

Learn To Swim But Don't Overestimate Ability

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Learn to swim. It may save your life or that of a companion. Besides, a good swim is fun and stimulates as well as cools.

Swimming is good exercise because all the larger muscles are put into play without bearing the weight of the body. In this respect the buoyancy of the water helps to prevent overexertion and makes swimming an excellent sport for men and women of all ages.

Only a handful of diseases are aggravated by this activity. The skin suffers the most and consequently those with eczema, psoriasis, ringworm, impetigo, and other infections should avoid water until the lesions are healed. The sun has a beneficial and drying effect on some of these conditions but many victims are sensitive about their appearance and avoid beaches and pools.

Those with sinus or ear trouble should not dive or swim under water unless nose clips and ear plugs are used. Cold water is taboo for those with poor circulation and heart trouble.

This year approximately 6,000 persons will lose their lives from drowning. Many of these tragedies will take place among swimmers who overestimate their ability or take unnecessary chances when the water is cold or rough. When a good swimmer drowns for no apparent reason there is a good possibility that he had a heart attack, epileptic seizure, leg cramp or dizziness from Meniere's disease.

Oversensitivity to cold is an unusual cause. This is a physical allergy that occurs when the swimmer ventures into cold water. Hivelike reactions ensue and breathing is affected when the lining of the windpipe becomes so swollen that the passageway is obstructed.

Every year a number of fatal accidents result from going head first into unfamiliar or shallow water. The individual failed to notice that the water receded and the old swimming hole was only half as deep as usual. Many mishaps have occurred in the dark when a midnight dip was organized after a gay party. Men and women have been down to dive into an empty pool after dark, unaware that the pool had been drained.

Everyone who goes swimming should know how to give artificial respiration. The Holger-Nielson back pressure and arm lift method is preferred to the Schafer and Silvester plans. Send a self-adressed stamped envelope for our leaflet describing the methods of artificial respiration.

TOMORROW: Hypertensive? Curb hostility.

Styles For Milady Complete A Cycle

The long-awaited news is out. And it is characterized by such words as drapes, floating panels and Big Bertha collars. These are fashion ideas of what the well-dressed woman will wear this fall.

The style-conscious are advised that the fashion picture calls for a softer-draped silhouette—with a longer skirt. Hemlines are dropping to a mid-calf length of 12 inches for 1956. The fashionable length for 1955 was 13½ to 14 inches.

The long, full skirt is continuing in popularity, but for 1956 it is fuller and often fastened on to an exaggerated high waist. Slim skirts will be right, fashionwise, too, but to them will be added flat panels, sometimes in front, sometimes in the back.

Lightweight fabrics are being used so that the wearer can have both drapes and a slim appearance, too. Fabrics which were popular in the '20s are being revived. Georgette, chiffon, velvet and lace are being widely used.

Blousing is also big news for the fashion-minded woman. It is featured in both day and evening dresses and particularly on the high-waisted styles.

Coats may be described in one word — immense. They are full with large collars and flowing hemlines. Fur trimming is widely used.

"Edwardian" is the way the fashion experts describe the style influence for fall. But if milady could dig out of an attic trunk some of the high fashions of 1906 and 1912, she would have some gowns that are as fashionable in 1955 as they were when they were first purchased.

What he meant was that the Eisenhower administration was so anxious to help speed up construction of the Idaho Power Company's small dam at Hells Canyon before Congress could act, it let Idaho Power build a bridge without the O.K. of the chief of Army Engineers and the secretary of Army —which is a criminal offense.

On January 3 of this year, Idaho Power filed for permission to build the bridge. Under the law three weeks are required for any opposition to file protests. But on January 9, six days later, the power company went ahead with its bridge without a license from the Army to build.

When Senator Morse of Oregon wrote the Justice Department March 10, pointing out that this was subject to criminal prosecution, he did not receive a reply for two months. During this two months the bridge was completed.

Finally, on May 8, he received a reply from Warren Olney, chief of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, admitting:

"As your letter states, the commencement of construction of this bridge without prior approval of the plans by the chief of Engineers and secretary of the Army is a violation of 33 USC 401 for which criminal sanctions are provided."

However, Olney went on to point out that another section of the law which he quite frankly admitted was "somewhat unusual" provides that "it shall be the duty of district attorney's o fthe United States to vigorously prosecute all offenders whenever requested to do so by the secretary of the Army."

And since Secretary of the Army Brucker, a part of Charlie Wilson's Pentagon team, would not request prosecution, Olney said he could not prosecute.

This is one slight indication of haw far the administration leaned over backward to help the utilities take over the one remaining big damsite in the U. S. A. while letting Uncle Sam take over the poorer damsites.

Who Killed The School Bill Remains Unanswered

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Who killed the school bill with its billions of federal money for education? That's still an unanswered question on Capitol Hill, where it may become known as the "mess of 1956."

It's too bad the "right to know" doctrine—espoused by the House committee which is seeking to rid official Washington of its tendency to suppress news—doesn't extend to the behind-the-scenes maneuvers of party leaders in Congress who pulls the strings.

For the full story of what happened ought to be told. Four explanations are being offered. One is that the segregationists of the South killed the bill. The other is that the integrationists of the North did it. Another is that those who didn't want any federal interference in the financing of the schools were influential in the result and that they were alarmed because of recent Supreme Court decisions whittling down states' rights and increasing federal authority.

Wanted Amendment Unpalatable

But Senator Humphrey, Democrat, of Minnesota has a simpler explanation. He blames it all on "President Eisenhower's health or recuperation or concern over personal political problems" which are supposed to have prevented him from "exerting some personal influence and leadership."

Mr. Eisenhower had already gone a long way in trying to get the bill passed. He had said once before that anything like the Powell Amendment, denying federal aid to schools in Southern states which do not adopt integration, shouldn't be tacked on to the bill. This was a daring expression on his part — a concession to expediency over and above principle.

But what did happen? Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Democrat and one of the Negro leaders of the country, offered his amendment anyhow. It presented an issue which Republican congressmen from districts where there are many Negro voters couldn't dodge. No amount of persuasion from Mr. Eisenhower could keep them from voting for the Powell Amendment.

As for the Southern congressmen, they abstained from voting so as to make sure the Powell Amendment supporters would have a majority. They wanted the final measure to be unpalatable on every side.

But there are Northern Republicans — about 65 of them — who don't believe in federal control of education and they, too, voted for the Powell Amendment because they knew it would help kill the bill. On final passage, they joined with the Southern Democrats to make a majority against the entire bill.

Also important was the action of Northern Democrats who helped to defeat amendments, proposed by Republicans, allocating the funds on the basis of the needs of the states. This principle had previously been endorsed, but the Democrats repudiated it. The final bill, therefore, was unsatisfactory to Northern Republicans who favored federal aid and Southern Democrats who didn't, and thus was readily defeated.

Four-Party Bloc

It is a bit bewildering to see some of the so-called "liberals" ignoring what the Southern Democrats did in helping the Powell Amendment to pass or what the Northern Democrats did in defeating the Republican amendments. And yet the defeat of the bill is characterized as a case of bad executive leadership.

The truth is there are four parties in Congress today. There hasn't been a two-party system for two decades, and recent decisions of the Supreme Court curtailing states' rights mean that the four-party bloc system will remain for many more years to come.

A significant aftermath of the school bill controversy is the discovery by Southern Democrats of how near they came to being tricked by the argument that, if the measure were passed without the Powell Amendment, they should have no objection to it. For the fact is that federal funds could be withheld even without the Powell Amendment or its counterpart. The administration has a legal opinion from the Department of Justice which is being used every day by the President's Interracial Commission. It claims the right of the federal government at any time to cancel any contract with any agency, public or private, which permits discrimination in employment on the basis of "race or creed or color or national origin."

The text of this important opinion has never been disclosed, though presumably the public has a right to know the exact contents of such an important document that supports an executive order.

It's the knowledge that a threat exists to use federal authority—even in the absence of a Powell Amendment — to withhold funds from schools in the South which may prevent any school bill from ever being passed. It may lead to a demand for a specific stipulation in the law declaring that nothing in this or in any other law gives the federal government the right to withhold funds except for the reasons given in the measure itself.

Surprising Assumption

What is surprising about the whole controversy is the assumption made by the "liberals" that those who voted for the Powell Amendment should be reprimanded by President Eisenhower for voting their convictions. They are being upbraided for expressing themselves conscientiously. Because they are mostly Republicans, Mr. Eisenhower is being held responsible for their votes.

One wonders who is responsible for what the Southern Democrats did and for the votes of those Democrats who don't want federal interference in schools on any score. The theory that the presidency is a sort of benevolent dictatorship and that the Congress must become a "rubber stamp" has lately become popular doctrine with many of the so-called "liberals."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The Republican foreign policy is to keep a stranger out of the White House.

The Democrats used the same prescription from 1932 to 1952 without skipping a beat. It's the old gag about not trading hosses in mid-stream even when the river is dry.

Also don't fiddle with pop-up toasters in mid-air, don't upset a willing apple-cart and don't carry a bundle by the string.

The minute the election is over the incumbents fly the status quo pennant above the flag.

Next they slap an extra lock on the front door. And board up the exits.

With Marshal MacMahon at the Malakoff they say, "Here I am, here I remain." That was in 1855 and Mac may still be there.

Electronic Politics

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Is television a new and revolutionary political instrument, destined to change radically and forever the style of the American political campaign? Or is it just another medium, among many, for reaching the voters?

The coming election ought to give a fair idea of the answers to these questions, simply because the Republican campaign strategists are proceeding in the first assumption, and the Democrats on the second.

The Republican campaign will be pitched directly at the viewers of the nation's 40 million television sets. The pitch will start in earnest at the Republican convention in San Francisco, Republican Chairman Len Hall and Campaign Director Robert Humphreys have recruited Hollywood actor George Murphy to direct the convention, much as a Hollywood director directs a motion picture.

Plans Entertaining Spectacle

Murphy's problem is more complicated, of course. His main object is to keep the television viewers glued to their sets, despite a total lack of suspense about the outcome, right up to the grand climax of the President's acceptance speech. To that end, he hopes to treat the television viewers to an orderly and entertaining spectacle, rather than a continuing mob scene.

But convention delegates, though sheep-like in other respects, are not subject to orders as movie extras. No convention in history, for example, has ever started on schedule. Murphy plans to deal with this problem by recruiting the most attractive Hollywood attractions—if not Marilyn Monroe, the next best thing—to appear on the platform at 10 in the morning. With the bleary-eyed delegates thus lured by beauty from their beds, the gavel will bang before a full house at 11. And the show will get under way.

If the Hall-Humphreys-Murphy plan works out, the convention will be just that—a show, and a good one. There will be plenty of professionally acted plays and pageants, naturally extolling all things Republican, to carry the television viewers through the dull spots. And there will be an absolute minimum of long-winded speeches.

25-Minute Limit

According to present plans, the main speakers will be former President Hoover and Thomas E. Dewey. But Hoover, Dewey and other speakers will be urged to keep their speeches to a maximum of 25 minutes—hardly a warm-up for the traditional convention speech, and large numbers of would-be orators—like George Bender, hard-pressed Ohio senator—are being politely but sternly discouraged.

Other still tentative convention plans included a televised dramatization of the Republican platform, with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, for example, briefly summarizing the foreign policy plank and speaking more or less off the cuff on "what Eisenhower foreign policy means for our future." The whole show, of course, will be a build-up for the climatic moment, the President's acceptance speech. The climax may be delayed to Thursday, August 23, instead of Wednesday, as originally planned, in order both to appease the San Francisco merchants and allow more time for the build up.

The campaign to follow will be aimed equally squarely at the voter with a television set. More than $2 million in television time has already been contracted for, through the advertising firm of Batton, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne . The time will be divided between 35 "five-minute" spots on major shows and 10 full half-hour periods on national hook-ups.

"Production" Periods

The President, himself, is expected to appear on only five or six of the half-hour shows, although this number may well be upped in the heat of the campaign. The other periods will be devoted to what Chairman Hall likes to call "productions," rather than speeches—perhaps a serial report by cabinet members, perhaps a cabinet meeting, shows like last winter's successful "Salute To Eisenhower," and so on. Closed circuit television will also be used, so that the President can "say a few words" to Republican get-togthers about the country.

As these plans suggest, Chairman Hall and the other Republican strategists are convinced that modern merchandising methods married to television have basically altered traditional political techniques. The Democrats scoff at this theory, perhaps because they simply don't have the money to pay for the Republican's kind of television campaign. Only the traditional whilstle stopping, the Democrats claim, can lend a campaign the needed color, movement and vigor. The election in November should provide some interesting clues on whether, as the Republican strategists believe, we are in the midst of an "electronic revolution in politics."

Learn To Swim But Don't Overestimate Ability

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Learn to swim. It may save your life or that of a companion. Besides, a good swim is fun and stimulates as well as cools.

Swimming is good exercise because all the larger muscles are put into play without bearing the weight of the body. In this respect the buoyancy of the water helps to prevent overexertion and makes swimming an excellent sport for men and women of all ages.

Only a handful of diseases are aggravated by this activity. The skin suffers the most and consequently those with eczema, psoriasis, ringworm, impetigo, and other infections should avoid water until the lesions are healed. The sun has a beneficial and drying effect on some of these conditions but many victims are sensitive about their appearance and avoid beaches and pools.

Those with sinus or ear trouble should not dive or swim under water unless nose clips and ear plugs are used. Cold water is taboo for those with poor circulation and heart trouble.

This year approximately 6,000 persons will lose their lives from drowning. Many of these tragedies will take place among swimmers who overestimate their ability or take unnecessary chances when the water is cold or rough. When a good swimmer drowns for no apparent reason there is a good possibility that he had a heart attack, epileptic seizure, leg cramp or dizziness from Meniere's disease.

Oversensitivity to cold is an unusual cause. This is a physical allergy that occurs when the swimmer ventures into cold water. Hivelike reactions ensue and breathing is affected when the lining of the windpipe becomes so swollen that the passageway is obstructed.

Every year a number of fatal accidents result from going head first into unfamiliar or shallow water. The individual failed to notice that the water receded and the old swimming hole was only half as deep as usual. Many mishaps have occurred in the dark when a midnight dip was organized after a gay party. Men and women have been down to dive into an empty pool after dark, unaware that the pool had been drained.

Everyone who goes swimming should know how to give artificial respiration. The Holger-Nielson back pressure and arm lift method is preferred to the Schafer and Silvester plans. Send a self-adressed stamped envelope for our leaflet describing the methods of artificial respiration.

TOMORROW: Hypertensive? Curb hostility.

BONE MARROW STUDIES

J. E. writes: What is the purpose of testing the bone marrow?

REPLY

Many forms of blood cells are manufactured in the bone and, studying the marrow, it is possible to obtain a preview of what the factory is producing in this respect. Bone marrow studies are of value in differentiating the various types of leukemia and other blood disorders.

RESTORING VISION

P. D. M. writes: Recently I have heard that the medical world has found a way of helping peopl' with poor vision (the nearsighted and farsighted) so that they will see perfectly without the aid of glasses. Is this true?

REPLY

This is news to me. Let me know when you find out what it is.

STOPGAP

AKIN TO CAFFEINE

T. L. writes: Does cocoa contain caffeine?

REPLY

WELL INSULATED

E. W. writes: Why can women stand so much more cold water in swimming than men?

REPLY

Because they are better protected by a few more layers of fat insulation.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

A refugee lady arrived in America after years of waiting. One of the thousand new things she saw on her first day here was a dial telephone. "It's no trouble at all to use it," her mentor assured her. "You just take the phone off the hook with one hand and dial the number with the other." The refugee protested, "That won't do at all. Which hand do I talk with?"

There was a big party at the French embassy in Washington to commemorate Bastille Day and an eye-arresting chorus girl somehow got in on the festivities. Had herself a ball, too. She was overheard enthusing to the gent who escorted her, "Ain't this something? Say, who was that fellow Bastille, anyhow?"

Proposed Site For City Dump Is Rejected

Lonaconing Council Adopts New Budget

LONACONING — A site under consideration by the town of Lonaconing for use as a garbage disposal area, has been declared unsuitable, Councilman Wilmoth F. Garlitz told town officials Monday night.

According to Mayor Virgil Alexander, a committee from council determined that the site is above the town reservoir and seepage from the dump might eventually pollute the water supply. Other possible sites are to be inspected, he noted.

Council heard a report from Raymond Garrett of Frostburg, representing the Inter-Ocean Franchise Insurance Company, on a group insurance plan for town officials and employes. Council is interested in such protection and will pursue the idea further.

Council granted permission to Alvin C. Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars to hold their annual "kiddies carnival" from July 30 to August 4. The affair will feature kiddie rides and other entertainment.

Finance Commissioner John G. Thomas submitted a budget to council for the fiscal year which began July 1. Mayor Alexander complimented the new finance commissioner for his work, saying "this is the first time in years that the council has had a comprehensive budget for its guidance." Council adopted the budget which calls for an expenditure and levy of $41,175.

"Miss Reading Fair" Contest To Be Based On Beauty Alone

READING, Pa.—Officials have begun their annual quest for a new queen of the Reading Fair.

Each year, the large Eastern Pennsylvania exposition selects a "fair queen" from scores of applicants in the Eastern United States. In the process, a total of $2,300 in cash prizes is paid out to the competing beauties.

The contest carries a first prize of $1,000 cash, second, $350; third, $250, and seven others of $100 each. There is no charge to enter.

The new "Miss Reading Fair" is selected from a bevy of women who may be either single or married, reside in any part of the world, and of any age above 16.

Contest rules specifically state that contestants must have reached their 16th birthdays by September 1, this year, which also is the closing date for entries.

John S. Giles, fair president, said today entry forms for the contest now are available at the Reading Fair office, 522 Court Street, Reading, Pa.

The outgoing "queen of the fair" is Miss Jane Potts, 18-year-old Reading girl. She will crown her successor in contest finals on the Reading Fair grandstand stage, Saturday night, September 15.

Preliminary judging also will take place during fair week. The elimination rounds will be held on the fair stage on Sunday and Monday nights, September 9 and 10.

Judging in the contest will be based on beauty alone. Talent will not be considered.

Reward Offered For Location Of Michael Brennen

KEYSER — A reward of $200 has been offered for information concerning the "whereabouts" of Michael Brennan, a former Westernport chief of police. Paul J. Davis, president of the National Bank of Keyser, who is administrator of the Brennan estate acted on an order from Brennan's two daughters, Mrs. Clara Bond and Mrs. Bernice Mills, both residents of Fairview, Mich., in posting the reward.

The missing man has not been seen by local persons since the night of Friday, May 13, 1955, when he was reported in Keyser. A search of New Creek and Potomac River areas was made for some trace of him, for a number of weeks by local persons, and, almost a year later, a part of a human leg was found along the Potomac River near Dawson, but it was never identified as Brennan's leg.

Bus Stop Changes Made By Council At Lonaconing

LONACONING—The mayor and council of Lonaconing have made changes in bus stops on Main Street, to become effective Monday, July 23, it was announced yesterday.

Mayor Virgil Alexander told council he had made observations on Main Street and found that buses make a total of 32 stops in a day, and remain standing from one to one and a half minutes each time.

On motion of Councilman John G. Thomas, seconded by Councilman Frederick H. Sheely, a plan was adopted on a trial basis. Beginning Monday buses headed toward Barton will stop in front of Holmes Ladies Store. Buses headed toward Frostburg will pick up and discharge passengers in front of the Brady Hotel.

Council also agreed to replace parking meters in front of Lobe's Grocery and Bradley Marshall's Confectionery and two meters in front of the Isaac Love Store. This will provide parking for four more autos on Main Street, thus aiding shoppers, council noted.

Mayor Alexander observed that the changes as adopted by council are "temporary" and council plans to try various methods of aiding the parking situation and relieving congestion.

Hardy Clerk Lists Receipts

MOOREFIELD — Receipts in Clerk R. M. Gamble's office for the month of June totaled $489. Of this sum $151.60 was for fees recording, $12.50 for fees copies, $3 fees executors cases, $6 fees administrators cases, $4 fees marriage licenses and $77 fees other.

Hunting and fishing licenses totaled $221 and included $105 for 35 resident hunting and fishing licenses, $21 for 6 resident hunting licenses, $36 for 18 resident fishing licenses, $5 for one non-resident bow hunters license, $20 for one non-resident hunting license, $6 for 6 National Forest fishing stamps, $4 for 4 National Forest hunting stamps and $33 for 11 non-resident tourist fishing licenses.

In recess of the court Wade F. Hill Jr., a qualified notary public of Putnam County, filed his certificate for Hardy County.

Frostburg To Install Half-Hour Meters

FROSTBURG—Chief of Police Lloyd Truly states that within the next two weeks all parking meters on Main Street between Broadway and Water Street and all meters on South Water between Main and Mechanic streets will be converted to half hour parking replacing the two hour parking now being permitted.

Truly states that this move is to give more shoppers an opportunity to use the parking facilities in this busy section.

Parking on South Water Street between Mechanic and the fire station will be prohibited entirely. The police station, city hall, tax collectors office, and the fire department are all in this area, and for this reason, no parking will be tolerated in this block. With several large parking lots located nearby, this move should not cause inconvenience, the chief believes.

Mineral Co. Schedules Polio Clinic

KEYSER—The next scheduled polio vaccine clinic for Mineral County will be conducted on Thursday, July 26 in the Grace Methodist Church basement on Mineral Street, from 8 to 9 a .m.

The age group priority has been extended to include the 15 to 19 year-old-group. All persons from new-born infants to include all to 20 years old and expectant mothers will now be eligible to receive the vaccine. The supply of polio vaccine has been increased considerably during the past month and because of this increase in the supply, vaccine "boosters" will be available at this clinic for all children who had two injections during the 1955 clinics.

Those receiving injections during July will develop immunity against paralytic poliomyelitis in August and it is hoped a large number of parents will consider this so important for their children that they will have them innoculated.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning Keyser 3041, the Mineral County Health Department.

Poultry King To Be Crowned At Moorefield

Search Underway For 1956 Champion

MOOREFIELD—Comparing the records of over a million broilers on the farms of 50 top poultry growers in 20 counties in West Virginia to select the W. Va., Poultry King, is the job of two men who have been working three weeks on the project.

B. W. Moore, assistant poultry specialist with the Eextension Service at West Virginia University and John Lough, agricultural representative of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad have been inspecting poultry farms and growers records in 20 West Virginia counties for the past two weeks and will complete the work this week.

The high man on the honor roll will be crowned King of Moorefield, the poultry capitol, at the Fourteenth Annual Convention of the West Virginia Poultry Association and Poultry Festival starting August 1. The crowning will take place at Moorefield School at the same time the Poultry Queen of the Festival is crowned.

Competitors for the title of King of the broiler growers will be from the Pro League, broiler raisers with flocks of over 5,000 birds. An engraved gold watch will be presented by the B&O Railroad to the King and watches will also be presented to the four runners up with the next best records. Records of weights, ratio of feed consumed per pound of finished bird, efficiency and livability are compared from records sent monthly to county agents by the grain dealers and contractors. To qualify as King the grower must have been high for two months out of the period January through May.

The top growers in the Semi-Pro League, broiler producers with flocks under 5,000 birds, will also receive awards for their superior records in improving West Virginia's boiler industry.

John T. Johnson, West Virginia's Commissioner of Agriculture, will crown the Broiler King at the same time the Poultry Queen is crowned by the president of the W. Va. Poultry Association. Frank Lloyd of Sutton was last year's Poultry King. 1955 was thef irst year a King has been selected in the 13 years of the festival but the crowning of a King will be an annual event in the future.

Interest in the Pro League and Semi-Pro League which rates the broiler growers increasing yearly and has brought about more efficiency in the production of broilers. Research by the feed mills with better and more balanced feed, coupled with improved breeder flocks and more efficient methods of production has enabled broiler growers to cut the period of producing a 3¼ pound bird from 14 weeks to nine weeks.

Luise Cowherd Represents Grant County At Red Cross Junior Leadership Course

PETERSBURG—Completing a week-long program of activities at the Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center held at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, Luise Cowherd, delegate from the Grant County Chapter, returned home Sunday.

"We were on the go from 7 a. m. until 'lights out' at 10:30 p. m.", Luise told Miss Genevera Alt, chairman, Grant County Chapter of the Junior Red Cross, upon her return to Petersburg. "The day's program opened at 9 a. m. with an assembly meeting which gave us a complete review of the Red Cross and its services, including the work of the volunteers, health and safety services, programs for the armed forces and the role of the Red Cross in disaster," Luise continued.

Learning how to serve their communities through Red Cross programs, the 179 delegates from eight eastern states participated in demonstrations of first aid, water safety, and home nursing. Each of the delegates was assigned to a discussion group which met three times daily in 50-minute sessions. During these meetings, many of which were held outdoors, they were given an opportunity to take leadership roles. Open discussions stimulated an exchange of ideas on how to improve the Junior Red Cross program on a local, national and international level.

Special activities arranged during the week included a variety show, a water-safety demonstration, and the publication of a center newspaper. Other delegates joined the choral group and arranged recreation programs. A committee was organized to plan for Saturday's closing banquet.

The center was conducted by a faculty of 26 Red Cross professional and volunteer staff members headed by Miss Harriet Hazinski, assistant director of Eastern Area Junior Red Cross with headquarters in Alexandria, Va.

Miami University was the second of three such centers to be conducted in the 16-state Eastern Area of the Red Cross this summer. The third center will be held at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

Planned to train selected Junior Red Cross members for positions of leadership, the knowledge gained at this center will enable them to take roles of responsibility in Red Cross activities for junior members. Other organizations in the community will benefit from this worthwhile endeavor, Miss Alt stated.

Proposed Site For City Dump Is Rejected

Lonaconing Council Adopts New Budget

LONACONING — A site under consideration by the town of Lonaconing for use as a garbage disposal area, has been declared unsuitable, Councilman Wilmoth F. Garlitz told town officials Monday night.

According to Mayor Virgil Alexander, a committee from council determined that the site is above the town reservoir and seepage from the dump might eventually pollute the water supply. Other possible sites are to be inspected, he noted.

Council heard a report from Raymond Garrett of Frostburg, representing the Inter-Ocean Franchise Insurance Company, on a group insurance plan for town officials and employes. Council is interested in such protection and will pursue the idea further.

Council granted permission to Alvin C. Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars to hold their annual "kiddies carnival" from July 30 to August 4. The affair will feature kiddie rides and other entertainment.

Finance Commissioner John G. Thomas submitted a budget to council for the fiscal year which began July 1. Mayor Alexander complimented the new finance commissioner for his work, saying "this is the first time in years that the council has had a comprehensive budget for its guidance." Council adopted the budget which calls for an expenditure and levy of $41,175.

"Miss Reading Fair" Contest To Be Based On Beauty Alone

READING, Pa.—Officials have begun their annual quest for a new queen of the Reading Fair.

Each year, the large Eastern Pennsylvania exposition selects a "fair queen" from scores of applicants in the Eastern United States. In the process, a total of $2,300 in cash prizes is paid out to the competing beauties.

The contest carries a first prize of $1,000 cash, second, $350; third, $250, and seven others of $100 each. There is no charge to enter.

The new "Miss Reading Fair" is selected from a bevy of women who may be either single or married, reside in any part of the world, and of any age above 16.

Contest rules specifically state that contestants must have reached their 16th birthdays by September 1, this year, which also is the closing date for entries.

John S. Giles, fair president, said today entry forms for the contest now are available at the Reading Fair office, 522 Court Street, Reading, Pa.

The outgoing "queen of the fair" is Miss Jane Potts, 18-year-old Reading girl. She will crown her successor in contest finals on the Reading Fair grandstand stage, Saturday night, September 15.

Preliminary judging also will take place during fair week. The elimination rounds will be held on the fair stage on Sunday and Monday nights, September 9 and 10.

Judging in the contest will be based on beauty alone. Talent will not be considered.

Bus Stop Changes Made By Council At Lonaconing

LONACONING—The mayor and council of Lonaconing have made changes in bus stops on Main Street, to become effective Monday, July 23, it was announced yesterday.

Mayor Virgil Alexander told council he had made observations on Main Street and found that buses make a total of 32 stops in a day, and remain standing from one to one and a half minutes each time.

On motion of Councilman John G. Thomas, seconded by Councilman Frederick H. Sheely, a plan was adopted on a trial basis. Beginning Monday buses headed toward Barton will stop in front of Holmes Ladies Store. Buses headed toward Frostburg will pick up and discharge passengers in front of the Brady Hotel.

Council also agreed to replace parking meters in front of Lobe's Grocery and Bradley Marshall's Confectionery and two meters in front of the Isaac Love Store. This will provide parking for four more autos on Main Street, thus aiding shoppers, council noted.

Mayor Alexander observed that the changes as adopted by council are "temporary" and council plans to try various methods of aiding the parking situation and relieving congestion.

Hardy Clerk Lists Receipts

Frostburg To Install Half-Hour Meters

FROSTBURG—Chief of Police Lloyd Truly states that within the next two weeks all parking meters on Main Street between Broadway and Water Street and all meters on South Water between Main and Mechanic streets will be converted to half hour parking replacing the two hour parking now being permitted.

Truly states that this move is to give more shoppers an opportunity to use the parking facilities in this busy section.

Parking on South Water Street between Mechanic and the fire station will be prohibited entirely. The police station, city hall, tax collectors office, and the fire department are all in this area, and for this reason, no parking will be tolerated in this block. With several large parking lots located nearby, this move should not cause inconvenience, the chief believes.

Luise Cowherd Represents Grant County At Red Cross Junior Leadership Course

Snead Looms As Player To Beat In PGA Tournament

Match Play Tests Will Open Friday

Sam Has Won Three Titles; Action Set For Canton, Mass.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CANTON, Mass., July 18 (AP)—It takes a strong back and a bold hitter to win the match-play marathon known as the PGA Golf Tournament, and that's why all the boys are talking Sam Snead around the Blue Hill Country Club.

The annual battle of the teaching and touring pros begins Friday, and the 43-year-old Snead is one of the few topnotch players still willing to buck the taxing five-day grind.

When Snead tees off at 12:48 p.m. (EDT) against Jack Weitzel of Columbus, Ohio, in his opening match, he will be launching his 56th match in this competition which once rang with such great names as Walter Hagen, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan.

"If Snead can get by the 18-hole matches, it'll be no contest," commented Bob Toski of Holyoke, Mass.

Sam Won Three Times

Snead has played in 15 tournaments in which he has won a total of 43 matches and lost 12. He won championships in 1942, 1949 and 1951.

The PGA, which even with this year's ditching of the on-the-scene qualifying still consists of nine rounds of golf compared with the four rounds for medal play tournaments, has scared off some of the biggest names in the sport.

The semi-retired Ben Hogan, who has won only once (1948), decided after his 1949 automobile accident that the rigors of the tournament were too tough. The National Open champion, Cary Middlecoff, has announced he probably will never play in the event again.

Medal Play Easier

"This is a tough tournament for the touring pros who are used to medal play," said Felice Torza, runnerup in the PGA in 1953 to Walter Burkemo.

"In match play you play one man, in medal you play 150.

"In match play, you can be bold because one bad hole doesn't kill you. So you see bold putters like Snead, Tommy Bolt and Walter Burkemo. Most golfers prefer medal play, hate this match-play stuff."

Snead occupies the favorite's role with a group of match play fighters including Bolt, Burkemo, Shelley Mayfield and the defending champion, Doug Ford. Ford beat Middlecoff in the 1955 finals.

Ford makes his start against Buddy Vier of South Charleston, W. Va.

Snider And Fan Shake, Make Up

Ohioan Loses Teeth As Duke Connects

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP)—Duke Snider, the fiery center fielder for the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers, agreed, along with the fan with whom he exchanged punches last night, to forget it today, but the harmony a police judge tried to create was a bit off tune.

"I lost two teeth," said Ralph Baumel of Mason, Ohio, when Judge Clarence Denning suggested that he should "forget it all."

"It's up to the gentleman," said Snider, looking at his six foot, 3 inch, 200 pound opponent.

Snider and Baumel, 33, filed charges of assault and battery against each other after a brief altercation on the field last night following a 4-3 victory by the Cincinnati Redlegs over the Dodgers. Both charges were dismissed.

Both of them agreed that Baumel said: "What's the matter, Duke? ain't you got no guts?

Snider said that as he moved toward Baumel, he was hit on the lip. He said, "I might have swung back."

Judge Denning told Baumel the matter of his teeth was one for civil action. Then he added:

"When you're in the grandstand you can call the players all the names you want, but when the game's over you ought to act like gentlemen.

"It's over now. The Redlegs won and the Dodgers lost."

Court decorum was shattered at that point when the spectators applauded.

"What do you say, Duke?" Judge Denning continued. "Are you willing to forget it?"

When Snider agreed, the home run slugger and the fan shook hands.

Baumel touched things off again, however, when he told the Duke as they shook hands that he hoped Brooklyn loses the next two games here.

Snider let it pass in the court room with no more than a dirty look but outside, when they shook hands again and Baumel repeated the hope, the Duke said sharply:

"If we do, I can tell you it couldn't happen to a better club."

Webb Given Nod Over Holly Mims

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP) — Spider Webb of Chicago, an 11-5 underdog only two months out of the Army, tonight scored a unanimous 10-round decision over a seemingly befuddled Holly Mims in Chicago Stadium.

Webb weighed 157½, Mims 157.

Webb, 23, the 1952 Olympic American champion at 156 pounds while at the University of Idaho, registered his third straight triumph since receiving his military discharge in May.

The victory was surprisingly easy. Mims, 26, of Washington, D. C. fought as if in a shell and proved a disappointment as the No. 10 middleweight contender.

Referee Frank Sikora scored it 100-89 under the Illinois system of a maximum 10 points per round to the winner. Judge Harold Marovitz had it 99-91 and Judge Spike McAdams 97-90 for Webb.

The Associated Press card favored Webb 99-92.

Quarter-Finals Set Today At Huntington

By GEORGE BOWEN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—"I feel as happy as when I won the Western last year," exclaimed Pat Lesser of Seattle today after making a crucial three-foot putt on the 18th hole. The putt put a stop to a brilliant late threat by Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, in the second round of the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tourney.

Miss Lesser's putt gave her a ninth straight par after Miss McIntire had barely missed her third straight birdie.

"I was never so happy as I was to see that one go down," said Miss Lesser as she walked off with the one-up victory over the par 72, 6,220-yard Guyan Country Club course.

In the seven other matches, there was only one mild upset and one close call.

Mrs. Mark Porter of Havertown, Pa., who was champion of this tournament in 1942 and 1943 as the former Dorothy Germain, was given a dogged battle by 17-year-old Carl Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., before the veteran won on the 19th hole. The 100-pound youngster was ahead three times during the match and came from behind to even the score on 18th with a par three while Mrs. Porter took a bogey four.

Anne Quast Scores

Miss Anne Quast, the medalist breezed past Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. of Indianapolis, 3 and 2; Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, trounced Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, 6 and 4; Berridge Long of Huntington, eliminated Nan Berry of Quincy, Ill., 5 and 3; and Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, whipped Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, 4 and 3.

Snead Looms As Player To Beat In PGA Tournament

Match Play Tests Will Open Friday

Sam Has Won Three Titles; Action Set For Canton, Mass.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CANTON, Mass., July 18 (AP)—It takes a strong back and a bold hitter to win the match-play marathon known as the PGA Golf Tournament, and that's why all the boys are talking Sam Snead around the Blue Hill Country Club.

The annual battle of the teaching and touring pros begins Friday, and the 43-year-old Snead is one of the few topnotch players still willing to buck the taxing five-day grind.

When Snead tees off at 12:48 p.m. (EDT) against Jack Weitzel of Columbus, Ohio, in his opening match, he will be launching his 56th match in this competition which once rang with such great names as Walter Hagen, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan.

"If Snead can get by the 18-hole matches, it'll be no contest," commented Bob Toski of Holyoke, Mass.

Sam Won Three Times

Snead has played in 15 tournaments in which he has won a total of 43 matches and lost 12. He won championships in 1942, 1949 and 1951.

The PGA, which even with this year's ditching of the on-the-scene qualifying still consists of nine rounds of golf compared with the four rounds for medal play tournaments, has scared off some of the biggest names in the sport.

The semi-retired Ben Hogan, who has won only once (1948), decided after his 1949 automobile accident that the rigors of the tournament were too tough. The National Open champion, Cary Middlecoff, has announced he probably will never play in the event again.

Medal Play Easier

"This is a tough tournament for the touring pros who are used to medal play," said Felice Torza, runnerup in the PGA in 1953 to Walter Burkemo.

"In match play you play one man, in medal you play 150.

"In match play, you can be bold because one bad hole doesn't kill you. So you see bold putters like Snead, Tommy Bolt and Walter Burkemo. Most golfers prefer medal play, hate this match-play stuff."

Snead occupies the favorite's role with a group of match play fighters including Bolt, Burkemo, Shelley Mayfield and the defending champion, Doug Ford. Ford beat Middlecoff in the 1955 finals.

Ford makes his start against Buddy Vier of South Charleston, W. Va.

Snider And Fan Shake, Make Up

Ohioan Loses Teeth As Duke Connects

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP)—Duke Snider, the fiery center fielder for the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers, agreed, along with the fan with whom he exchanged punches last night, to forget it today, but the harmony a police judge tried to create was a bit off tune.

"I lost two teeth," said Ralph Baumel of Mason, Ohio, when Judge Clarence Denning suggested that he should "forget it all."

"It's up to the gentleman," said Snider, looking at his six foot, 3 inch, 200 pound opponent.

Snider and Baumel, 33, filed charges of assault and battery against each other after a brief altercation on the field last night following a 4-3 victory by the Cincinnati Redlegs over the Dodgers. Both charges were dismissed.

Both of them agreed that Baumel said: "What's the matter, Duke? ain't you got no guts?

Snider said that as he moved toward Baumel, he was hit on the lip. He said, "I might have swung back."

Judge Denning told Baumel the matter of his teeth was one for civil action. Then he added:

"When you're in the grandstand you can call the players all the names you want, but when the game's over you ought to act like gentlemen.

"It's over now. The Redlegs won and the Dodgers lost."

Court decorum was shattered at that point when the spectators applauded.

"What do you say, Duke?" Judge Denning continued. "Are you willing to forget it?"

When Snider agreed, the home run slugger and the fan shook hands.

Baumel touched things off again, however, when he told the Duke as they shook hands that he hoped Brooklyn loses the next two games here.

Snider let it pass in the court room with no more than a dirty look but outside, when they shook hands again and Baumel repeated the hope, the Duke said sharply:

"If we do, I can tell you it couldn't happen to a better club."

Webb Given Nod Over Holly Mims

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP) — Spider Webb of Chicago, an 11-5 underdog only two months out of the Army, tonight scored a unanimous 10-round decision over a seemingly befuddled Holly Mims in Chicago Stadium.

Webb weighed 157½, Mims 157.

Webb, 23, the 1952 Olympic American champion at 156 pounds while at the University of Idaho, registered his third straight triumph since receiving his military discharge in May.

The victory was surprisingly easy. Mims, 26, of Washington, D. C. fought as if in a shell and proved a disappointment as the No. 10 middleweight contender.

Referee Frank Sikora scored it 100-89 under the Illinois system of a maximum 10 points per round to the winner. Judge Harold Marovitz had it 99-91 and Judge Spike McAdams 97-90 for Webb.

The Associated Press card favored Webb 99-92.

Pat Lesser, Anne Quast Are Victors

By GEORGE BOWEN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—"I feel as happy as when I won the Western last year," exclaimed Pat Lesser of Seattle today after making a crucial three-foot putt on the 18th hole. The putt put a stop to a brilliant late threat by Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, in the second round of the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tourney.

Miss Lesser's putt gave her a ninth straight par after Miss McIntire had barely missed her third straight birdie.

"I was never so happy as I was to see that one go down," said Miss Lesser as she walked off with the one-up victory over the par 72, 6,220-yard Guyan Country Club course.

In the seven other matches, there was only one mild upset and one close call.

Ruth Jessen Upset

Louise Camentz, a "stay-at-home" competitor around Louisville, Ky., upset Ruth Jessen, highly regarded traveler from Kenmore, Wash., 3 and 2. Miss Camentz holed out a 40-foot chip shot on the fourth for a birdie three and led from then until there was no need to play any longer at the 16th.

Mrs. Mark Porter of Havertown, Pa., who was champion of this tournament in 1942 and 1943 as the former Dorothy Germain, was given a dogged battle by 17-year-old Carl Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., before the veteran won on the 19th hole. The 100-pound youngster was ahead three times during the match and came from behind to even the score on 18th with a par three while Mrs. Porter took a bogey four.

Anne Quast Scores

Miss Anne Quast, the medalist breezed past Mrs. Paul Dye Jr. of Indianapolis, 3 and 2; Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, trounced Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, 6 and 4; Berridge Long of Huntington, eliminated Nan Berry of Quincy, Ill., 5 and 3; and Mary Patton Janssen of Charlottesville, whipped Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, 4 and 3.

Detroit Snaps Yankees' 11-Game String, Cop Pair 8-4, 4-3

Kaline's Homer Wins 2nd; Makes Great Catch In 9th

Lary Tames Yanks 4th Time; Mantle Hits 31st Homer

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Lowly Detroit broke the New York Yankees' 11-game winning streak today, taking both ends of a doubleheader 8-4 and 4-3, despite Mickey Mantle's 31-st home run.

Al Kaline

Al Kaline's 14-th homer off Mickey McDermott broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning of the second game after the Tigers clubbed Tom Sturdivant and Don Larsen for 12 hits in the opener. Kaline also saved the day with a leaping catch on Mantle with two on base in the ninth of the second game.

Mantle's homer, in the first inning of the opener against winner Paul Foytack, left him eight games ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 record pace after the day's action. Ruth hit his 31st in the 94th game. The Yanks now have played 86 games.

Frank Lary, one of the best Yankee tamers in the league, beat New York for the fourth time. The six-hitter was his eighth victory.

The Yanks hadn't lost a game since the opener of a July 4 doubleheader at Boston and had taken 18 of their last 20 going into their 11-game streak tied Milwaukee for the season's high in the majors.

The second game ended on a dramatic note as Kaline leaped into the air to grab Mantle's long drive to the right center field bleacher wall. Gil McDougald and Norm Siebern singled with one out and Joe Collins had flied out before Mantle came up for his final swings.

The Tigers chased Sturdivant in a six-run sixth inning to wrap up the opener before 23,169 fans. Two-run doubles by Bill Tuttle and Harvey Kuenn and a two-run single by Charley Maxwell were the crushers as 11 men went to bat against Sturdivant and reliefer Larsen.

Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons Beat Chicago

Phillies Capture Twin Bill, 6-4, 6-1

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to their first double-header sweep of the year in defeating the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-1 before 14,331 today.

Roberts gained his 10th win in the opener. He yielded 11 hits as the Phillies overcame a 4-0 Cub lead in a game marred by eight errors—four by each team.

The Phillies won the second game for Simmons, who posted his fifth win, with only six hits off three Chicago pitchers.

Jim Greengrass' first of two doubles and catcher Andy Seminick's single gave Simmons a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Jimmy Davis. Then the Phillies chased Davis with a four-run sixth.

Greengrass supplied the bulk of the power in this romp, delivering a base-cleaning double.

Giles Slaps $250 Fine On Gomez

Suspends New York Hurler Three Days; Adcock Also Fined

MILWAUKEE, July 18 (AP)—One of the wildest melees of the current National League season resulted today in a $250 fine for pitcher Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants, a $100 fine for first baseman Joe Adcock of the Milwaukee Braves and a three-day suspension for Gomez.

In addition, Gomez drew a severe reprimand from Warren C. Giles, league president, who stipulated that the fine be paid personally by the Giants' pitcher and not his team. Adcock was not suspended.

The Puerto Rican righthander touched off a mad fracas involving players of both teams in the second inning of last night's game at County Stadium when he twice hit Adcock—once with a pitched ball and once with a deliberately thrown ball. Adcock, with most of his teammates in pursuit, charged after Gomez who ran to the dugout and disappeared up the ramp leading to the clubhouse. Order was restored by the umpires and half a dozen police officers. The Giants eventually won in 11 innings, 8-6.

Must Pay Personally

Giles told Gomez in a telegram: "Your conduct in the game at Milwaukee last night was the most unsportsmanlike nature and could have had extremely serious results. For that conduct you are fined the sum of $250, payable at the league office before game time July 23. This fine is to be paid by you personally and the New York club is not to reimburse you in whole or in part."

The telegram to Adcock contained no comment other than to notify him that he had been fined $100.

Both players were banished from the game after the incident which had 33,239 spectators in uproar.

The suspension means Gomez won't face the Braves in the remaining two games of the series here, tonight and tomorrow. But Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants said he planned to pitch him against Milwaukee "the first chance I get. That's the only way we can straighten this out. I can't hide him from them."

The Braves, now leading the National League, will play the Giants at the Polo Grounds July 24, 25 and 26.

Regrets Incident

Gomez had no comment today but Rigney said he had talked with him and that the pitcher regretted the incident.

The Braves had taken a one-run lead off Gomez in the first inning when the trouble started. Adcock, who has hit 17 home runs this year, seven in the last nine games, was the first man to bat in the second. Gomez threw a close pitch that hit the 220-pound Braves' slugger on the right wrist. Umpire Bill Jackowski motioned Adcock to first base.

As Adcock jogged along the baseline, rubbing his wrist, he yelled something and Gomez answered. Adcock suddenly charged toward the mound. Gomez froze for a second, then threw the ball at Adcock. It struck Joe on the thigh. Then the chase was on, with Gomez heading for the dugout and Adcock in close pursuit.

"I run," Gomez commented. "I don't want him to break my ribs."

Said Adcock: "It's a good thing I didn't catch him; I was never so mad in my life. I got to make a living with my bat and I'm not going to stand up there and let 'em beat me to death with the ball."

Donald Fuoss Resigns Post At Shepherd

Takes Coaching Job At High School In East Orange, N. J.

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., July 18 (AP) — Donald E. Fuoss (rhymes with goose), Shepherd College athletic director and head football coach for the last three years, resigned today.

He said he would take the job of coach at East Orange, N. J. High School. Fuoss added that the change was dictated by financial and professional advantages, but no figures were given on his salary at either post.

Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry, president of the college, said no successor to Fuoss had been named.

Fuoss, 33-year-old native of Altoona, Pa., was named the state's "coach of the year" by West Virginia sportswriters after he led the Shepherd Rams football team to an undefeated eight-game season and the championship of the West Virginia College Conference.

Fuoss formerly coached at Bethany (W.Va.) college. He played his college ball at Catawba College, Salisbury, N. C., where he was named All-State center.

Marty Marion Given Heave-Ho At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Marty Marion, whose Chicago White Sox have lost 10 straight, got into an argument with plate umpire Jim Honochick in the first inning of a game with Baltimore tonight and was given the heave-ho.

Marion said he began to protest to Honochick that Oriole pitcher Connie Johnton had committed a balk in pitching to Fred Hatfield.

In the course of the argument, Marion said, he also brought up a charge that Johnson was wiping perspiration from his forehead and then pitching without rubbing his hands on his uniform, resulting in what was in effect an outlawed "spitball."

Marion's arguments apparently became too vigorous and he was waved off the field.

Detroit Snaps Yankees' 11-Game String, Cop Pair 8-4, 4-3

Kaline's Homer Wins 2nd; Makes Great Catch In 9th

Lary Tames Yanks 4th Time; Mantle Hits 31st Homer

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Lowly Detroit broke the New York Yankees' 11-game winning streak today, taking both ends of a doubleheader 8-4 and 4-3, despite Mickey Mantle's 31-st home run.

Al Kaline

Al Kaline's 14-th homer off Mickey McDermott broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning of the second game after the Tigers clubbed Tom Sturdivant and Don Larsen for 12 hits in the opener. Kaline also saved the day with a leaping catch on Mantle with two on base in the ninth of the second game.

Mantle's homer, in the first inning of the opener against winner Paul Foytack, left him eight games ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 record pace after the day's action. Ruth hit his 31st in the 94th game. The Yanks now have played 86 games.

Frank Lary, one of the best Yankee tamers in the league, beat New York for the fourth time. The six-hitter was his eighth victory.

The Yanks hadn't lost a game since the opener of a July 4 doubleheader at Boston and had taken 18 of their last 20 going into their 11-game streak tied Milwaukee for the season's high in the majors.

The second game ended on a dramatic note as Kaline leaped into the air to grab Mantle's long drive to the right center field bleacher wall. Gil McDougald and Norm Siebern singled with one out and Joe Collins had flied out before Mantle came up for his final swings.

The Tigers chased Sturdivant in a six-run sixth inning to wrap up the opener before 23,169 fans. Two-run doubles by Bill Tuttle and Harvey Kuenn and a two-run single by Charley Maxwell were the crushers as 11 men went to bat against Sturdivant and reliefer Larsen.

Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons Beat Chicago

Phillies Capture Twin Bill, 6-4, 6-1

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to their first double-header sweep of the year in defeating the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-1 before 14,331 today.

Roberts gained his 10th win in the opener. He yielded 11 hits as the Phillies overcame a 4-0 Cub lead in a game marred by eight errors—four by each team.

The Phillies won the second game for Simmons, who posted his fifth win, with only six hits off three Chicago pitchers.

Jim Greengrass' first of two doubles and catcher Andy Seminick's single gave Simmons a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Jimmy Davis. Then the Phillies chased Davis with a four-run sixth.

Greengrass supplied the bulk of the power in this romp, delivering a base-cleaning double.

Giles Slaps $250 Fine On Gomez

Suspends New York Hurler Three Days; Adcock Also Fined

MILWAUKEE, July 18 (AP)—One of the wildest melees of the current National League season resulted today in a $250 fine for pitcher Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants, a $100 fine for first baseman Joe Adcock of the Milwaukee Braves and a three-day suspension for Gomez.

In addition, Gomez drew a severe reprimand from Warren C. Giles, league president, who stipulated that the fine be paid personally by the Giants' pitcher and not his team. Adcock was not suspended.

The Puerto Rican righthander touched off a mad fracas involving players of both teams in the second inning of last night's game at County Stadium when he twice hit Adcock—once with a pitched ball and once with a deliberately thrown ball. Adcock, with most of his teammates in pursuit, charged after Gomez who ran to the dugout and disappeared up the ramp leading to the clubhouse. Order was restored by the umpires and half a dozen police officers. The Giants eventually won in 11 innings, 8-6.

Must Pay Personally

Giles told Gomez in a telegram: "Your conduct in the game at Milwaukee last night was the most unsportsmanlike nature and could have had extremely serious results. For that conduct you are fined the sum of $250, payable at the league office before game time July 23. This fine is to be paid by you personally and the New York club is not to reimburse you in whole or in part."

The telegram to Adcock contained no comment other than to notify him that he had been fined $100.

Both players were banished from the game after the incident which had 33,239 spectators in uproar.

The suspension means Gomez won't face the Braves in the remaining two games of the series here, tonight and tomorrow. But Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants said he planned to pitch him against Milwaukee "the first chance I get. That's the only way we can straighten this out. I can't hide him from them."

The Braves, now leading the National League, will play the Giants at the Polo Grounds July 24, 25 and 26.

Regrets Incident

Gomez had no comment today but Rigney said he had talked with him and that the pitcher regretted the incident.

The Braves had taken a one-run lead off Gomez in the first inning when the trouble started. Adcock, who has hit 17 home runs this year, seven in the last nine games, was the first man to bat in the second. Gomez threw a close pitch that hit the 220-pound Braves' slugger on the right wrist. Umpire Bill Jackowski motioned Adcock to first base.

As Adcock jogged along the baseline, rubbing his wrist, he yelled something and Gomez answered. Adcock suddenly charged toward the mound. Gomez froze for a second, then threw the ball at Adcock. It struck Joe on the thigh. Then the chase was on, with Gomez heading for the dugout and Adcock in close pursuit.

"I run," Gomez commented. "I don't want him to break my ribs."

Said Adcock: "It's a good thing I didn't catch him; I was never so mad in my life. I got to make a living with my bat and I'm not going to stand up there and let 'em beat me to death with the ball."

Donald Fuoss Resigns Post At Shepherd

Takes Coaching Job At High School In East Orange, N. J.

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., July 18 (AP) — Donald E. Fuoss (rhymes with goose), Shepherd College athletic director and head football coach for the last three years, resigned today.

He said he would take the job of coach at East Orange, N. J. High School. Fuoss added that the change was dictated by financial and professional advantages, but no figures were given on his salary at either post.

Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry, president of the college, said no successor to Fuoss had been named.

Fuoss, 33-year-old native of Altoona, Pa., was named the state's "coach of the year" by West Virginia sportswriters after he led the Shepherd Rams football team to an undefeated eight-game season and the championship of the West Virginia College Conference.

Fuoss formerly coached at Bethany (W.Va.) college. He played his college ball at Catawba College, Salisbury, N. C., where he was named All-State center.

Marty Marion Given Heave-Ho At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Marty Marion, whose Chicago White Sox have lost 10 straight, got into an argument with plate umpire Jim Honochick in the first inning of a game with Baltimore tonight and was given the heave-ho.

Marion said he began to protest to Honochick that Oriole pitcher Connie Johnton had committed a balk in pitching to Fred Hatfield.

In the course of the argument, Marion said, he also brought up a charge that Johnson was wiping perspiration from his forehead and then pitching without rubbing his hands on his uniform, resulting in what was in effect an outlawed "spitball."

Marion's arguments apparently became too vigorous and he was waved off the field.

Calumet's Bardstown Cops Equipoise Mile

Hartack Is Aboard Winner At Chicago

By BOB GLASS

CHICAGO, July 18—(INS)—Calumet Farm's four-year-old Gelding Bardstown came from behind in the stretch today to win the 16th running of the $50,000 added Equipoise Mile at Arlington Park.

Bardstown, which went off as an even-money favorite, ran the distance in 1:35 3/5.

The winner, part of an entry with Trentonian and Miz Clementine, beat Darby Dan Farm's Skipper Bill to the wire by two and one-half lengths. Charles Fritz' Sir Tribal was third, another length back, while Delta, owned by Claiborne Farms, was fourth.

Bardstown, with Jockey Willie Hartack aboard, paid $4, $2.40 and $2.20 across the board. Skipper Bill, a 6-to-1 choice, returned $4.40 and $3.30. Sir Tribal paid $3.40.

The victory was the third Equipoise triumph for Calumet Farm and gave it permanent possession of the Cornelius V. Whitney Trophy.

Bardstown's win was worth $37,300, boosting his all-time earnings to $48,550. The horse did not race as a two or three-year-old. It was his fifth victory in eight starts this year.

E. Gay Drake's Dogoon set the early pace with Bardstown never worse than second. Dogoon tired at the head of the stretch and by the eighth pole Dogoon had slipped to third place. Bardstown opened a ing Skipper Bill, which came from three-length lead over the onrush- eighth place in the 15-horse field, and held on gamely to the finish.

Bardstown carried 114 pounds while Skipper Bill was weighted with 122 and Sir Tribal 124.

The previous Calumet Equipoise winners were Fervent in 1948 and Sun Again in 1944.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 18—(INS)—The other day some of the old-time fight managers were bemoaning the passing of the good old days when professionals could fight on so-called "amateur" cards.

Sometimes a traveling salesman, attending an "amateur" fight show in a small town, would be surprised to find, say, Frankie Wilson, a New York lightweight pro, fighting as an amateur under the name of Benny Cohen.

A New York fight manager with a large stable of mitt slingers could keep them all busy by booking them for "amateur" shows out of town. Former lightweight champion Lou Ambers, for instance, fought scores of times as Oscar Paradise.

The manager would take five or six of various weights and arrange a tour of towns not too far apart. Since the bouts were only three rounds each, they could fight three or four times a week.

The opposition usually would be local boys. The New York manager would book his boys at so much for the lot, and everybody made money.

More than a quarter century ago this writer had an assignment to investigate bootleg boxing upstate where the boys were ducking taxes.

Many of the spots where the fights were held were fire traps. We recall one town where the fights were held on the second floor of a two-story frame house.

The ground floor was occupied by a paint shop. Above it was a hall, seating perhaps 500, where the bouts were held. The hall had only one door, which was reached by a wooden stairway. You can imagine what might have happened had a fire ever started in that paint shop.

We have seen pros fighting on "amateur" TV shows, and we have known of pros doing their bit in the army who sometimes could pick up a few bucks fighting as amateurs.

Many years ago we heard of "trusties" being let out of prison for a few hours to pick up a few bucks fighting on "amateur" cards upstate, but we could never prove it.

Sometimes amusing difficulties cropped up among legitimate amateurs. There was one young amateur, a blond Irish boy, who fought under his own name, Eddie Mannix, in New York and under the name of Eddie Olson over in New Jersey, where there was a large Swedish colony and where he was a big drawing card.

One day the New Jersey promoter received a call from an Amateur Athletic Union officer saying New York had a crack lightweight named Eddie Mannix and would like to see him meet Eddie Olson, to see which was the better man.

That was where the New Jersey promoter had to admit that Eddie Mannix, New York Irishman, and Eddie Olson, the the New Jersey Swede, were one individual.

Redlegs Sign Bruce Edwards

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs today signed catcher Bruce Edwards as a free agent. Edwards, 33, formerly played with Brooklyn and Chicago in the National League and with Washington in the American League.

General Manager Gabe Paul said he wanted the veteran as a pinch hitter and for additional catching insurance during the close National League pennant race.

Calumet's Bardstown Cops Equipoise Mile

Hartack Is Aboard Winner At Chicago

By BOB GLASS

CHICAGO, July 18—(INS)—Calumet Farm's four-year-old Gelding Bardstown came from behind in the stretch today to win the 16th running of the $50,000 added Equipoise Mile at Arlington Park.

Bardstown, which went off as an even-money favorite, ran the distance in 1:35 3/5.

The winner, part of an entry with Trentonian and Miz Clementine, beat Darby Dan Farm's Skipper Bill to the wire by two and one-half lengths. Charles Fritz' Sir Tribal was third, another length back, while Delta, owned by Claiborne Farms, was fourth.

Bardstown, with Jockey Willie Hartack aboard, paid $4, $2.40 and $2.20 across the board. Skipper Bill, a 6-to-1 choice, returned $4.40 and $3.30. Sir Tribal paid $3.40.

The victory was the third Equipoise triumph for Calumet Farm and gave it permanent possession of the Cornelius V. Whitney Trophy.

Bardstown's win was worth $37,300, boosting his all-time earnings to $48,550. The horse did not race as a two or three-year-old. It was his fifth victory in eight starts this year.

E. Gay Drake's Dogoon set the early pace with Bardstown never worse than second. Dogoon tired at the head of the stretch and by the eighth pole Dogoon had slipped to third place. Bardstown opened a ing Skipper Bill, which came from three-length lead over the onrush- eighth place in the 15-horse field, and held on gamely to the finish.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 18—(INS)—The other day some of the old-time fight managers were bemoaning the passing of the good old days when professionals could fight on so-called "amateur" cards.

A New York fight manager with a large stable of mitt slingers could keep them all busy by booking them for "amateur" shows out of town. Former lightweight champion Lou Ambers, for instance, fought scores of times as Oscar Paradise.

The manager would take five or six of various weights and arrange a tour of towns not too far apart. Since the bouts were only three rounds each, they could fight three or four times a week.

The opposition usually would be local boys. The New York manager would book his boys at so much for the lot, and everybody made money.

Many of the spots where the fights were held were fire traps. We recall one town where the fights were held on the second floor of a two-story frame house.

The ground floor was occupied by a paint shop. Above it was a hall, seating perhaps 500, where the bouts were held. The hall had only one door, which was reached by a wooden stairway. You can imagine what might have happened had a fire ever started in that paint shop.

We have seen pros fighting on "amateur" TV shows, and we have known of pros doing their bit in the army who sometimes could pick up a few bucks fighting as amateurs.

Many years ago we heard of "trusties" being let out of prison for a few hours to pick up a few bucks fighting on "amateur" cards upstate, but we could never prove it.

Sometimes amusing difficulties cropped up among legitimate amateurs. There was one young amateur, a blond Irish boy, who fought under his own name, Eddie Mannix, in New York and under the name of Eddie Olson over in New Jersey, where there was a large Swedish colony and where he was a big drawing card.

One day the New Jersey promoter received a call from an Amateur Athletic Union officer saying New York had a crack lightweight named Eddie Mannix and would like to see him meet Eddie Olson, to see which was the better man.

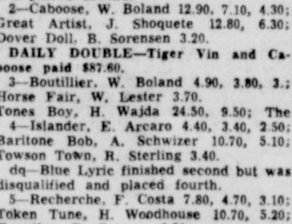

That was where the New Jersey promoter had to admit that Eddie Mannix, New York Irishman, and Eddie Olson, the the New Jersey Swede, were one individual.

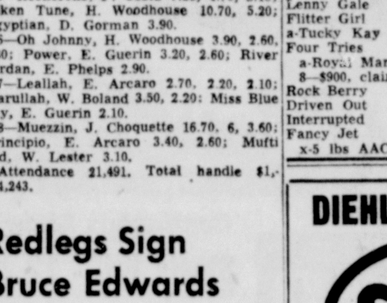

Redlegs Sign Bruce Edwards

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs today signed catcher Bruce Edwards as a free agent. Edwards, 33, formerly played with Brooklyn and Chicago in the National League and with Washington in the American League.

General Manager Gabe Paul said he wanted the veteran as a pinch hitter and for additional catching insurance during the close National League pennant race.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 18 (INS)—Now that Diana Dors, the British Marilyn Monroe, is here working at RKO—she'll stay awhile. From New York, Bill Dozier announces that he's signed the bosomy doll on a multiple picture deal taking effect immediately after her current George Gobel picture, "I Married a Woman."

Second up for Diana is "The Lady and the Prowler" which John Farrow will produce and direct. Although the story bears an amazing similarity to the William Woodward Jr., drama, it was actually presented as a TV show weeks before that tragedy shocked the social world.

I have a hot hunch (plus some pretty authentical information out of New York) that Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are so palsy-walsy that they may call off breaking up the act. How do you like that?

Straws in the wind are that Dean hasn't yet given Producer Joe Pasternak a report-date on 10,000 Bedrooms," the Conrad Hilton-type musical he's supposedly set for in Rome in September. I saw Joe at the Villa Capri the other night and he admitted he hasn't had a definite "go" sign from Dean.

Ringsiders during the nightclub engagement of the boys at the Copa report they were so sentimental doing their touted "final appearance" they almost broke down singing "Side By Side." Wouldn't it be great if they came to their senses in time?

At last, and it comes none too soon, Ann Blyth gets a part with some zing in it as Van Johnson's wife in "Pattern of Malice."

This is the scandal magazine expose in which Van plays a star ruined by a malicious magazine article. Director Roy Rowland starts it early in August at MGM after Ann finishes "The Buster Keaton Story" at Paramount.

It will do Ann a lot of good to play a role that isn't all sugar and spice. For a time it seemed that all her goody goody publicity was jinxing her chances for colorful roles.

Beautiful Swiss Miss Elisabeth Mueller got as far as New York en route to Europe to divorce Bill Meskil when she had a change of heart. She's continuing to Europe all right, but not to divorce her singer husband. Instead, she's meeting him in Salzburg for a second honeymoon! When asked why she changed her mind she laughed. "two reasons—it's a woman's preogative to change her mind, and also absence makes the heart grow fonder."

Elisabeth is the actress who has MGM winging since her appearance opposite Bob Taylor in "The Power and the Prize." She has a picture to make in Germany before returning here to fulfill her new MGM contract.

Peter Douglas, son of ex-Ambassador Douglas, and brother of Sharman, marries Virginia Lang, ex-wife of Producer Howard Lang, on July 22 in New York.

Two of Liberace's favorite dates, Margaret Lindsay and Dorothy Malone, will be his guests at his Hollywood Bowl concert Friday night and later at a party at his home—brave man.

Katharine Hepburn, who has kept the set of "The Rainmaker" closed tighter than a drum to the press, nearly flipped when Burt Lancaster invited his good friend, Ruth Waterbury, top writer, to watch a scene! They didn't need the air conditioning on the sound stage.

Good news for Phyllis and Rock Hudson. The shooting schedule on "Something of Value" in Africa has been extended two months which gives them more time for vacationing.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 18 (INS)—Now that Diana Dors, the British Marilyn Monroe, is here working at RKO—she'll stay awhile. From New York, Bill Dozier announces that he's signed the bosomy doll on a multiple picture deal taking effect immediately after her current George Gobel picture, "I Married a Woman."

Second up for Diana is "The Lady and the Prowler" which John Farrow will produce and direct. Although the story bears an amazing similarity to the William Woodward Jr., drama, it was actually presented as a TV show weeks before that tragedy shocked the social world.

I have a hot hunch (plus some pretty authentical information out of New York) that Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are so palsy-walsy that they may call off breaking up the act. How do you like that?

Straws in the wind are that Dean hasn't yet given Producer Joe Pasternak a report-date on 10,000 Bedrooms," the Conrad Hilton-type musical he's supposedly set for in Rome in September. I saw Joe at the Villa Capri the other night and he admitted he hasn't had a definite "go" sign from Dean.

Ringsiders during the nightclub engagement of the boys at the Copa report they were so sentimental doing their touted "final appearance" they almost broke down singing "Side By Side." Wouldn't it be great if they came to their senses in time?

At last, and it comes none too soon, Ann Blyth gets a part with some zing in it as Van Johnson's wife in "Pattern of Malice."

This is the scandal magazine expose in which Van plays a star ruined by a malicious magazine article. Director Roy Rowland starts it early in August at MGM after Ann finishes "The Buster Keaton Story" at Paramount.

It will do Ann a lot of good to play a role that isn't all sugar and spice. For a time it seemed that all her goody goody publicity was jinxing her chances for colorful roles.

Beautiful Swiss Miss Elisabeth Mueller got as far as New York en route to Europe to divorce Bill Meskil when she had a change of heart. She's continuing to Europe all right, but not to divorce her singer husband. Instead, she's meeting him in Salzburg for a second honeymoon! When asked why she changed her mind she laughed, "two reasons—it's a woman's preogative to change her mind, and also absence makes the heart grow fonder."

Elisabeth is the actress who has MGM winging since her appearance opposite Bob Taylor in "The Power and the Prize." She has a picture to make in Germany before returning here to fulfill her new MGM contract.

Hollywood in short:

Peter Douglas, son of ex-Ambassador Douglas, and brother of Sharman, marries Virginia Lang, ex-wife of Producer Howard Lang, on July 22 in New York.

Two of Liberace's favorite dates, Margaret Lindsay and Dorothy Malone, will be his guests at his Hollywood Bowl concert Friday night and later at a party at his home—brave man.

Katharine Hepburn, who has kept the set of "The Rainmaker" closed tighter than a drum to the press, nearly flipped when Burt Lancaster invited his good friend, Ruth Waterbury, top writer, to watch a scene! They didn't need the air conditioning on the sound stage.

Good news for Phyllis and Rock Hudson. The shooting schedule on "Something of Value" in Africa has been extended two months which gives them more time for vacationing.

Spencer Tracy and the Edward Dmytryks showed "The Mountain" to the Humphrey Bogarts in a Paramount projection room. Bogey looks okey, regaining the weight he lost during his illness.

Class To Picnic

KEYSER — The regular monthly meeting of Mrs. Bane's Sunday School class of Grace Methodist Church will be held Friday in the form of a picnic supper at 6:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Harry Taylor, Mozelle Street.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Fishes ascend waterfalls by swimming to the bottom of the deep pool usually found at the bottom of a waterfall. The water pressure combined with their own efforts shoots them high into the air and over the falls.

WIFE PRESERVERS

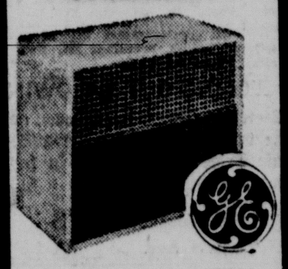

We have been told that cooking vegetables in too much water wastes their vitamin content. However, in very humid weather it is advisable to use more water than in dry weather when boiling foods, then watch to see that the water does not boil away and scorch the food.

Zeuxis, ancient Greek painter, is reputed to have painted a bunch of grapes which looked so realistic that birds pecked at them.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Double	2 spades	2 no trump
Pass	3 diams.	Pass	3 no trump
4 spades	Pass	Pass	5 diamonds
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

South could not afford to be anything less than perfect in the management of the dummy in today's hand after North's ambitious call. His technique in addition to being flawless was fraught with interest.

East had to marshall all his forces to make the grade for a sound opening bid. South's double is proper procedure to designate a strong hand with distributed cards. West seized the opportunity to announce his puny values. Bids of this kind will sometimes embarrass the opposition by consuming a certain amount of thteir bidding space and have the further merit of laying the foundation for a sacrifice bid if the enemy should reach a game contract.

North's 10 points justified his free bid of two no trump and South exercised caution in rebidding three diamonds. Lacking the king of his own suit and contributing nothing in the nature of a spade stopper he felt his partner was entitled to a mild warning. North properly fortified, proceeded nevertheless to game and East decided to take the save at four spades. North exercised questionable judgement in refusing a sure profit to try for an 11 trick game, but the end justified the means.

West opened the queen of spades and declarer carefully refused the trick. Had he taken it, the eventual end play for his contract would have been impossible, for East at the crucial moment, would have had a spade with which to exit gracefully.

Declarer won the spade continuation, and, lacking sufficient entries, properly went to work on his side suits before drawing trumps. He first had to lead a heart and won with the king in his own hand. He then led the ace of diamonds and over to the king. Now came the winning club finesse and declarer cashed all his trumps, reducing dummy to the queen of hearts and two clubs. East, compelled to hold on to two clubs, had to blank his ace of hearts. A heart now put him in to make the suicidal club return.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Stock Market's Advance

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Profit-taking interrupted the summer rise today as the stock market closed irregular.

The market was higher at the start. A spell of profit-taking occurred in mid-morning then prices recovere under leadership by steels, motors, rails and some oils.

The market suffered some impact as news came that stockholders of American Telephone would vote on a proposal to increase authorized stock from 60 to 100 million shares and receive rights to buy one new share for each ten outstanding.

Steels were solidly on the upside early in the session but closed mixed to mark the 185h day of the strike.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents to $188.20 with the industrials down 50 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

The day's most active stock was Benguet, unchanged at 2 on 190,000 shares. Second was Sunray Oil, off ¼ at 27½ on 42,000 shares. Third was American Telephone, off 1⅜ at 180⅞ on 38,600 shares.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Stock Market's Advance

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Profit-taking interrupted the summer rise today as the stock market closed irregular.

The market was higher at the start. A spell of profit-taking occurred in mid-morning then prices recovere under leadership by steels, motors, rails and some oils.

The market suffered some impact as news came that stockholders of American Telephone would vote on a proposal to increase authorized stock from 60 to 100 million shares and receive rights to buy one new share for each ten outstanding.

Telephone, owned by more stockholders than any other company, fell 2½ on the news but trimmed the loss to 1⅜ by the close.

Steels were solidly on the upside early in the session but closed mixed to mark the 185h day of the strike.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 30 cents to $188.20 with the industrials down 50 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Volume, at 2,530,000 shares, was the highest since June 8.

Albrecht Gets Go-Ahead On Pumping Units

Four Contracts Let On Flood Job Here

The E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago, has been notified to proceed with the construction of the Ridgeley and Mill Race pumping stations of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program, according to Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers here.

The firm, which is already at work on two other contracts on the $18,000,000 flood control job, submitted a bid of $732,735 for building the two big pumping units which will be needed to force surface water over the levees in times of flood.

Funds to start the pumping units, and to continue work on three major contracts in the program, will come from the $3,400,000 appropriation made by Congress for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Rain Delays Work

At present, the Albrecht firm has completed about 73 per cent of an $817,480 contract for Section 1 of the Potomac River phase of the program.

Plagued by high water which began late last fall, the same company has completed about 15 per cent—and is about 10 per cent behind schedule—on a $2,077,869 contract for Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek channel phase, which includes the Viaduct pumping station, the third pumping station needed on the project.

New Contract Begins

The other contract, for Section 4 of Wills Creek, was awarded recently to the Hazelwood Construction Company of Cumberland. The firm has completed less than one per cent of its $2,854,253 contract, which will include the construction of new traffic and railroad bridges at Baltimore Street, and temporary spans to carry traffic while the new spans are under construction.

Hazelwoob crews are set up on the job, have built a coffer dam along the east side of Wills Creek, below Baltimore Street, and are now getting ready to begin exploratory work in the channel.

The company also has placed orders for many of the materials needed for the big contract and some of the items are being delivered.

Slopes Are Paved

In Wills Creek, Albrecht crews have started paving the slope of the west side of the creek as crews downstream excavate and blast the creek bed to the new grade, designed to speed flood waters through the city.

Along the Potomac, Albrecht crews in Ridgeley have started digging a ditch along the toe of the levee in West Ridgeley, and have begun to revise manholes to eliminate complaints of odors eminating from the openings.

The company yesterday switched some crews to West Cumberland to work on the levees here, since the West Virginia levee was too wet when crews reported for work.

Dexter said a few more days of work will complete the West Ridgeley levee, except for topsoil and seeding, and that work remaining on the West Cumberland levee can be completed in from a week to 10 days, except for a section near the old Blue Bridge.

Pence Is Appointed To State Rec Group

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, has been appointed a member of the recreation committee of the Maryland Commission for the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, chairman of the commission, advised the committee will hold its first meeting July 24 at 10 a. m. in Baltimore.

The committee will help to set up standards for recreation's part in Maryland's long-range plan for combating juvenile delinquency.

Rec Department To Offer Junior Lifesaving Course

The City Recreation Department will offer a junior lifesaving course at Constitution Park pool, beginning Monday, according to Robert E. Pence, director.

The two-weeks course will be offered from 11 a.m. to noon, with Miss Sue Silcox, a qualified Red Cross life saving instructor, in charge.

Pence said many of the youngsters who have been attending swimming classes offered through playgrounds this summer have improved to the point they can qualify for the lifesaving class.

Applicants must be able to swim 220 yards continuously in order to qualify for the training, he said.

To date, 12 have applied for the lifesaving course and Pence said he hopes at least six more will apply by end of the week.

Courtesy Rules Outlined For Picnickers, Campers

One sure way picnickers, campers and hikers, as well as swimmers, can fully enjoy the various recreation areas maintained by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks is to cooperate in heeding a few simple rules of the department.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said that with a little more effort and consideration, everyone can enjoy himself during leisure moments at such areas.

Fires should be built only in designated places, and all matches, cigarets and cigars should be thoroughly extinguished when disposed of. A carelessly tossed match or cigaret can result in devastating forest fires.

The department provides receptacles for the disposal of refuse, and the use of such receptacles keeps the grounds clean and attractive for others who plan on a picnic and day of fun.

The public is urged not to damage or destroy the recreation area property, and the picking of flowers, shrubs and other plants is not allowed.

Motorists are urged to park their vehicles in spaces designated, and to observe speed limits. An unseen child can easily dart into the path of a car.

Firearms, fireworks or other explosives are prohibited in state parks, and no glass or crockery is permitted on beach areas. Broken bottles can cause serious injuries to a swimmer strolling along the beach.

Swimmers are reminded to swim only in places and at hours designated.

Unemployment Insurance Law Changes Cited

Employment Security Board Chairman Robert B. Kimble revealed yesterday that more than 46,000 copies of revised regulations interpreting the provisions of the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law have been mailed to employers, subject to the State's Unemployment Insurance Law, since May 1 of this year.

Enactment of amendments to the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law by the Legislature during its 1956 session made it necessary for the Board to rescind some of the regulations, substituting others to conform with the amendments.

An important change relating to the reporting requirements of employers is a new type self-addressed accession report (Form U. C. 211), developed by the Board to expedite reporting and to provide a file copy for employers. This new form, he said, should prove very helpful to employers who have branch establishments, in that each branch can complete the form and submit it to the Department of Employment Security and at the same time, forward the duplicate to their company's office promptly for accounting purposes. Employers, of course, may continue to use the single type accession form when reporting.

Other improvements benefiting employers are Sections 5A (c) and (e) of Regulation No. 1.

Section 5A (c) provides that for the purpose of accession reporting Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall not be considered as business or working days when determining the date on which the employe began his employment.

Section 5A (e) provides if the employe is hired as a result of a referral to the employer from the Employment Service Division of the Department, the employer may return the self-addressed verification card in lieu of the U. S. 211, accession report, not later than the fifth business or working day, excluding Saturday, Sundays and holidays.

Kimble said the distribution of new Board regulations, coupled with recent Board action assessing the maximum penalty of $10 for each failure to meet the reporting requirements of Section 11 (g) (3) of the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law, has brought about a better understanding of employer responsibilities with regard to submission of reports.

Legislators' Liaison Group Recommended

Would Meet With Governor, SRC

The Legislative Council at a meeting in Baltimore Tuesday recommended appointment of a liaison committee which would sit in on a scheduled meeting of Governor McKeldin and members of the State Roads Commission.

The purpose of the meeting of the Governor and SRC will be to make plans for the utilization of funds which will be made available to Maryland under the Federal Highway Act.

Del. George R. Hughes Jr., House minority leader, who attended the Legislative Council meeting, said yesterday a liaison committee was recommended to assure that legislators would be more fully informed of the plans when the General Assembly meets during its regular session next year.

Every four years, Hughes added, a re-appraisal of funds earmarked toward the 12-year program is made. By the next session it will be time for the contemplated changes by the Governor and the SRC.

Delegate Hughes pointed out that within the next 13 years Maryland will get well over $400,000,000 from the federal government for use in its highway program.

The huge highway bill was approved on June 26 by Congress. In addition to funds for the interstate system, Maryland will get a larger sum for building new primary, secondary and urban roads.

The Potomac River pollution problem also came up for discussion during the meeting on Tuesday. Del. Lester B. Reed, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, was named to a committee to study the control of pollution in the river.

He was appointed by Sen. Louis J. Goldstein (D-Calvert County), president of the council. Heading the anti-pollution committee is Del. Hervey G. Machen of Prince Georges County.

Two Women Admitted To Sacred Heart

Two women were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for injuries sustained in accidents at their homes.

Mrs. Agnes DeVore, 54, Ellerslie, was stung by a bee and fell into some bushes that had been sprayed with an insecticide. Hospital attaches said the spray made her very ill. She is being held for observation.

Also admitted was Mrs. Etta B. Coulehan, 85, of 531 Cumberland Street, who fractured her hip in a fall at her home.

Miller's School Board Commission Arrives

The commission appointing Joseph M. Miller, 420 Fayette Street, to the Board of Education for Allegany County has been received by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

According to the commission, signed by Governor McKeldin, Miller will be a member of the board for the remainder of a six-year term from the first Monday in May 1953. He replaces W. Earle Cobey, who resigned the post on the advice of his physician.

Tyler Is Improving

Arthur R. Tyler, 20 North Chase Street, is getting along well in Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted as a medical patient last Friday. He is an inspector for the Corps of Engineers on the local flood control project.

Polio Vaccine Shot Program Moves Ahead

323 Are Inoculated By Health Department

More than 300 youngsters reported to two clinics held yesterday by the Allegany County Health Department for shots of polio vaccine.

Included were 155 who received shots at the special polio clinic held yesterday morning in City Hall.

The polio prevention program is being pushed here by private physicians and the Health Department in accordance with the wishes of the State Health Department.

No Cases Yet

If the program moves ahead as it has during the past six weeks, most of those in Allegany in the most vulnerable age group will be protected by late August or early September, when most of the polio cases turn up in Western Maryland.

None have been reported here to date, health officials said yesterday.

Until recently, vaccine was available only to those in the 1-through-15 age group.

Several weeks ago, the State Health Department urged that all children who have reached the age of three months and are under 20 years, and all pregnant women, should have two doses of poliomyelitis vaccine as soon as possible.

46 Per Cent Protected

As of June 15, 46 per cent of the 11,645 children in Allegany County in the 1-through-15 age group had received one or more shot of polio vaccine, and 3 per cent of them had received two shots.

Private physicians are getting 70 per cent of the polio vaccine earmarked for Maryland, and the other 30 per cent is allotted to health departments in Baltimore City and the counties.

W.Va. Hopes To Get U.S. Road Funds

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—An informal committee, striving to get federal aid for a free north-south highway in West Virginia, decided today to survey the area such a route would serve.

The 11-member committee includes Road Commissioner Burl A. Sawyers, but he explained later that its work officially would be independent from his department.

Most members represent groups interested in the West Virginia Turnpike and possible extensions. Its chairman, A. Garnett Thompson, is also chairman of the West Virginia Turnpike Commission.

He said the committee's survey would be presented to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, in hopes of procuring mileage for West Virginia under a recent Federal Highway Act.

The act provides for 40,000 miles of interstate highways throughout the United States, and for 1,000 additional miles which have not yet been allocated.

Thompson explained that the committee hopes to get part of the 1,000 miles for a north-south highway in West Virginia.

"Such a road is important in West Virginia because of the industrial development that has occurred in the past several years and which will continue to develop," he said. "It's important both from a defense and from an economic standpoint."

He added that the committee also would get in touch with road officials of bordering states to enlist their support for such a route.

"We are not trying to determine what route such a highway ought to take," Thompson explained. "First we have to get the facts, which may show one is preferable to another."

Heart Association To Meet July 26

A meeting of the board of directors, committee chairmen and members of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association will be held July 26 at 6:30 p. m. at Hill Top Inn, two miles east of Grantsville on U. S. Route 40.

The meeting will follow a "Dutch" treat buffet supper served for members and their families.

Members have been asked to notify Mrs. Rachel Iames, secretary, by Friday about their reservations.

$9,864 Spent Last Year In Heart Service

Association Issues Breakdown Of Costs

A report of the operation of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association for the year ending June 30, has been completed by the board of directors and shows that a total of $9,864.48 was expended in the two counties for heart services.

Funds were expended for salaries for the executive secretary and visiting nurse, office rent, purchase of medical and hospital supplies which are loaned to heart patients, general administration, rehabilitation, education and bicillin.

The association has a total of 74 rheumatic fever patients who are supplied bicillin daily without charge, as prescribed by physicians. This bicillin, the one drug which controls and prevents recurrences of rheumatic fever, is one of the most important activities of the heart program. Officers of the association, in a study of the case histories involved, claim that untold suffering has been prevented, rheumatic fever patients are on the road to good health, and in some instances, lives have actually been saved.

Direct Benefits

While the program is an expensive one, it is felt it is one of the most direct benefits the heart program has to offer.

Under community service, the report shows that $2,747.51 was expended in various services, most of which are rendered in the homes of heart patients at the request of each patient's personal physician.

Under the heading of education, the association is charged with keeping area physicians informed of all developments in the cardiac field, as released by the American Heart Association and the Maryland Heart Association. This education program for professional people was carried on at a cost of $414.16, involving largely mailing of information and by personal contacts.

Under public education, the association spent $807.68, which involved films, literature and other materials for schools and various civic organizations.

Rehabilitation Program

The association, under its rehabilitation program, expended funds for travel required in transporting patients to Baltimore for study and care under this program. The association records show that four men with heart conditions, after being checked by a work reclassification unit, have been returned to gainful employment, taken off relief rolls, and have been placed in jobs they can do without danger to their heart or heart condition.

Funds were spent for rent, office expenses such as stationery, printing, telephone and postage. These items total $908.73. Salaries and wages amounted to $2,913.16. Expenses of the fund campaign, including purchase of material, literature and postage, totaled $707.94.

The report notes that as services increase, and demand for more home care and broadened education advances, cost of operations continue to rise. Heart officials said indications are that in the fiscal year just getting under way, the operation of the program will be 25 per cent greater than in the fiscal year just closed.

School Board Office Will Be Cleaned

Workmen from the Joseph J. Graciano Company of Pittsburgh will begin cleaning the Allegany County Board of Education building on Washington Street later this week after finishing the sandblasting and waterproofing of First Presbyterian Church.

The brick on the Board of Education property will be steam-cleaned, the foundation will be sandblasted and the whole building will be waterproofed. This job is supposed to take about two weeks. Work on the Presbyterian Church took nearly a month.

The Pittsburgh firm today is scheduled to finish sandblasting and waterproofing the South Branch Valley Bank building in Moorefield. Last year the same company cleaned the Second National Bank and Liberty Trust Company buildings.

Motor Overheats

Central Fire Company was called to the D. A. Langer grocery store at 505 North Centre Street at 4:30 p. m. yesterday when a motor in a deep freeze unit overheated. Damage was confined to the motor.

Local Eagles Planning To Attend National Meet

A delegation of members of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, plans to attend the Grand Aerie Convention which will be held in Pittsburgh July 26 through July 29.

Convention headquarters will be at the William Penn Hotel. Herman L. Myers, state secretary of the Maryland-District of Columbia Aerie, said last night he plans to attend on a major committee appointment.

Other local members who plan to drive to the convention next week are Robert E. Danner, designated delegate from the Cumberland Aerie; John L. Farrin, past worthy president, who will attend on a minor committee appointment; Thomas J. Hopwood, and Charles W. Robinette, past worthy presidents, and Waverly F. Rice, past state president.

Myers said the wives of the members will acompany them to the convention.

Among the highlights will be the "Sports Night" banquet slated for Thursday, July 26, and the "State Breakfast," which will be held on Saturday. Howard G. Dressel of Baltimore will be in charge of the arrangements for the breakfast.

Plan To Limit Site Of Federal Court Killed

Sen. Butler Has Item Eliminated

At the insistence of Senator John Marshall Butler, a provision which would have prevented the United States District Court for the District of Maryland from sitting in Cumberland and Denton was stricken from the Omnibus Judge Bill, S. 1256, in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senator Butler reported that, working in close cooperation with Rep. Edward T. Miller, he persuaded fellow members of the Senate Judiciary Committee on Tuesday to strike the provision affecting Cumberland and Denton from the bill.

"In the absence of an overwhelming expression of preference by the practicing Maryland Bar for such a limiting provision, I felt compelled to oppose it," Senator Butler reported, adding:

Urges Flexibility

"For some time now, Mr. Miller and I have been doing everything in our power to see to it that no legislative steps are taken which would give any Marylander — no matter where he lives throughout the State — a reason to feel that the United States District Court of Maryland was in any way, shape or form confined to Baltimore City.

"After all, this great court is Federal in nature. It is, and should continue to be, able to sit in places other than Baltimore City when the ends of justice require that it do so."

Provision that the U. S. District Court could sit in Cumberland and Denton, when needed, was one of the original stipulations in the law which set up the court, it was recalled here.

The Court was held here in June at the request of defense attorneys in the trial of Thomas O. McGeady.

The session marked the first time since 1937 that the district court had convened in Cumberland for a jury trial, although a non-jury case was held here in 1939.

Judge Is Willing

News of the move to strike Cumberland from the facilities of the court was a surprise to attorneys here.

Former Attorney General William C. Walsh last night recalled that Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, in opening the McGeady trial, stated the court would be glad to convene here again any time it is needed.

It was pointed out that the proposal might have originated as an economy move.

No economies would result, as the court recently sold its furniture in its quarters here to Allegany County, and for some time has not maintained a deputy clerk here.

Interest Shown In City Fire, Police Tests

Thirty-five applications have been issued by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery for tests planned by the Civil Service Commission for the positions of policeman, fireman and draftsman.

Ullery said 19 application forms have been taken out for police tests, and five of them have been returned. Fifteen applications for tests for firemen have been secured and four returned, and one application has been secured for the draftsman's test.

Completed applications must be filed with Ullery by Monday at 4 p. m.

City officials have expressed pleasure with the interest shown in the examinations.

The commission will meet Monday at 7 p. m. in its office at City Hall to check the applications.

The date for the tests probably will be set at this meeting, according to Ullery, who is secretary of the commission.

Presiding will be Fred E. Ryan, the new chairman. Members are Ralph R. Webster and Francis A. Kenney.

Another Fair Day Promised

The weatherman last night promised partly cloudy skies for today and the temperature is expected to go into the low 80s.

Yesterday the temperature reached an unofficial high of 82 degrees about 12:30 p. m. and during the afternoon the thermometer registered about 80. By 9 p. m. it had dipped to 70 degrees, indicative of good sleeping weather.

Albrecht Gets Go-Ahead On Pumping Units

Four Contracts Let On Flood Job Here

The E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago, has been notified to proceed with the construction of the Ridgeley and Mill Race pumping stations of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program, according to Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers here.

The firm, which is already at work on two other contracts on the $18,000,000 flood control job, submitted a bid of $732,735 for building the two big pumping units which will be needed to force surface water over the levees in times of flood.

Funds to start the pumping units, and to continue work on three major contracts in the program, will come from the $3,400,000 appropriation made by Congress for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Rain Delays Work

At present, the Albrecht firm has completed about 73 per cent of an $817,480 contract for Section 1 of the Potomac River phase of the program.

Plagued by high water which began late last fall, the same company has completed about 15 per cent—and is about 10 per cent behind schedule—on a $2,077,869 contract for Sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek channel phase, which includes the Viaduct pumping station, the third pumping station needed on the project.

New Contract Begins

The other contract, for Section 4 of Wills Creek, was awarded recently to the Hazelwood Construction Company of Cumberland. The firm has completed less than one per cent of its $2,854,253 contract, which will include the construction of new traffic and railroad bridges at Baltimore Street, and temporary spans to carry traffic while the new spans are under construction.

Hazelwoob crews are set up on the job, have built a coffer dam along the east side of Wills Creek, below Baltimore Street, and are now getting ready to begin exploratory work in the channel.

The company also has placed orders for many of the materials needed for the big contract and some of the items are being delivered.

Slopes Are Paved

In Wills Creek, Albrecht crews have started paving the slope of the west side of the creek as crews downstream excavate and blast the creek bed to the new grade, designed to speed flood waters through the city.

Along the Potomac, Albrecht crews in Ridgeley have started digging a ditch along the toe of the levee in West Ridgeley, and have begun to revise manholes to eliminate complaints of odors eminating from the openings.

The company yesterday switched some crews to West Cumberland to work on the levees here, since the West Virginia levee was too wet when crews reported for work.

Dexter said a few more days of work will complete the West Ridgeley levee, except for topsoil and seeding, and that work remaining on the West Cumberland levee can be completed in from a week to 10 days, except for a section near the old Blue Bridge.

Pence Is Appointed To State Rec Group

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, has been appointed a member of the recreation committee of the Maryland Commission for the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, chairman of the commission, advised the committee will hold its first meeting July 24 at 10 a. m. in Baltimore.

The committee will help to set up standards for recreation's part in Maryland's long-range plan for combating juvenile delinquency.

Rec Department To Offer Junior Lifesaving Course

The City Recreation Department will offer a junior lifesaving course at Constitution Park pool, beginning Monday, according to Robert E. Pence, director.

The two-weeks course will be offered from 11 a.m. to noon, with Miss Sue Silcox, a qualified Red Cross life saving instructor, in charge.

Pence said many of the youngsters who have been attending swimming classes offered through playgrounds this summer have improved to the point they can qualify for the lifesaving class.

Applicants must be able to swim 220 yards continuously in order to qualify for the training, he said.

To date, 12 have applied for the lifesaving course and Pence said he hopes at least six more will apply by end of the week.

Courtesy Rules Outlined For Picnickers, Campers

One sure way picnickers, campers and hikers, as well as swimmers, can fully enjoy the various recreation areas maintained by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks is to cooperate in heeding a few simple rules of the department.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said that with a little more effort and consideration, everyone can enjoy himself during leisure moments at such areas.

Fires should be built only in designated places, and all matches, cigarets and cigars should be thoroughly extinguished when disposed of. A carelessly tossed match or cigaret can result in devastating forest fires.

The department provides receptacles for the disposal of refuse, and the use of such receptacles keeps the grounds clean and attractive for others who plan on a picnic and day of fun.

The public is urged not to damage or destroy the recreation area property, and the picking of flowers, shrubs and other plants is not allowed.

Motorists are urged to park their vehicles in spaces designated, and to observe speed limits. An unseen child can easily dart into the path of a car.

Firearms, fireworks or other explosives are prohibited in state parks, and no glass or crockery is permitted on beach areas. Broken bottles can cause serious injuries to a swimmer strolling along the beach.

Swimmers are reminded to swim only in places and at hours designated.

Unemployment Insurance Law Changes Cited

Employment Security Board Chairman Robert B. Kimble revealed yesterday that more than 46,000 copies of revised regulations interpreting the provisions of the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law have been mailed to employers, subject to the State's Unemployment Insurance Law, since May 1 of this year.

Enactment of amendments to the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law by the Legislature during its 1956 session made it necessary for the Board to rescind some of the regulations, substituting others to conform with the amendments.

An important change relating to the reporting requirements of employers is a new type self-addressed accession report (Form U. C. 211), developed by the Board to expedite reporting and to provide a file copy for employers. This new form, he said, should prove very helpful to employers who have branch establishments, in that each branch can complete the form and submit it to the Department of Employment Security and at the same time, forward the duplicate to their company's office promptly for accounting purposes. Employers, of course, may continue to use the single type accession form when reporting.

Other improvements benefiting employers are Sections 5A (c) and (e) of Regulation No. 1.

Section 5A (c) provides that for the purpose of accession reporting Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall not be considered as business or working days when determining the date on which the employe began his employment.

Section 5A (e) provides if the employe is hired as a result of a referral to the employer from the Employment Service Division of the Department, the employer may return the self-addressed verification card in lieu of the U. S. 211, accession report, not later than the fifth business or working day, excluding Saturday, Sundays and holidays.

Kimble said the distribution of new Board regulations, coupled with recent Board action assessing the maximum penalty of $10 for each failure to meet the reporting requirements of Section 11 (g) (3) of the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Law, has brought about a better understanding of employer responsibilities with regard to submission of reports.

Legislators' Liaison Group Recommended

Would Meet With Governor, SRC

The Legislative Council at a meeting in Baltimore Tuesday recommended appointment of a liaison committee which would sit in on a scheduled meeting of Governor McKeldin and members of the State Roads Commission.

The purpose of the meeting of the Governor and SRC will be to make plans for the utilization of funds which will be made available to Maryland under the Federal Highway Act.

Del. George R. Hughes Jr., House minority leader, who attended the Legislative Council meeting, said yesterday a liaison committee was recommended to assure that legislators would be more fully informed of the plans when the General Assembly meets during its regular session next year.

Every four years, Hughes added, a re-appraisal of funds earmarked toward the 12-year program is made. By the next session it will be time for the contemplated changes by the Governor and the SRC.

Delegate Hughes pointed out that within the next 13 years Maryland will get well over $400,000,000 from the federal government for use in its highway program.

The huge highway bill was approved on June 26 by Congress. In addition to funds for the interstate system, Maryland will get a larger sum for building new primary, secondary and urban roads.

The Potomac River pollution problem also came up for discussion during the meeting on Tuesday. Del. Lester B. Reed, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, was named to a committee to study the control of pollution in the river.

He was appointed by Sen. Louis J. Goldstein (D-Calvert County), president of the council. Heading the anti-pollution committee is Del. Hervey G. Machen of Prince Georges County.

Two Women Admitted To Sacred Heart

Two women were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for injuries sustained in accidents at their homes.

Mrs. Agnes DeVore, 54, Ellerslie, was stung by a bee and fell into some bushes that had been sprayed with an insecticide. Hospital attaches said the spray made her very ill. She is being held for observation.

Also admitted was Mrs. Etta B. Coulehan, 85, of 531 Cumberland Street, who fractured her hip in a fall at her home.

Miller's School Board Commission Arrives

The commission appointing Joseph M. Miller, 420 Fayette Street, to the Board of Education for Allegany County has been received by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

According to the commission, signed by Governor McKeldin, Miller will be a member of the board for the remainder of a six-year term from the first Monday in May 1953. He replaces W. Earle Cobey, who resigned the post on the advice of his physician.

Tyler Is Improving

Arthur R. Tyler, 20 North Chase Street, is getting along well in Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted as a medical patient last Friday. He is an inspector for the Corps of Engineers on the local flood control project.

Polio Vaccine Shot Program Moves Ahead

323 Are Inoculated By Health Department

More than 300 youngsters reported to two clinics held yesterday by the Allegany County Health Department for shots of polio vaccine.

Included were 155 who received shots at the special polio clinic held yesterday morning in City Hall.

Another 168 received first or second shots at a polio vaccine clinic held at Westernport.

The polio prevention program is being pushed here by private physicians and the Health Department in accordance with the wishes of the State Health Department.

No Cases Yet

If the program moves ahead as it has during the past six weeks, most of those in Allegany in the most vulnerable age group will be protected by late August or early September, when most of the polio cases turn up in Western Maryland.

None have been reported here to date, health officials said yesterday.

Until recently, vaccine was available only to those in the 1-through-15 age group.

Several weeks ago, the State Health Department urged that all children who have reached the age of three months and are under 20 years, and all pregnant women, should have two doses of poliomyelitis vaccine as soon as possible.

46 Per Cent Protected

As of June 15, 46 per cent of the 11,645 children in Allegany County in the 1-through-15 age group had received one or more shot of polio vaccine, and 3 per cent of them had received two shots.

Private physicians are getting 70 per cent of the polio vaccine earmarked for Maryland, and the other 30 per cent is allotted to health departments in Baltimore City and the counties.

W.Va. Hopes To Get U.S. Road Funds

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 18 (AP)—An informal committee, striving to get federal aid for a free north-south highway in West Virginia, decided today to survey the area such a route would serve.

The 11-member committee includes Road Commissioner Burl A. Sawyers, but he explained later that its work officially would be independent from his department.

Most members represent groups interested in the West Virginia Turnpike and possible extensions. Its chairman, A. Garnett Thompson, is also chairman of the West Virginia Turnpike Commission.

He said the committee's survey would be presented to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, in hopes of procuring mileage for West Virginia under a recent Federal Highway Act.

The act provides for 40,000 miles of interstate highways throughout the United States, and for 1,000 additional miles which have not yet been allocated.

Thompson explained that the committee hopes to get part of the 1,000 miles for a north-south highway in West Virginia.

"Such a road is important in West Virginia because of the industrial development that has occurred in the past several years and which will continue to develop," he said. "It's important both from a defense and from an economic standpoint."

He added that the committee also would get in touch with road officials of bordering states to enlist their support for such a route.

"We are not trying to determine what route such a highway ought to take," Thompson explained. "First we have to get the facts, which may show one is preferable to another."

Local Eagles Planning To Attend National Meet

A delegation of members of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, plans to attend the Grand Aerie Convention which will be held in Pittsburgh July 26 through July 29.

Convention headquarters will be at the William Penn Hotel. Herman L. Myers, state secretary of the Maryland-District of Columbia Aerie, said last night he plans to attend on a major committee appointment.

Other local members who plan to drive to the convention next week are Robert E. Danner, designated delegate from the Cumberland Aerie; John L. Farrin, past worthy president, who will attend on a minor committee appointment; Thomas J. Hopwood, and Charles W. Robinette, past worthy presidents, and Waverly F. Rice, past state president.

Myers said the wives of the members will acompany them to the convention.

Among the highlights will be the "Sports Night" banquet slated for Thursday, July 26, and the "State Breakfast," which will be held on Saturday. Howard G. Dressel of Baltimore will be in charge of the arrangements for the breakfast.

$9,864 Spent Last Year In Heart Service

Association Issues Breakdown Of Costs

A report of the operation of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association for the year ending June 30, has been completed by the board of directors and shows that a total of $9,864.48 was expended in the two counties for heart services.

Funds were expended for salaries for the executive secretary and visiting nurse, office rent, purchase of medical and hospital supplies which are loaned to heart patients, general administration, rehabilitation, education and bicillin.

The association has a total of 74 rheumatic fever patients who are supplied bicillin daily without charge, as prescribed by physicians. This bicillin, the one drug which controls and prevents recurrences of rheumatic fever, is one of the most important activities of the heart program. Officers of the association, in a study of the case histories involved, claim that untold suffering has been prevented, rheumatic fever patients are on the road to good health, and in some instances, lives have actually been saved.

Direct Benefits

While the program is an expensive one, it is felt it is one of the most direct benefits the heart program has to offer.

Under community service, the report shows that $2,747.51 was expended in various services, most of which are rendered in the homes of heart patients at the request of each patient's personal physician.

Under the heading of education, the association is charged with keeping area physicians informed of all developments in the cardiac field, as released by the American Heart Association and the Maryland Heart Association. This education program for professional people was carried on at a cost of $414.16, involving largely mailing of information and by personal contacts.

Under public education, the association spent $807.68, which involved films, literature and other materials for schools and various civic organizations.

Rehabilitation Program

The association, under its rehabilitation program, expended funds for travel required in transporting patients to Baltimore for study and care under this program. The association records show that four men with heart conditions, after being checked by a work reclassification unit, have been returned to gainful employment, taken off relief rolls, and have been placed in jobs they can do without danger to their heart or heart condition.

Funds were spent for rent, office expenses such as stationery, printing, telephone and postage. These items total $908.73. Salaries and wages amounted to $2,913.16. Expenses of the fund campaign, including purchase of material, literature and postage, totaled $707.94.

The report notes that as services increase, and demand for more home care and broadened education advances, cost of operations continue to rise. Heart officials said indications are that in the fiscal year just getting under way, the operation of the program will be 25 per cent greater than in the fiscal year just closed.

School Board Office Will Be Cleaned

Workmen from the Joseph J. Graciano Company of Pittsburgh will begin cleaning the Allegany County Board of Education building on Washington Street later this week after finishing the sandblasting and waterproofing of First Presbyterian Church.

The brick on the Board of Education property will be steam-cleaned, the foundation will be sandblasted and the whole building will be waterproofed. This job is supposed to take about two weeks. Work on the Presbyterian Church took nearly a month.

The Pittsburgh firm today is scheduled to finish sandblasting and waterproofing the South Branch Valley Bank building in Moorefield. Last year the same company cleaned the Second National Bank and Liberty Trust Company buildings.

Motor Overheats

Central Fire Company was called to the D. A. Langer grocery store at 505 North Centre Street at 4:30 p. m. yesterday when a motor in a deep freeze unit overheated. Damage was confined to the motor.

Plan To Limit Site Of Federal Court Killed

Sen. Butler Has Item Eliminated

At the insistence of Senator John Marshall Butler, a provision which would have prevented the United States District Court for the District of Maryland from sitting in Cumberland and Denton was stricken from the Omnibus Judge Bill, S. 1256, in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senator Butler reported that, working in close cooperation with Rep. Edward T. Miller, he persuaded fellow members of the Senate Judiciary Committee on Tuesday to strike the provision affecting Cumberland and Denton from the bill.

"In the absence of an overwhelming expression of preference by the practicing Maryland Bar for such a limiting provision, I felt compelled to oppose it," Senator Butler reported, adding:

Urges Flexibility

"For some time now, Mr. Miller and I have been doing everything in our power to see to it that no legislative steps are taken which would give any Marylander — no matter where he lives throughout the State — a reason to feel that the United States District Court of Maryland was in any way, shape or form confined to Baltimore City.

"After all, this great court is Federal in nature. It is, and should continue to be, able to sit in places other than Baltimore City when the ends of justice require that it do so."

Provision that the U. S. District Court could sit in Cumberland and Denton, when needed, was one of the original stipulations in the law which set up the court, it was recalled here.

The session marked the first time since 1937 that the district court had convened in Cumberland for a jury trial, although a non-jury case was held here in 1939.

Judge Is Willing

News of the move to strike Cumberland from the facilities of the court was a surprise to attorneys here.

Former Attorney General William C. Walsh last night recalled that Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, in opening the McGeady trial, stated the court would be glad to convene here again any time it is needed.

It was pointed out that the proposal might have originated as an economy move.

No economies would result, as the court recently sold its furniture in its quarters here to Allegany County, and for some time has not maintained a deputy clerk here.

Interest Shown In City Fire, Police Tests

Thirty-five applications have been issued by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery for tests planned by the Civil Service Commission for the positions of policeman, fireman and draftsman.

Ullery said 19 application forms have been taken out for police tests, and five of them have been returned. Fifteen applications for tests for firemen have been secured and four returned, and one application has been secured for the draftsman's test.

The commission will meet Monday at 7 p. m. in its office at City Hall to check the applications.

The date for the tests probably will be set at this meeting, according to Ullery, who is secretary of the commission.

Another Fair Day Promised

The weatherman last night promised partly cloudy skies for today and the temperature is expected to go into the low 80s.

Yesterday the temperature reached an unofficial high of 82 degrees about 12:30 p. m. and during the afternoon the thermometer registered about 80. By 9 p. m. it had dipped to 70 degrees, indicative of good sleeping weather.
